THE PATH THE CALF MADE.

BY SAM WALTER FOSS.

One day, through the primeval wood,
A calf walked home, as good calves should;
But made a trail all bent askew,
A crooked trail as all calves do.

Since then two hundred years have fled,
And, I infer, the calf is dead.
But still he left behind his trail,
And thereby hangs my moral tale.

The trail was taken up next day
By a lone dog that passed that way;
And then a wise bell-wether sheep
Pursued the trail o'er vale and steep,
And drew the flock behind him, too,
As good bell-wethers always do.

And from that day o'er hill and glade
Through those old woods a path was made;
And many men wound in and out,
And dodged, and turned, and bent about
And uttered words of righteous wrath
Because 'twas such a crooked path.

But still they followed—do not laugh—
The first migrations of that calf,
And through this winding woodway stalked,
Because he wabbled when he walked.

This forest path became a lane,
That bent, and turned, and turned again;
This crooked lane became a road,
Where many a poor horse with his load
Toiled on beneath the burning sun,
And traveled some three miles in one.
And thus, a century and a half
They trod in the footsteps of that calf.

The years passed on in swiftness fleet,
The road became a village street;
And this, before men were aware,
A city's crowded thoroughfare;
And soon the central street was this
Of a renowned metropolis.
And men two centuries and a half
Trod in the footsteps of that calf.

Each day a hundred thousand rout
Followed the zigzag calf about;
And o'er his crooked journey went
The traffic of a continent.
A hundred thousand men were led
By one calf near three centuries dead.
They followed still his crooked way,
And lost one hundred years a day;
For such reverence is lent
To well established precedent.

A moral lesson this might teach,
Were I ordained and called to preach;
For men are prone to go it blind
Along the calf paths of the mind,
And work away from sun to sun
To do what other men have done.

They follow in the beaten track,
And out, and in, and forth, and back,
And still their devious course pursue,
To keep the path that others do.
Who saw the first primeval calf!
Ah! many things this tale might teach,
But I am not ordained to preach.

QUAY COMPLETES GRIP ON SENATE.

Test Vote on the State Local Bill Shows that Republican Majority Is Powerless.

NOW TALK OF COMPROMISE

New Mexico and Oklahoma May Be Admitted and Arizona and Indian Territory Kept Out.

STATEHOOD BILL—Senate by vote of 37 to 27 refuses to sidetrack omnibus statehood bill; vote proves Quay's control of situation in defiance of republican majority and the administration.

NAVY—Navy department will send 400 marines to the Philippines Feb. 1 to take places of men whose terms have expired.

[BY RAYMOND.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—On the surface at least a sensational test vote in the senate this afternoon seems to indicate that Matt Quay has the republican majority generally and the administration specifically fast by the throat. Up to date the Pennsylvania boss shows no sign of weakening, and if he maintains his strangle hold a few days longer there seems to be no doubt that he can pass the omnibus statehood bill just as it came from the house.

There was a direct test today when the senate by a vote of 37 to 27 refused to sidetrack the statehood bill even temporarily for the sake of considering the Cuban treaty in executive session. An examination of the vote shows that there were eleven republicans, not counting Wellington, who voted with the democrats, under the leadership of Mr. Quay. Penrose of Pennsylvania and Mitchell of Oregon were paired for the statehood bill, so that altogether there were thirteen republicans who have combined with the democrats, forming a clear majority of the senate up to date.

These are Burton, Clark of Wyoming, Foraker, Gallinger, Hansbrough, Jones of Nevada, McCumber, Mitchell, Mason, Perkins, Penrose, Quay, and Stewart. The twenty-seven votes against the omnibus statehood bill were cast entirely by republicans, and with them are twelve others, so that on this issue there are altogether thirty-nine republicans opposed to the statehood bill and thirteen for it. This puts the party on record against statehood for the three territories by more than a two-thirds vote.

Practically all of the republican leaders, including men like Aldrich, Allison, Fairbanks, Hanna, Spooner, and Cullom, are opposed to Quay. Nevertheless, the republican leaders are for the time being undoubtedly beaten, and Mr. Quay has behind him enough votes to defeat Cuban reciprocity, anti-trust bills, immigration, bankruptcy, and all other measures. He is in a position to dictate legislation in the senate, and he has openly defied the republican steering committee to force him from this position.

Quay takes the ground that the omnibus statehood bill has never been passed upon by a caucus, but that on the other hand it has been favorably acted upon by the republican national committee. Having assumed this position, and there having actually been no caucus, Quay has been enabled to attract to his side some substantial republican senators like Foraker of Ohio and Perkins of California, who would not have followed him in an open vote against the republican caucus.

Senator Beveridge and the other leaders who are conducting the fight against Quay do not even yet admit they are beaten. They assert that several of his republican votes went to Quay only to prevent action on the Cuban treaty, but it is evident that there were not enough of these men to affect the final result.

While Mr. Beveridge and his coadjutors will not admit defeat, there is a growing belief that the result will be a compromise. Quay will probably accept the admission of New Mexico and Arizona as one state and Oklahoma as another. The difficulty is, that his democratic allies, who believe they see a chance to make six democratic electoral votes in the southwest to four for the republicans in Oklahoma, will not consent to this compromise.

It was finally suggested tonight that it might be possible to admit as separate states New Mexico and Oklahoma, leaving Arizona and Indian Territory still outside the sisterhood of states. New Mexico has enough population to entitle it to a representative in congress, and it also has many of the elements of statehood, with possibilities for the future not present in Arizona.

The result of this compromise would be probably to give the republicans two senators and two representatives from Oklahoma, and the democrats two senators and one representative from New Mexico. This would be a slight republican gain in electoral votes, but the democrats would still have the opportunity of securing statehood later on for Arizona. This latest compromise scheme finds favor more than any of those which have preceded it. Quay would jump at this proposition, and negotiations have already been started to induce his democratic allies to accept this solution of the problem. They are being told that if they insist on statehood for the two greaser territories the result will almost certainly be a veto, and therefore that they ought to take New Mexico now and plan another campaign for Arizona. If the democrats will accept this compromise, the republican leaders will be glad to offer it, and they will be in a position to guarantee presidential approval.

Mr. Jules Bonefoe, chancellor of the French embassy, has gone to St. Louis to remain until Jan. 25. He is making arrangements for the French government's exhibits at the exposition.

Reports have been received here from time to time that Dan Hogan would be pressed again for appointment as collector of internal revenue for the southern district of Illinois. He was recommended before by the state administration and the president was inclined to appoint him, but did not do so largely because of the determined opposition of Senator Cullom. Letters received here from Illinois convey the impression that Gov. Yates and Lorimer have determined to

RAISES PAY OF TEACHERS.

ADVANCE OF $50 A YEAR TO ALL IN ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS.

Total Added to Salary List Reaches Half a Million a Year—High School Instructors and Other Employes of the Board of Education Have Their Wages Restored to Figure in Vogue Before the 5 Per Cent Cut of Last Year.

A salary increase amounting to an aggregate of nearly half a million dollars a year was granted to the teaching force of the Chicago public schools by the board of education last evening. Of this sum $280,000 will be received in advances by the grade and primary school teachers.

The salary of every teacher of these two classes in the system was raised $50 a year. The salary of every head assistant is raised $50 in addition to the regular schedule advances. Furthermore, every teacher who passes the promotional tests given by the board will be entitled to an additional increase of $50 a year.

The salaries of all principals, high school teachers, and department and district superintendents, as well as of all engineers and janitors in the service, were returned to the old salary schedule which was in force prior to the 5 per cent reduction of last year.

Ten Thousand for Cooley.

By the new arrangement Superintendent of Schools Edwin G. Cooley becomes the highest salaried employé of the board, his yearly salary being increased from $7,000 to $10,000.

The sweeping increase in salaries was made through the adoption of the annual report of the finance committee. In the apportionment of the available school funds for the year 1903 the board set apart for educational purposes a total of $7,082,074, as against $6,344,201, the sum devoted to the same purpose last year. The fund for building purposes was reduced by the new apportionment from $4,017,780 to $3,197,567.

Schedule for Head Assistants.

SECOND GROUP.

First year of service	$ 950
Second year of service	1,000
Third year of service	1,050
Fourth year of service	1,100

FIRST GROUP.

First year of service	$1,125
Second year of service	1,150
Third year of service and subsequent years	1,175

Promotions to the position of head assistant are hereafter to be made only from the first group of elementary teachers, and they shall be paid salaries of the schedule for the first group of head assistants. Those teachers who were reduced by the board of education at the end of the school year 1901 from positions of head assistants may be again appointed to those positions as they become vacant.

In Grade and Primary Schools.

The schedule of salaries of elementary (grade and primary) school teachers was fixed as follows:

SECOND GROUP.

	Primary.	Grammar.
Second year	600	600
Third year	625	675
Fourth year	700	725
Fifth year	750	775
Sixth year	825	850
Seventh year and after	850	875

FIRST GROUP.

First year	$ 900	$ 925
Second year	950	975
Third year and after	1,000	1,000

Irrespective and independent of this schedule all elementary school teachers will at once receive a $50 increase.

More in Eighth Grade.

It is provided that eighth grade teachers of the second group shall receive $900 a year, and eighth grade teachers of the first group $25 more a year than the schedule of salaries of the first group of elementary teachers, according to their years of service. Teachers in charge of branches of four or more rooms which are located more than half a mile from the main school building are to receive $75 a year in addition to their regular salary.

The salaries paid to kindergarten teachers was increased from $60,000 to $157,000. The increases in the salary accounts of other departments follow:

High schools, from $440,000 to $490,000.
English High and Manual, from $37,000 to $45,500.
Physical culture, from $10,400 to $11,800.
Normal school, from $52,700 to $54,275.
Manual training in grammar schools, from $28,300 to $32,500.
Compulsory education, from $16,500 to $19,750.
Parental school, from $13,000 to $20,000.
Household arts, from $9,300 to $13,000.

Twenty-one Evening Schools.

The apportionment provides for the maintenance during the coming year of twenty-one evening schools during five months of the year, for which $90,000 is appropriated. Four thousand seven hundred dollars is set aside for scientific pedagogy and child study and the salary of the head of this department is fixed at $2,000 a year and that of his assistant at $1,500 a year. The apportionment for kindergartens contemplates the addition of twenty kindergartens to the school system to be opened after Sept. 1, 1903. Provision is made for the purchase of additional supplies for the physical culture department, for the employment of twenty truant officers, for a number of additional members of the normal school faculty, and the employment after Feb. 1 of twenty-five additional manual training teachers.

Sanitary Plumbing in Schools.

Provision is made for the installation of sanitary plumbing in all the schools and for the replacing of furnaces by modern heating and ventilating plants in a number of the old school buildings. Funds for this purpose will be taken from the permanent improvement fund.

BIG FIRE IN STOCKYARDS: LARD PLANT BURNED DOWN.

At 3:30 o'clock this morning the fire was under control and the damage to property estimated at $100,000.

The fire started in the lard refining department of the concern, which is on the ground floor of the main building at Transit and Packers' avenue, in almost the center of the yards.

The plant of the Continental company is almost entirely included in the building where the fire started. It is a three story brick building, facing 900 feet on Packers' avenue and 600 on Transit avenue. The canning and other departments are located on the two floors above.

GERMANS ATTACK FORT SAN CARLOS

VILLAGE IS IN FLAMES.

Kaiser's Guns Unable to Silence Castro's After Four Hours of Furious Bombardment.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MARACAIBO, Venezuela, Jan. 21, 2 p. m.—The German flagship Vineta, with the cruisers Panther and Falke, opened a furious bombardment on Fort San Carlos, commanding the entrance to Lake Maracaibo, at 10 o'clock this morning. The guns of the fort replied with vigor.

The cannonading between the fort and the fleet has been incessant since it began and is still in progress.

The village of San Carlos is in flames from the shells thrown to the mainland from the German warships.

Firing Heavy on Both Sides.

A correspondent in a rowboat approached to within three miles of the fort at noon. The roar of the guns was terrific. The Panther appeared to be not more than 500 yards from the fort. Its guns were being fired as rapidly as possible.

The fort could not be seen for the clouds of smoke, but it was plain that the Venezuelan gunners were answering the German fire splendidly and with great rapidity.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon an explosion occurred, apparently in the fort, and a cloud of smoke covered part of the ramparts. A number of Indian fishermen were intercepted fleeing from the direction of the fort in their dugout canoes. They reported that the smoke seen was from the burning village of San Carlos.

The shelling of San Carlos has created much excitement among the German residents of this port, who have protested against the action of the warships.

Another Report Via Caracas.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

CARACAS, Jan. 21.—The bombardment of Fort San Carlos at Maracaibo, which resulted in the defeat of the German gunboat Panther on Jan. 17, was resumed at 10 o'clock this morning by the Panther, which was reinforced by the German cruisers Vineta and Falke.

When the news reached here at 2 o'clock this afternoon the bombardment was still going on furiously. It was reported that the fort was making a gallant defense, and was returning the heavy German fire with no sign of cessation, although the fort had suffered terribly.

Many of the shots from the German warships had reached the mainland, where they did terrible damage.

Popular Feeling Inflamed.

Popular feeling in the capital and elsewhere is inflamed over this new outrage on the part of the Germans.

The government and the people generally are anxiously watching the negotiations of Minister Bowen with the representatives of Germany, Great Britain, and Italy at Washington. Much of the anxiety is caused because owing to the blockade provisions are dearer and will soon become scarce. The people are suffering other inconveniences already. The streets of Caracas are no longer lighted at night, except the Plaza Bolivar, where a few electric lamps are kept burning.

The revolutionary force under Gen. Riera, which attacked Coro last Monday, was obliged to retreat, leaving thirty men killed and 115 wounded behind, as well as many prisoners and a considerable amount of arms and baggage in the hands of the government forces. The government forces lost only twelve in killed and wounded.

Not Relished in London.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Jan. 22, 3 a. m.—The news of the second bombardment of Fort San Carlos reached London too late to be printed in the papers of this morning. It is believed that the aggressiveness of the German naval officers will greatly increase the difficulties of the situation.

Berlin Waits for News.

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—The navy department here remains silent about the bombardment of Fort San Carlos at the entrance of Lake Maracaibo by the German cruiser Panther, averring that no report on the subject has been received.

Bowen's Note to the Powers.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Raising of the blockade is Venezuela's condition precedent to the formal institution of negotiations with the powers for a settlement of their claims. Minister Bowen has presented this proposition to the representatives of the allies here, and it has been cabled to the foreign offices at London, Berlin, and Rome.

It is understood that in asking that the blockade be lifted, Minister Bowen let it be understood that he was in a position to offer suitable guarantee for the payment of the just claims of the allies.

It is expected the reply of the powers will be in the nature of a counterproposition that Venezuela agree to a settlement of the claims arising from injuries done to foreign citizens in Venezuela.

It developed today that Minister Bowen's powers include jurisdiction over the claims of all foreign countries, Castro having authorized him to negotiate through the representatives at Washington with all the powers having claims against his country.

IMPERIALISM STIRS CLUB.

UNION LEAGUE ELECTION DEPENDS ON THE ISSUE.

E. A. Bancroft, Regular Nominee for President, Objected To Because of Formerly Expressed Views Against the Government Policy in the Orient—Opposition Ticket Put Up Headed by La Verne W. Noyes—Contest Will Be Made on National Question.

The ogre of anti-imperialism is taking a part in the election of officers of the Union League club. Not within the memory of the oldest member has so much trouble been caused by any other political monster. Opposition, which is described by one member as amounting to indignation, has developed to the candidacy of Edgar A. Bancroft for president because of his pronounced views antagonistic to the policy of the government in acquiring and retaining the Philippine islands.

In epitomizing their protest against Mr. Bancroft's aspirations to the presidency the members of the opposition point to that motto in the words of Rufus Choate which is inscribed above the clubhouse fireplace:

"We bind ourselves to no party that does not carry the flag and keep step to the music of the union."

"A member of the Union League club," said a man who called attention to the motto, "may be a republican, a democrat, or a populist, but we expect him to adhere to those principles."

Mr. Bancroft Explains Views.

Mr. Bancroft has been absent for several days attending the session of the state civil service commission at Springfield, and it developed last night that he was in ignorance of the different moves in opposition to his candidacy. He was of the opinion that an explanation of his views would clear the political atmosphere.

"My main criticism four years ago was the lack of definite policy on the part of the government. Now that the administration has taken an unequivocal stand I am ready to stand by President Roosevelt in his expression of policy for the future of the islands. I am for relinquishing the Philippines eventually. It cannot be done now, but the president predicts their freedom when the inhabitants have been taught to govern themselves. Senator Hoar has gone further than I ever did in this matter. In fact, he has expressed my views much better than I could myself. I don't wish to be understood as criticising the administration. If any members of the Union League club want to make an issue of this question of anti-imperialism why did they select Senator Hoar to deliver the Washington birthday address?"

Regular and Opposition Tickets.

The ticket which is under fire is:
For president—Edgar A. Bancroft.
For secretary—Frederick Greeley.
For treasurer—Thomas P. Phillips.
For committee on political action—Horace K. Tenney, Clinton B. Evans, Joseph E. Paden.

The result of the counter movement was the posting of the following list of candidates:
For president—La Verne W. Noyes.
For secretary—E. Allen Frost.
For treasurer—George F. Orde.
For directors—Edson W. Lyman, Will J. Davis, and Oliver Sollitt.

Speeches of Mr. Bancroft Quoted.

Mr. Bancroft, whose character and ability are praised even by his opponents, was a prominent exponent after the close of the Spanish-American war of anti-imperialism. He made several speeches, especially one at Indianapolis, in which he expressed his chagrin at the policy which the administration was pursuing. These utterances at the time evoked some criticism, but for the last year little attention had been directed to the matter.

After the nominating committee, of which John S. Miller was chairman, met two weeks ago and made up the ticket headed by Mr. Bancroft, anti-imperialism suddenly became again the topic of the hour.

A rumor circulated in the club yesterday that the agitation had increased so that the nominating committee had been forced to recognize it and would meet to consider rescinding the nomination. This was later denied by Chairman Miller.

Mr. Noyes became a candidate on a petition signed by those opposed to Mr. Bancroft, and it is said that after the twenty-five names necessary for the nomination were secured over a hundred more were added. The election will take place next Monday.

"I think these stories are greatly exaggerated," said Mr. Miller last night. "I don't think the feeling against Mr. Bancroft is strong enough to defeat him."

HOLLAND BOAT CHARGES INVOLVE PROMINENT MEN.

Member of Naval Committee in House Says Investigation Has Already Revealed Exploiting Agency.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—"Every one of the allegations made by Representative Lessler of New York before the house committee on naval affairs yesterday to the effect that he had been offered money to vote for the Holland torpedo boat proposition before the committee has been amply sustained by reliable evidence before the subcommittee appointed to investigate the charges."

This statement was made tonight by a member of the subcommittee. The details of the investigation are kept secret. The report of the subcommittee, however, has been prepared and is to be presented to the naval committee tomorrow.

"There is no doubt that the disclosures made will result in a thorough investigation of the whole submarine boat exploitation agencies," continued this member of the committee, "and in my opinion it will kill all future legislation for submarine boats. This investigation will reach some of the great newspapers of the country, the owners of which are said to have some of the $7,000,000 worth of stock which has been issued by the Holland company.

"This stock was presented gratuitously, the only consideration being favorable news and editorial matter in the columns of the papers."

Lessler Reveals Names.

In a further statement before the committee today Mr. Lessler mentioned the names of ex-Representative Lemuel Eli Quigg of New York and John McCullagh, superintendent of elections of New York, in connection with what he termed the efforts to intimidate him to vote for a proposition to purchase submarine boats of the Holland type.

The name of the man who Mr. Lessler says offered him the bribe of $5,000, through his secretary, to vote for the purchase of the boats the members of the committee decline to divulge.

UNION TRACTION DELAYS ACTION ON FRANCHISE.

Asks and Obtains Two Weeks' Postponement by Council Committee of Extension Question.

WILL GO TO SPRINGFIELD

City Railway Company Probably Will Insist on Going Ahead a Fortnight Hence.

The Chicago Union Traction company yesterday secured a two weeks' postponement of council action on franchise extension. At the same time the fact developed that this corporation will ask legislation at Springfield lengthening the franchise period to seventy-five years. The Chicago City railway was ready to proceed and confer with the transportation committee, but deferred to the wishes of the other company for a delay.

A republican state senator, Mr. Mueller, yesterday introduced a municipal ownership measure in the legislature and it became evident that this bill will become a law.

City Railway Not to Wait Long.

If, as is not unlikely, the Union Traction company is not ready for negotiations with the council a fortnight hence, the Chicago City railway will proceed "on its own hook." Its representatives announced they were ready to abide by what the council might be willing to do under existing laws.

Local Developments of the Day.

The local developments of the day with reference to traction franchises centered in the meeting of the council's transportation committee at 2 p. m. in the city hall. Aside from the thirteen members of the committee, there were present the mayor, W. W. Gurley, representing Union Traction, and E. R. Bliss, representing the City railway.

After the formal request had been made by Mr. Gurley that the matter be postponed for two weeks, he added, speaking for Union Traction, that he could not promise that even then his company would submit its claims to the council. The whole matter would be in the hands of the "protective committee" with which the holders of stock in the Union Traction and its constituent companies had been invited to deposit their shares, and the decision of this committee would rule.

Mr. Gurley said he was confident that within a week the bulk of the stock of the Union Traction company would be in the hands of this committee. As to that of the other companies, the old North and West Side, he had no prediction to offer.

Moves Action for City Company.

Ald. Mayor made a motion that in view of the indefinite position of the Union Traction company the committee go on with consideration of an ordinance for the Chicago City at once. He called the Union Traction company a "sick baby," and said there was no reason why the residents of the south side should wait until it got well before getting better transportation facilities for themselves.

This was supported by the south side members on the committee and opposed by those from the north and west sides, and, the latter being in a majority of one on the committee, Ald. Mayor finally withdrew the motion, after Ald. Raymer had pledged himself to vote with the south siders if, at the expiration of two weeks, the Union Traction company still held back.

Ald. Mayor also suggested that, as a means of bringing the Union Traction company to time, franchises for the north and west sides be granted to the Chicago City company in addition to those on the south side. Asked if his company would go into such an arrangement, Col. Bliss said:

"I have never heard such a proposition discussed, but I do not imagine our company would refuse the whole city were it offered."

Deprecates Appeal to Legislature.

Also asked if the Chicago City company contemplated going to Springfield for legislative aid, Col. Bliss replied:

"It has never been discussed up to the present time. I assume the city council has authorized the expenditure of considerable money (for the Arnold report) to enable it to take this matter up intelligently with my company. I, for one, do not think it would be a graceful act at this time to appeal to any other forum, inasmuch as you gentlemen have given the matter as much consideration as you have."

"The press of this morning," said Chairman Bennett to General Counsel Gurley of the Union Traction, "has stated that it is the intention of the protective committee of your company to go to Springfield for the relief it seeks. I would like to ask whether that is the policy of this committee or whether it proposes to come to the city council of Chicago?"

Traction Plan Uncertain.

"I could not answer what may be within the scope of the committee's intentions," said Mr. Gurley, "but I infer that they would not ask me to appear here if they had not any intention of appearing before this committee. If they were going to Springfield that fact would not prevent their appearing before this committee."

"Is this committee representing the Union Traction company disposed to come before the council asking an ordinance?" asked Ald. Carey.

"The Chicago Union Traction company," answered Mr. Gurley, "last Saturday resolved to leave this matter to its protective committee. What I undertook to say was that I thought within two weeks we would be able to say whether we could go on before this committee."

Mayor Harrison was present during the meeting, but although invited refused to take any part in the proceedings.

Mr. Gurley's Formal Statement.

As soon as Chairman Bennett had called the committee to order Mr. Gurley read this prepared statement:

"As the members of your committee have doubtless learned from the daily newspapers, a protective committee has been formed and has called for the deposit of the shares of capital stock of the Chicago Union Traction company and of its constituent companies, the North Chicago Street railroad company and the West Chicago Street railroad company, represented by me, preliminary to the preparation and promulgation of a plan for a readjustment of the contract relations between these railroad interests and the municipality.

"These corporations consequently have determined, considering the high character of the committee and the announced plan of procedure, that it is to the best interests of the city and of the stockholders that they should, for the time being, postpone any attempt to solve this question by their own efforts. To that end, therefore, they have agreed not only that further negotiations shall be conducted by the committee, but also that they will accept any arrangement proposed by such committee which shall be assented to by a majority of the stockholders.

Praises Protective Committee.

"We think that the intervention of this committee is likely to be a helpful and successful agency for the solution of existing embarrassments, and that the delay consequent upon the promulgation of such plan will be more than compensated for by a prompt and wise settlement of the whole question.

"I am authorized to say to you, by the representatives of this committee, that, as soon as the requisite deposits shall have been made with it, its intention is to proceed with its work with all the speed possible, having due regard to the deliberation and investigation required by the vast importance of the questions involved.

"The high character of the men comprising the committee, who have consented to take from the exactions of their business engagements sufficient time to this end, should be a sufficient guaranty to us all that an important step in the right direction has been taken. In fact, it is my view that the attitude of the committee, as expressed in its call for deposits, must, to all who have read the communication, be a better and more forcible argument for the delay suggested than any words of mine."

Col. Bliss Discusses Delay.

Then Chairman Bennett turned to Col. Bliss, who said:

"Unfortunately for me perhaps no conservator has yet been appointed for the interests I represent, and I presume I must assume the responsibility. To delay this matter for a few days may possibly do no harm.

"As I understand it, a number of gentlemen eminently successful in their own lines of business who have agreed to take in hand the matter of the Union Traction company, and some of whom at least are vitally interested in the future welfare of Chicago, have requested you to postpone this matter.

"There are two reasons why perhaps I am not justified in antagonizing that today. One is that we all recognize that it would be much better for this committee, in treating with this question, to have the whole subject matter before it at the same time; the other is simply that of common courtesy, and therefore I shall abide by the action of the committee.

Wants Wait to Be Brief.

"But I want to say that I think an indefinite delay would be harmful; this matter has agitated this community now for a number of years; the public mind has been more or less occupied with the consideration of this question, and I think that now it has become settled that the public knows nearly what it thinks it wants and there seems to be a demand such as has not existed heretofore for the settlement of this question.

"We think the public is entitled to better service and that the time is about at hand when steps should be taken in that direction, and I want it clearly and emphatically understood here today that as far as the interests which I represent are concerned they are ready to take up this matter and attempt to adjust it with you, the representatives of the citizens of Chicago. That is our position. And with that, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I simply leave the matter of delay in your hands."

Mr. Gurley Asks Two Weeks.

Mr. Gurley was asked how soon his protective committee would be able to act, and he replied:

"That is difficult to say. The time fixed in the call for the deposit of stock is Feb. 15, but they are not obliged to wait for that, as the deposit agreement expressly authorizes them to proceed at any time when in their opinion they have sufficient stock to justify them. There will be no unnecessary delay and the matter will be expedited as much as possible."

Being asked if he thought his protective committee would be able to give an answer in a week, Mr. Gurley said no, but it might be able in two.

"How long a delay would the interests you represent be satisfied with?" asked Ald. Eidmann of Col. Bliss.

"To be specific," answered the Chicago City railway representative, "they are not satisfied with any delay. The shorter the time the better they will be pleased. They are ready to take the matter up at once. If they are not ready now, they never will be."

During this time Mayor Harrison had sat alongside the chairman of the committee smoking a pipe, and, turning to him, Ald. Bennett said:

"Have you any question you may wish to ask?"

"No, sir," answered the mayor, "I am here in response to the invitation of the committee."

"You are now invited to ask questions."

"I have no questions to ask."

Has No Ordinance Prepared.

Ald. Herrmann asked Col. Bliss if he had any plan which he would like to submit, and the latter replied:

"The officers of our company understand generally, I think, what is required of them, and they are ready to take those questions up and discuss them with the committee and arrive at a conclusion. If you mean have they any formal ordinance to lay down before this committee to ask them to pass upon, they have not. They expect that this committee will work out the problem after it has heard the company's side of the question."

Asked if this understanding agreed with the recommendations in the council report, Col. Bliss said: "I have never heard any serious criticism made upon it. Now, just let me say, gentlemen, I have no objection to going into a discussion of this question today. I simply want to keep absolute good faith here with the gentlemen representing the Union Traction company. As I understand it, they ask that this matter go over and that they should not be anticipated by a discussion of it here today. And I do not wish to appear here not opposing that request and at the same time ignoring it. Otherwise, I have no objection to answering any question that might be propounded."

Up to the Committee.

Ald. Herrmann wanted to know if the Chicago City railway would be willing to go ahead in a week irrespective of the action of the Union Traction company and Col. Bliss said:

"If the Union Traction company makes up its mind not to submit to this committee we think we should have a hearing. But we are in your hands, and until you deny us that hearing we still stand where we are and the responsibility is on you whether we have to appeal to any other forum or not."

In response to a further question as to whether this company would be willing to make a statement as to what rights it claimed under the ninety-nine year act Col. Bliss answered:

"I will say that whenever this committee desires to take up any of these questions, whether orally or in writing, we will meet you frankly upon every proposition and give you all the information in law or in fact we have in our possession, leaving you as the ultimate arbiter of any disputed point."

South Side Aldermen Object.

After Mr. Gurley had told the aldermen that he thought his company, through the protective committee, would be able to make a definite statement as to its position in two weeks, a motion to postpone action until that date was made. At this point Ald. Mavor took the floor. He first asked Mr. Gurley if his company would consider propositions for new loops in the business section irrespective of other matters if it was decided to go on with the Chicago City franchise alone, and the latter replied:

"I have no doubt our company would not give you any trouble on that score."

"Then," said Ald. Mavor, "as one of the representatives of the south side of the city, which the Chicago City railway company serves, amounting to about five-twelfths of the entire travel in the city of Chicago, represented here by a live company that is willing to go ahead, that has the money to go ahead with, that is ready to offer us all the facilities for which we have been aiming for several years, I protest against any delay in taking up this matter.

"If we cannot benefit the entire city on account of the inability of the company that serves the north and the west side, I cannot see any justice in stopping the south side people from getting the service which they are fairly and justly entitled to.

Case of "Now or Never."

"While I would like to take up the entire system and handle it all at the same time, it is apparent to me from Mr. Curley's statement that the Union Traction company will be in no condition to take it up with this council. If it is not taken up now it will be taken up at the end of the council and rushed through at the last two or three meetings in the middle of a political contest. It should be disposed of before that time or else postponed until after then. The company throws itself into our hands and says it is willing to take this matter up and see if it can be settled on a reasonable basis, and therefore the blame for delay will be thrown upon us. As one representative of the south side I am ready to take this matter up tomorrow.

"If Mr. Gurley would state positively that he is coming here instead of going to the legislature, there might be some encouragement to postpone action, but Mr. Gurley cannot give us that encouragement. Therefore, Mr. Chairman, I move that we take this matter up Monday and have continuous sessions here every day until the south side matter is settled."

Wants City Ownership Act First.

Ald. Maypole opposed the suggestion on the ground that he wanted the legislature to be given a chance to pass a municipal ownership bill first, and Ald. Minwegen, Raymer, and Werno opposed it because they were anxious to consider all traction matters as a whole and not piecemeal. Ald. Herrmann made the same argument with the addition that the subway question was to be considered and it concerned both lines. In fact, all the seven aldermen from the north and west sides spoke for delay, while the six south siders were anxious to go ahead with the Chicago City railway.

Of the latter Ald. Foreman raised the plea that it would be possible to consider such matters connected with the south side company as were not included in the dual interests in the business section, and Ald. Mavor added his suggestion that the Union Traction company being like a sick baby, a franchise for the whole city might be offered to the Chicago City company.

Being questioned as to whether this was possible, Ald. Mavor insisted it was. He said that under the ninety-nine year act the underlying title for most of the trunk lines on the west side was claimed for the Chicago City road and then Ald. Herrmann asked Col. Bliss if his company would accede to any such arrangement.

"Well," said Mr. Bliss. "This is the first time I have heard any such thing discussed. Of course, I would not stand up here and say we would not take the whole city if you gave it to us."

Then, with an understanding that if the Union Traction company was not ready in the two weeks it asked, the committee should go ahead with the Chicago City franchise, Ald. Mavor withdrew his motion and the session ended.

Mayor Ridicules the Meeting.

Mayor Harrison was disposed to ridicule the meeting of the committee after it was over.

"I never gathered so much information in the same time in my life," he said ironically, and then added:

"I will make a prediction: At the end of two weeks, either the Union Traction company will ask further delay or its answer will be the presentation of a bill to the legislature at Springfield, with ornate reasons therefor. I am absolutely positive that it will not be ready in two weeks to take up an ordinance.

"Do I favor giving a franchise to the Chicago City railway company to cover the whole city? We will cross that bridge when we get to it.

"But the meeting was nothing but scraps between south and west side aldermen, with an occasional bouquet for the City railway company. The aldermen said the Union Traction company's service is the worst in the country, and that the City railway's is the best in the city. That does not speak well for the City railway's service.

"I never saw so many bouquets thrown. Gurley would throw one at Bliss and Bliss would toss one back to Gurley. Then the members of the committee would throw bouquets at both. The only things that disturbed the harmony were Mr. Bliss' reference to the conservators for the Union Traction company and Mayor's talk about Mr. Gurley's 'sick baby.' Those things were only thrown in to put Mr. Gurley at his ease. I was there for an hour and thirty-five minutes and I have not been able yet to figure out what was done.

"If the committee gets up an ordinance for the City railway company, supposing the Union Traction company to refuse to come in, I would favor it on the understanding that the ordinance was not to be passed by the council until enabling legislation be had, and if the whole proposition is predicated on the understanding that prior to the ordinance becoming a law it must be approved by vote of the people. Franchise ordinances ought not to be passed until the terms have been submitted to the people for their approval. If there is no enabling legislation at Springfield before election the council ought to pass no ordinances before election."

OWNERSHIP BILL IN SENATE.

Carl Mueller Anticipates City Council's Trip to Springfield by Introducing Measure of His Own.

Chicago's city council may be saved the trouble of going to Springfield with its municipal ownership bill. State Senator Carl Mueller of this city yesterday introduced such a bill in the legislature, which is to be taken up by the republicans in both house and senate and passed as a party measure.

Under these conditions it would be sure of passage even if the democrats did not vote for it. The latter contingency, however, is not thought likely, as all of the Harrison wing of the party, at least, is pledged to the proposition.

It is possible that Mayor Harrison and his friends may oppose the bill on the ground it is not their creation and because of the fear that the passage of any such measure which is not stamped with the city hall trademark may have the effect of taking from the mayor some of his political thunder.

When asked about the Mueller bill yesterday Mr. Harrison said, with some sharpness:

"I know nothing about it." Nor did he care to discuss its provisions.

Provisions of Mueller Bill.

The Mueller bill provides that every city of the state shall have the power "to own, construct, acquire, purchase, maintain, and operate street railways within its corporate limits, and to lease the same or any part of the same to any company incorporated under the general laws of the state for the purpose of operating street railroads, for a period not longer than twenty years, on such terms and conditions as the city council shall deem for the best interests of the public."

"But no city," the bill continues, "shall proceed to operate street railways unless the proposition to operate shall first have been submitted to the electors of such city as a separate proposition and approved by three-fifths of those voting thereon.

"It shall be lawful for any such city to incorporate in any grant to a private company of the right to construct or operate street railways, a reservation of the right on the part of such city to take over all or part of such street railways at or before the expiration of the grant upon such terms and conditions as may be provided in the grant.

"No bonds shall be issued against the credit of any such city for the purpose of constructing or acquiring street railways, as in this act authorized, unless the proposition to issue such bonds shall first have been submitted to the electors of such city and approved by two-thirds of those voting thereon.

"In the exercise of the powers, or any of them, granted by this act, any such city shall have the power to take, hold, and acquire any and all necessary property and real estate, either by purchase or condemnation, in the manner provided by law for the taking and condemning of private property for public use."

Permits Certificates of Debt.

It is further provided if a city, from necessity or choice, does not care to issue bonds for such a project it may sell "street railway certificates," which shall under no circumstances become an obligation of the city, but which shall be payable out of and a lien on the revenues of the street railways, and these revenues shall be pledged for their payment.

In order to secure them a city may give a mortgage on all street railway property it may secure, and these mortgages may carry to the mortgagee, in case of foreclosure, a franchise to operate the roads for a period of not more than twenty years, after that date the roads to go into the possession of the person or corporation bidding in the property.

A foreclosure shall be permissible when default on interest on these railway certificates shall extend over twelve months, and on the mortgage sale the franchise as well as the property shall go to the highest bidder. No railway certificates shall be issued until a majority of the voters voting on the proposition have approved of them.

There are the usual provisions for examination and publicity of accounts, and the provision for the referendum on the proposition of a city going into the street railway business is as follows:

"This act shall not be in force in any city until the question of its adoption in such city shall first have been submitted to the electors of such city and approved by a majority of those voting thereon. The city council of any such city may by ordinance direct that the question of the adoption of this act in such city be submitted to popular vote at any general or special election."

GOVIN TO WATCH DETECTIVES.

Traction Promoter Employs New York "Fly Cops" to Shadow the Men Who Are Trailing Him.

An elaborate system of espionage will be inaugurated when R. R. Govin, the representative of J. Pierpont Morgan and the eastern stockholders of the Union Traction company, returns to Chicago today. Not only will he be shadowed by a small army of detectives, but the detectives will in turn be shadowed by other detectives, whom Mr. Govin employs for that purpose.

During all of last week, while Mr. Govin was in the city, he was watched at every step by detectives. No one seemed to know, who had employed them, but it was surmised the object was to find out whether Mr. Govin had any dealings with members of the city council. The situation was made more interesting when Mr. Govin employed detectives brought here from New York to keep a strict watch upon his watchers.

When he returned to New York last Saturday there were two Pinkerton detectives on the train to watch him and two New York detectives to watch the Pinkerton men. At the Pinkerton office it was admitted that detectives were employed to keep watch on Mr. Govin's movements.

UNION TRACTION STOCK DROPS.

Slump in New York Exchange Follows Sale of 6,000 Shares—Break Comes as a Surprise.

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—A weak feature of the trading on the stock exchange today was Chicago Union Traction. The stock declined sharply on the sale of 6,000 shares by the specialists. The buying came almost entirely from houses with Chicago wire connections.

The break following the announcement of the formation of a committee to unify the Chicago properties was a decided surprise, inasmuch as the action was generally regarded as a bull argument.

A vague report, which may explain the selling, was that an assessment might be levied in order to carry through the plan. This assessment, so it was said, would be for improvements to the property.

GAMBLING EASY IN CHICAGO: JAMES O'LEARY TELLS HOW.

Admits in Court That He Has Agents in All the Downtown Hotels to Accept Any Bets Offered on Horse Races.

There is gambling in Chicago and plenty of it, for James O'Leary has said so. The public generally believes that James knows. He is proprietor of the O'Leary clubhouse at 4183 South Halsted street, and was on the witness stand in Judge McEwen's court yesterday.

"Is it not a fact, Mr. O'Leary," asked an attorney, "that any one can go into any hotel in the downtown district and make a bet with one of your agents?"

"He can," the witness replied.

"These bets will be sent by your agent to your offices and will be recorded by you, will they not?"

"They will," O'Leary said.

The methods of the O'Leary headquarters were briefly explained to the court and jury.

"There are agents all over the city," continued O'Leary. "One man is responsible for the hotels, another for certain clubs. These agents appoint subagents, but I deal only with the one main agent, receiving his reports and holding him accountable. I know nothing about the identity of the subagents."

The case on trial was that of Frank Hogan and John Ferguson. They were charged with obtaining $900 from Pedro D. Martinez, a wealthy Cuban planter, by means of a confidence game in which he was to bet the money on a tip secured from one of O'Leary's agents.

The defendants were discharged, because it could not be shown by the prosecution that Ferguson was an agent of the man who represents O'Leary in the downtown hotels.

WOMAN SURPRISES ROBBER: PURSUES HIM IN STREETS.

Others Take Up Chase and Fugitive Is Run to Cover in a Barn Loft, When Police Arrive and Capture Him.

Pursued by a woman who had surprised him while he was robbing her home, a burglar jumped through a window and ran for several blocks yesterday, the woman keeping within hailing distance.

Others took up the chase and the fugitive finally was run to cover in the loft of a barn at Forty-fourth street and Emerald avenue. There he was held a prisoner until the arrival of the police, when he was taken to the Stockyards station.

It was Mrs. Annie Sommerman, whose unexpected return to her home at 4305 Fifth avenue put the robber to flight. She accompanied the police to the station, where it is said she recovered $100 worth of jewelry from the prisoner. The man gave his name as Mike Sage.

Burglars attempted to break into a safe in the Jewel Tea company's store at 643 East Forty-third street early yesterday, but were frightened away before they reached the cash box. They had broken off the handle of the safe door, drilled two holes by the side of the lock, and inserted a steel spike in an attempt to knock down the tumblers. There was $250 in the safe.

O'NEILL ASKS FOR MORE MONEY

Requests Increase of Nearly $300,000 in Appropriation for 1903 and Also Outlines the Force Desired.

Chief of Police O'Neill asks for $3,734,480 for 1903, or $296,932 more than was appropriated for 1902. He wants a force made up as follows: Captains, 15; lieutenants, 60; patrol sergeants, 106; desk sergeants, 135; patrolmen for one year, 2,380; patrolmen for less than one year, 420.

City Electrician Ellicott wants $1,560,369, an increase of $200,000. He asks $125,000 for gas lighting and mantles; $160,000 for rented gasoline lamps; and $70,000 for rented electric lamps. He asks $350,000 for street gas lamps.

Out of the $1,359,000 appropriated to the electrical department in 1902, the following items remained unexpended: Gas lighting, $288,973; extending municipal lighting plant, $200,000; removal of poles and wires from streets to be improved, $115,287.

Entertainment Given for the Poor.

An entertainment for the benefit of the poor was given last night in St. Charles hall, Twelfth and Cypress streets, by the St. Charles conference of the St. Vincent de Paul society. In addition to musical numbers a comedy entitled "The Littlest Girl" was presented. Bishop Muldoon made an address.

Northfield-Hermon Club Annual.

The Chicago Northfield-Hermon club will hold its midwinter social and annual election this evening at 264 La Salle avenue. W. R. Moody will make an address.

SPEEDY JUSTICE FOR COAL MEN.

Agreement by Which All of the Trials Will Be Completed Within a Week.

MAY CREATE A FAMINE.

Operators Talking of Retaliating by Boycotting the Chicago Market.

As a result of conferences held yesterday between the indicted coal men and State's Attorney Deneen, the trials of all the accused individuals and corporations will be ended within a week, which is expected to be a new record for speedy justice.

The retailers reached an agreement whereby they will be tried before the court on an agreed statement of facts either on Saturday or early next week. The trial of the corporations included in the Northern Illinois Soft Coal association will be taken up tomorrow and completed. While the negotiations between the prosecution and the Indiana men have not been completed, it is expected that the hearing of their cases will follow close on that of the retailers.

It is understood that the Indiana men have been offered the same conditions that governed the grand jury's action in recalling the indictments against the officers of the Illinois coal companies, and indicting the corporations only. The indictments against the individuals will be dismissed providing the corporations agree to a trial before the court on an agreed statement of facts.

Lawyers in Conference.

The Indiana men were represented at the conference by Attorney S. R. Hamill of Terre Haute, Former Judge R. M. Wing, and Attorney Hacker. Failure to agree on a statement of facts is said to have prevented the completion of the agreement, but at a further conference planned for Saturday it is expected the arrangement will be made. After the conference yesterday Attorney Hamill returned to Indiana for a further conference with his clients there.

Walter S. Bogle and the Crescent Coal and Mining company were represented by Mr. Wing.

The Illinois and Wisconsin officers and members of the retailers' association appeared in the Criminal court during the day and furnished bonds. The nine bonds aggregated $13,500 and were furnished by Delos Hull and Norman S. Birkland.

Attorney Samuel S. Packard made a formal motion to quash the indictments and this was overruled by Judge McEwen. Mr. Packard and the state's attorney then agreed on an arrangement by which the accused men will be tried before the court on an agreed statement of facts.

Talk of Boycotting Chicago.

But, despite the apparently amicable arrangement with Mr. Deneen, the coal men are said to be exceedingly bitter, and a boycott of the Chicago coal market is said to figure among the retaliatory measures now being considered by them.

"We don't have to sell our coal in Chicago," declared one indicted operator yesterday. "We are getting tired of the attacks to which we have been subjected. Chicago needs our coal more than we need its market, and the coal men are about reaching the limit of their patience under abuse and prosecution."

"Do you mean that the coal will be sent elsewhere?" was asked.

"I mean that we can sell to as good advantage elsewhere all the coal we can produce. I would not be surprised if some of the operators would take advantage of the offers elsewhere."

That the coal men are in a position to divert the coal supply from Chicago was shown by a member of the manufacturers' association, who said:

"A large consumer of hard coal who had been paying $8.50 a ton for his supplies called up his dealer a few days ago and asked for a large consignment of coal. The dealer told him he could have it at $12 a ton. When the customer protested that the price was excessive, the dealer replied that they could get that price for it in New York, and that he had orders to reship his coal to New York if Chicago consumers would not pay that price."

Other Ways to Retaliate.

Direct legal retaliation against the Illinois Manufacturers' association also is talked of, some of the accused coal dealers having declared in favor of seeking the indictments of prominent members of the association under charges similar to those that have been made against them. Others, however, say the manufacturers' association committee is more a subject for contempt than for vengeance. Among the latter is Walter S. Bogle, who, speaking for the Indiana operators, said:

"The Indiana operators have no knowledge of any conspiracy for the restriction of trade on the part of members of the Illinois Manufacturers' association. They have no intention of bringing any conspiracy charges before the February grand jury. They have expressed nothing but contempt for the coal committee of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, because, after inflaming public opinion with incendiary statements, it failed to furnish the grand jury with a single iota of evidence to maintain its charges. The grand jury's report clearly substantiates this statement."

One construction put on the whole matter is that the manufacturers have shifted the cost of attacking the anti-trust laws upon the coal man. For some time the manufacturers themselves have been fighting that part of the law which requires them to file an annual affidavit, stating that they are not in a trust. The litigation has been long drawn out and expensive and now it is "up to" the coal men to continue it.

RELIEF COAL IS RUNNING LOW.

Charity Stock Almost Exhausted and Cash Donations Are Practically All Expended.

The bureau of charities' stock of coal and cash is running low, and the same is true of the Salvation army and other charitable organizations. Yesterday the last of the coal purchased out of the mayor's fund was delivered.

The bureau still has 740 tons out of the 1,000 donated by Henry E. Weaver, but at the present rate of demand that will be exhausted in four days. Four carloads of coal donated by Mr. Weaver represents all the fuel the Salvation army has in sight.

The bureau of charities received $1,158 in cash yesterday, making its total fund $12,159. The mayor received $2,650, increasing his fund to $15,978. In the future all applications for fuel received by the police will be turned over to the bureau of charities.

CALL TO HULL HOUSE WORKER.

Jessie Luther Going to Colorado Fuel and Iron Settlement to Teach Spinning and Weaving.

Miss Jessie Luther, curator of the Labor museum at Hull house, has been engaged to spend a week at the settlement of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, Pueblo, Colo., teaching the families of employes the art of spinning and weaving. The concern, which employs several thousand men, is engaged in numerous projects for improving the lot of the workingmen, and for this purpose maintains a "sociological department," including a staff of instructors in various crafts. The company heard of the success of Miss Luther's introduction of the Italian methods of spinning wool and weaving, and immediately asked her to undertake to start the wives and daughters of their employes in the same kind of work.

BOY COAL PICKER IS SHOT

RAILWAY WATCHMAN PURSUED BY ANGRY CROWD.

William Stohmeyer, 16 Years Old, Probably Fatally Wounded While Hunting Fuel in Northwestern Yards — Police Find Assailant Locked in Office with 500 Citizens Outside Demanding Vengeance—Accused Says It Was an Accident.

Shot by a watchman while picking up coal yesterday in the yards of the Northwestern railway, William Stohmeyer, 16 years old, lies unconscious in the Alexian Brothers' hospital suffering from a wound which physicians say may prove fatal.

When the boy fell among the tracks with a bullet in his back an angry crowd gathered, and Martin J. Ward, the railway employe who fired the shot, fearing the threats, ran to the offices of the company at Diversey boulevard and Lincoln street and locked himself in.

Thither he was pursued by the crowd, and when the police arrived 500 excited persons were in front of the building demanding vengeance. When they had been quieted by the police Ward was taken away and locked up pending the result of the boy's wound.

Since the coal famine the Northwestern company's yards have been visited frequently by poor persons in search of coal, and special watchmen were employed to guard the cars.

Shot by the Watchman.

Young Stohmeyer went to the yards shortly before noon from his home at 518 Wolfram street. He carried a sack, and, according to witnesses, was putting coal in it from the tracks when he was seen by Ward. Then the boy ran. Several persons heard the shouts of the watchman and say they saw him pursuing the boy. A shot was heard by many residents and they rushed from their homes.

After the boy had fallen, wounded, Ward approached and was stooping over him when he looked up and saw the crowd coming toward him. He turned and ran to the office. A few persons stopped to care for the lad.

Capt. Schuettler and Policemen Nicholson and Fleming of the Sheffield avenue station responded to a call in a patrol wagon and found Ward locked in the building. He opened the door for the police, who then turned and dispersed the crowd.

Ward Says It Was an Accident.

On the way to the station Ward declared the shooting was an accident. He said he saw the boy on top of a coal car and ordered him to halt. The boy jumped from the car and ran. The watchman says he followed with his weapon drawn and that he stumbled and almost fell. The revolver accidentally exploded, he said, and the boy was struck in the back. The police say they have evidence that Ward deliberately aimed and fired at the boy.

Ward lives at 193 Belden avenue. He has been employed by the railroad company for some time and is said to have a good reputation.

Boy's Parents Grief Stricken.

Mr. and Mrs. Stohmeyer called at the hospital a short time after the shooting, but were refused admittance to the ward where their son lay because of the boy's condition. They were grief stricken and refused to be comforted. The family is said to be in destitute circumstances.

Coal Picker Accused of Larceny.

George Barth, 60 years old, 21 South Circle avenue, Oak Park, will have a hearing in Justice A. J. Kendall's court today on a charge of petit larceny. D. B. Pollard, foreman of the Delos Hull Coal company in Oak Park, will be the complainant.

Mr. Barth, who is said to be destitute, was picking up coal along the tracks of the Northwestern railway, when, it is alleged, Pollard used a club on him, cutting his head and assaulting him in a savage manner. Pollard was fined $10, and then charged Barth with larceny.

TOLEDO GRAND JURY INDICTS.

True Bills Found Against Six Officers of Toledo Coal Exchange for Unlawful Conspiracy.

Toledo, O., Jan. 21.—After an investigation lasting a week the Common Pleas grand jury today indicted the officers of the Toledo coal exchange on the charge of maintaining an alleged illegal combine to keep up prices for coal. The following were mentioned in true bills: William E. Pardee, president; Daniel D. Schenck, Lawrence Burkhart, and Anton Bueschen, first, second, and third vice presidents; Robert J. West, secretary; and Arthur Berman, treasurer. The report says that forty other persons are unlawfully engaged in the alleged conspiracy. The coal men were arrested this afternoon and gave bond.

Coal Train Raided in Brooklyn.

New York, Jan. 21.—A crowd of men, women, and children today attacked and captured a train of seven cars loaded with more than 200 tons of anthracite coal on the Long Island railroad in Brooklyn.

The train crew was helpless and was forced to stand by while the people filled their bags, baskets, carts, wheelbarrows, and even wagons. Many of those who took the coal say they are willing to pay for it.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Poetry has been invoked to get coal for a church in Dravosburg, which is opposite McKeesport. The congregation of the Amity Presbyterian church has appealed to all the residents of the borough, irrespective of their religious sentiment or denomination, to help them get coal. A "coal party" has been arranged for tomorrow night. The invitations are arranged in a verse of poetry printed on a card and are accompanied by a small sack in which the money for the coal is to be returned.

Indiana Legislators Seek Facts.

Tomorrow the governor will meet President Mitchell, the legislative committee, and prominent editors.

URGES BALLOTS IN PLACE OF GUNS

WAGE DEMANDS FILED.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—"Mother" Jones, the woman champion of the United Mine Workers of America, stirred their convention today by a speech denouncing the use of the pistol in labor disputes. She prophesied that the young trade unionists, who are growing up, would not know how to pull a trigger.

She suggested as a substitute the use of the ballot, and the anthracite men, who are considering political action to gain redress from conditions in the mines, applauded again and again.

All were surprised at the speech, for the "Little White Haired Mother" is not accustomed to touch upon such matters in her talks, fiery as they are.

"If I were a member of congress I would see to it that no pistols were manufactured in this country," she said. "I would see to it that no one carried them. They are of no use to the laboring man, for he does not need them. He has a pistol that can shoot down the president, congressmen, and governors, and that is the ballot.

Pistol to Go Out of Use.

"I believe that the young trade unionists of the country are not going to carry pistols. Instead they are going to wage a war for peace along peaceful lines.

"I sometimes believe that laboring men are dechying. They go into saloons and draw pistols and kill their fellowmen, but they won't fight at the ballot box, for there they are cowards.

"You old gray beards are going to see a new epoch. You have been crying that we are in a country without liberty, but you have not gone out and fought to get it. That you are going to do and you won't use pistols to get it either. We will shoot such men as Judge Jackson off the bench, and it won't be with a gun."

Wage Increase Demands Filed.

Interest of the day was divided between the talk of "Mother" Jones and the formal announcement by the bituminous miners that they want a wage increase, varying from 15 to 25 per cent, and that they expect to get it.

Resolutions embodying their demands were filed during the morning session and the scale committee promptly took them under consideration. Practically every important resolution introduced hinged on the wage problem. The sole object of the convention seems to be a solution of it, and all the delegates are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the operators next week, so as to have the matter come to a crisis.

The feeling prevails among the delegates of the 150,000 men to be affected that there never was a more opportune time than the present in which to make demands that will mean billions of dollars additional expense to the operators. The leaders believe that it will be years before bituminous coal drops in price to its old level, and on this supposition they base their new scale.

What the Miners Ask.

Spring Valley, Ill., 25 per cent increase in wages and a six hour day.

Burnett, Ind., 20 per cent advance in wages on the mine run basis.

Keb, Ia., 20 per cent increase in wages for men, and a 25 per cent increase for boys and outside and inside common labor.

Indiana, a limitation of the working hours of engineers to eight per day, with twelve hour pay.

West Virginia, 25 per cent increase on the mine run basis.

Several demands are made for time and a half, for Sundays and holidays, and some for double time.

The scale committee, of which W. H. Haskins, president of the Ohio district, is chairman, will frame up what it deems a just percentage and report. The representatives of the miners will present it to the operators, and the two parties will then consider in joint session. The scale committee frames only the demand to be made on the bituminous operators in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and the Pittsburg district of Pennsylvania.

The scales that are signed in the other twenty-four states, however, depend on the central competitive scale, which is the basis of settlement.

Home for President Voted Down.

A resolution was introduced during the day by an Illinois local to purchase a $10,000 home in Indianapolis for the residence of whoever might be president of the organization.

After a short debate this was voted down, for it was learned that President Mitchell does not wish such a project started.

Journal for Polish Miners.

A discussion arose over a proposition to establish an official journal, published in Polish. It was asserted by Vice President Lewis that there are over 45,000 nonunion miners who are unable to speak or read English, who would be organized if the paper were issued. He was supported by Patrick Dolan of Pittsburg, and it is probable that the paper will be issued.

The convention has decided to take some definite method of trying to get the injunction in labor disputes annulled by law. A committee, headed by Vice President Lewis and Secretary-Treasurer W. H. Wilson, has been appointed to devise ways and means.

SAYS MINERS WERE TYRANTS.

Strike Commission Chairman Censures Union for Refusing to Allow Boiler House to Be Built.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 21.—Chairman Gray enlivened the sessions of the coal strike commission today in commenting strongly on an incident where District President Fahey of the miners' union would not grant "permission" during the strike to erect a boiler house which was necessary to preserve a mine from damage.

The president of the commission said he hated tyranny, no matter whether it was practiced by an operator, a miner, or any one else.

John Murray, a union miner, said that there would be trouble in the anthracite region so long as the coal companies insisted upon paying the contract miners by the car instead of by weight.

The commission decided to devote an entire day to the consideration of the car and weight system.

Gilbert Jones, an assistant mine superintendent of the Temple Iron company, denied positively that a blacklist existed at the company's collieries. He admitted later he had issued orders to foremen not to employ as miners any of the men who were on strike at the Maltby colliery of the Lehigh Valley company.

Fred M. Chase, chief accountant of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, presented the wage statements of the company for 1901. Inside company men numbering 1,077 worked 269 days and earned an average of $509. The outside company men worked 290 days and earned an average of $503.

R. S. Mercur of the Lehigh Valley said that during the strike the miners compelled a man to cease hauling feed to mine mules. Judge Gray did not believe it until a letter showing that such a thing was ordered by a local union was shown him.

GREAT BOULEVARD SUBWAY PROJECT FOR CONNECTING NORTH AND SOUTH DIVISIONS OF THE CITY.

SUBWAY TO LINK PARKS.

SOUTH BOARD VOTES TO CO-OPERATE WITH NORTH SIDE SYSTEM.

Plan Now Fully Under Way to Provide a Boulevard Connection Under the River Between Pine Street and Michigan Avenue—Design for Structure Already Completed—Bond Issue of $2,000,000 Is Expected—Further Action Within Few Days.

A half mile subway, with entrances at Ohio street on the north and at Washington street on the south is offered by the Lincoln and South Park commissioners after joint action as the solution of the problem of communication between the north and south sides.

A bill authorizing a $2,000,000 bond issue containing a referendum clause will be prepared by committees from the two park boards and will be submitted to the legislature. Plans for the tunnel have been drawn by D. H. Burnham and are in the possession of the Lincoln park commissioners.

This proposed subway is to be elaborately constructed with a view to securing the highest ornamental beauty. It is planned to be of such a length that the grade will be slight, and in every detail it is proposed to make it free from the ordinary objections to tunnel communication.

Continuous Boulevard System.

With this subway the commissioners propose to give continuous boulevard connection between the north and south side parks and to free the residents of both sections of the city, particularly those of the north side, from the necessity of picking their way through a congestion of traffic in going from one district to another, or in reaching the business section of the city.

It is proposed to build the subway just east of Michigan avenue and under the river, passing under North Water, Michigan, Illinois, and Ohio streets, and coming out at Ohio street at the terminus of the Lincoln Park boulevard.

The project was undertaken first by the Lincoln park commissioners, and at a conference with the south park board at the Union League club last week a tentative agreement was reached. The south park board formally adopted a resolution yesterday providing for the draft of a bill for a bond issue. The members of the two commissions will hold another meeting Saturday afternoon to decide on further details.

For the issuance of the bonds the amount will be divided between the two park districts, the proportion being yet undecided.

Fix Status of Grant Park.

As a part of this subway project and as a part of another allied proposition—the extension of the south park system—the south park board will endeavor to make stronger its claim to jurisdiction over that portion of the Lake Front park from Randolph to Madison streets. This section of the park is needed for the subway construction. Owing to an error in the passage of the Grant park act there is a question concerning the jurisdiction of the park commissioners over that section.

The park extension project is being promoted by the Merchants' club. It is to ask the legislature for an act which will secure the use of submerged lands from the Lake Front park to Jackson park for park purposes, thus giving the south side ultimately a continuous park from Randolph street to the southern terminus of Jackson park.

Opinions of Park Officials.

"The subway has been under consideration by the Lincoln park board for some time," said President W. W. Tracy. "And now that positive action has been taken by the south park board the plans will go ahead. We believe that the subway project will appeal to the north side people as the only true solution of the communication problem. A viaduct would not offer a satisfactory solution. The proposed subway will be an elaborate and ornamental tunnel, which will not contain any of the objectionable features of ordinary subways."

"The south park commission is in favor of the subway project as against the viaduct," said President Daniel F. Crilly of the south park board. "We insist on an equal division of cost of construction and maintenance. The plans are all drawn and the matter can proceed right along."

"We do not want any temporary affair," said Henry G. Foreman of the south park board. "We want something which will be permanent and satisfactory, not only for the next few years but for the future."

More Delay for Small Parks.

Additional legislation will have to be secured to justify the issuance of the $1,000,000 small park bonds, in the judgment of the south park commissioners. They abandoned their former objections to the act authorizing the issue and yesterday attacked it from a new point. By a resolution adopted they decided that the act does not specifically authorize the sale of bonds.

The board happens to have $750,000 worth of bonds out now. It is argued that the act may mean that the commission is entitled to issue $275,000 additional, and thus raise its total bond issue to $1,000,000. Specific authority for the $1,000,000 issue is wanted from the legislature.

This action by the board has incensed the city special parks commission, who accused the board members of needlessly delaying the establishment of small parks on the south side.

"The upshot of the whole matter will be that the legislature will become tired of these tactics and refuse to have anything further to do with it," declared a member of the city commission. "The park commissioners no sooner get answers on one set of objections than they find others."

Snow Path Closed on Sunday.

The question of Sunday speeding on Drexel boulevard snow speedway was raised and the superintendent was instructed to stop it. The whole question of speeding on the boulevard was discussed, and some members of the board objected to it as an infraction of ordinances. Commissioner Best saved the day for the horsemen and the board merely put the ban on Sunday speeding.

SCHOOL BOARD IN TUMULT

Half a Dozen Talk at Once and Some of the Remarks Are Bitter — Frank Holly Suspended from Parental School and Tried by Committee Which Brings In "Majority" and "Minority" Reports Signed by Three Members Each.

A half dozen school trustees talking at once, exchanging sarcastic compliments and questioning one another's legal knowledge, was a feature of the meeting of the board of education last evening. Other business of the board is reported elsewhere. The particular matter which stirred up the tumult was this: Some of the trustees believed Frank Holly, a gardener at the Parental school, was drunk on Christmas eve, while others insisted he was as sober as the proverbial judge.

During the discussion which resulted from the reading by President Clayton Mark of a minority report of the buildings and grounds committee, which had tried the gardener on a charge of intoxication, preferred by Supt. MacQueary of the Parental school, the names Holly and Christmas were so closely linked that some of the trustees asked what had become of the mistletoe.

It all ended in the board refusing to allow Holly to return to work, although he had been acquitted at the trial conducted by the buildings and grounds committee.

"There won't be any trouble about the man going to work, no matter how many 'nays' are voted here," was the parting shot of Trustee Gallagher. "There's a civil service commission in this town which has greater powers than the board of education."

Started by President Mark.

The commotion began when President Mark casually remarked that he had received a minority report of the buildings and grounds committee on the trial of Holly, and that as there had been only six members at the trial, and three had signed the "minority" report and three the "majority," he thought a new trial should be had.

Trustee Gallagher, at once sprang to his feet and made a volley of objections, stating, as chairman of the buildings and grounds committee, that only five members of the committee had been present when the vote was taken at the trial. He said that Trustee Cameron, who, with Trustees Thorp and Thompson, had signed the "minority" report had left before the trial was over. That the three members who held Holly innocent constituted a majority and that their report should be taken as final.

"You cannot retry a man for the same offense!" he shouted. "I'd like to know where the president gets this power to veto the action of the buildings and grounds committee. What pretense have you to come here tonight and play with this thing?" he demanded, pointing his finger at President Mark. "This man Holly was found to be guiltless; he was given an honest trial and the business manager was duly instructed to permit him to return to work, but you went to the business manager and told him not to let him go to work. You overstepped your powers. We had affidavits to prove that Holly was not intoxicated. Mr. MacQueary may have been honest in making these charges, but he was mistaken."

Harris' Olive Branch Spurned.

Trustee Harris attempted to hand out the olive branch by declaring that as "three honest men had voted to acquit Holly and three equally honest men had voted against him" he was not clear as to which three constitute the majority, and urged that another trial be held, a public trial, if necessary. Tumult broke loose at this suggestion. During the hubbub a motion was made to give Holly a new trial, and Trustee Keating made a substitute motion demanding that he be permitted to go back to work.

President Mark took occasion to explain his position in the matter by declaring that the original suspension had been made at the instance of Supt. MacQueary, and that by the regular process the building and grounds committee had been asked to try Holly's case.

"I notified the civil service committee of his suspension," said Mr. Mark, "and did not know how to notify the commission as to the result of the trial, as no report was made to me.

"The only way I could have found out what that committee did would have been to go out in the corridors and listen to gossip. No information has come to me officially. I have not attempted to assume the veto power but merely to get the matter settled. When three members give me an adverse report I think I am warranted in bringing the matter to the attention of the board."

Much Changing of Employes.

Trustee Keating declared that there had been too much changing of employes at the Parental school, and asked President Mark if he had not received a letter acquainting him with the civil service law as a result of the frequent discharge of employes at the school. Mr. Keating declined to give the name of the writer of the letter, and Mr. Mark said that he could not say he had received one until he knew who the signer was.

Dr. Hartung took offense at the remarks of Trustee Harris regarding the honest members of the building and grounds committee, as he had not understood Mr. Harris to say that those who voted for acquittal were honest, and demanded that if Holly be tried a second time the trial be conducted by Mr. Harris' "honest" committee.

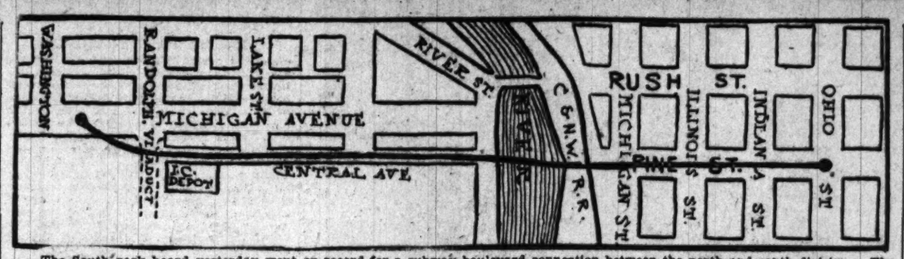

"I shall refuse to serve honestly on a committee only to be accused afterwards," he declared.

When the vote was taken eleven members declined to return Holly to work while four stood out for acquittal.

DEAD MAN GUARDS JEWELRY.

Aged Night Watchman Who Had Refused a Pension Expires While on Duty.

Too old to work and too proud to accept the pension offered him by his employers, Gustave Barder, 83 years of age, stuck to his post till he died in the harness. The aged man was night watchman in Hyman, Berg & Co.'s jewelry store, having been connected with the house since 1871. His body was found in the store yesterday morning. Some time ago Mr. Hyman offered to retire the aged watchman on full pay, but he begged to be allowed to continue in his duties.

The South park board yesterday went on record for a subway boulevard connection between the north and south divisions. The north end of the proposed tunnel will be at Pine and Ohio streets, the southern emergence will be at Washington street and Michigan avenue, the subway turning from Central court at Randolph street. The Lincoln park board originated the project, and the two commissions are expected to cooperate in the enterprise.

LOSES LIFE IN A FIRE.

WOMAN PERISHES AND OTHERS HAVE NARROW ESCAPES.

Blaze in the Oakenwald Building Causes the Death of Mrs. Elizabeth Irwin, Who Jumps from Third Story Window, While Fifty Tenants Have a Hard Time Reaching the Street—Musham's Men Carry Imperiled Ones Down Ladders.

Fire of an unknown origin in the Oakenwald apartment building, Forty-third street and Oakenwald avenue, resulted yesterday morning in the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Irwin, 60 years old. Fifty other tenants of the building had narrow escapes, many of them being carried down ladders by the firemen. The east half of the building was destroyed with a loss of $27,000.

When the fire was discovered the windows of the second story were filled with flames. Some man who was passing fired his revolver to attract the police and then hammered on the doors to arouse the occupants.

There was a wild rush for the stairways, as the building, which was three stories high, had no fire escapes. The halls were filled with smoke, and the half clad tenants stumbled blindly in their efforts to reach the street.

Mrs. Irwin, with her son, occupied a flat on the third floor. Both rushed to the hallway only to find it filled with flames, and then, going to a window fronting on Oakenwald avenue, Mr. Irwin threw some mattresses to the sidewalk in preparation for jumping. As he turned back to get another mattress his mother, who was on the window ledge, either jumped or fell, striking on her head.

Not a minute after Mrs. Irwin met death the first ladder company arrived, and Mr. Irwin descended in safety.

Thomas Stern, the janitor of the building, together with his wife, had rooms on the top floor. They jumped from the roof to an adjoining building and escaped uninjured.

Tells of Narrow Escape.

Pauline Copeland was among those who had narrow escapes. Her mother, Mrs. William Copeland, last evening said:

"I was half smothered and so confused that I fear I would have perished had not my husband pulled me down the stairs with him. How we ever reached the open air I do not know, for I did not come to my senses till I found myself standing barefooted in the icy street at the side of my husband, who was still carrying our unconscious daughter."

Fireworks in a Blaze.

Fire in the four story building occupied by the Pain Fire Works company, 17-19 River street, caused a damage of $20,000. Guests in the Muskegon hotel, in the rear of the burned building, dressed and left the place, as an explosion was feared.

Elevators Burn at McGregor, Ia.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., Jan. 21.—An early fire at McGregor, Ia., destroyed the large grain elevator belonging to the Spencer Grain company of Minneapolis and the Hunting & Gilchrist warehouse, together with 92,700 bushels of grain. Foreman Davidson of the elevator was probably fatally injured by an explosion of the boiler. The estimated loss is $100,000.

Two Big Fires in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Two warehouses owned by the Plankinton Packing company and William Grossman were burned today. The loss will reach $175,000.

FIRE AND WATER INJURE BOOKS.

Residence and Library of Robert B. Peattie Damaged $5,000—Neighbors Save Many Volumes.

Fire did a damage of $5,000 to the home of Robert B. Peattie, 7660 Bond avenue, yesterday. In the library of the house were 3,000 volumes, and 500 of these were damaged by water. The fire started in the basement, and, as the nearest fire company is several blocks distant, the flames had gained considerable headway before the arrival of the department. Of the damage $3,000 was to the building and $2,000 to the contents. Neighbors assisted the family in carrying books from the house, and many volumes were saved.

Infant Left in Building at 17 Harmon Court and Police Seek Its Parents.

A six weeks' old boy baby was abandoned in a barn at 17 Harmon court yesterday afternoon, and police are looking for the parents. Early in the morning a man was seen to enter the alley carrying a bundle wrapped in newspapers. An hour later the baby was found. It was taken to an orphan asylum.

LIFE LINE SAVES A CREW.

WAR VESSEL WRECKED ON BLOCK ISLAND MAY BE LOST.

Thirty-three Men Aboard Tug Leyden Narrowly Escape Death When Vessel Is Driven Ashore—Sea Sweeps Over the Decks and Rescuers Are Unable to Reach Boat for Hours—Breeches Buoy Used to Bring Sailors Ashore—Five Perish.

Newport, R. I., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The United States tug Leyden, en route from San Juan, Porto Rico, for Newport, ran on the south ledges at Block Island today and will prove a total loss, there being no hope of saving anything on board the vessel. It was only with difficulty that the members of the crew, thirty-three in number, were landed safely. The vessel was commanded by Lieut. Chester Wells and is permanently attached to the torpedo station.

One of the worst fogs that has been seen in this locality in years enveloped the coast this morning, and it was due to this that the Leyden was lost. The vessel was steaming at slow speed when of a sudden breakers appeared ahead. There was a high sea running and before the engines could be reversed the waves had lifted the boat bodily and landed it on the ledges. Lieut. Wells saw there was nothing to do but try to save his crew.

Seas Break Over Vessel.

The fog was so dense that one could not see twenty-five yards ahead, and in the position they were there was no way of the steamer letting the life savers on shore know of their position. The whistle was kept blowing and preparations made for the lowering of the small boats. By this time the seas were breaking completely over the Leyden and it was pounding heavily.

The boat was finally got over the side, and with a crew of nine men started for the shore, which they finally reached with much difficulty. It was then seen it would be impossible to return to the vessel, and word was immediately sent to the life saving station and the crews of both the New Shoreham and west side stations responded with their apparatus.

Breeches Buoys Are Used.

Life lines were shot over the vessel and finally the breeches buoys were sent out and the work of bringing the remainder of the crew ashore was begun. When darkness set in the work was about accomplished, and all were landed safely without an accident. The crew numbered thirty-three in all, the junior officer being Gunner James Donald of this city. The men saved nothing and were about exhausted when they reached the shore.

The Leyden was practically rebuilt some time ago at the Boston navy yard, and is looked upon as one of the best tugs in the naval service. It took an active part in the Spanish-American war, being on blockade duty, and figured in the capture of a blockade runner. The vessel was returning at the time of its running ashore from duty with the combined fleet under Admiral Dewey.

Although the fog has lifted tonight, there is still a heavy sea on, which will undoubtedly smash the wrecked vessel during the night.

Steamer Seabord Is Wrecked.

The steamer Seaboard of the Joy line, while on its regular trip from New York to Boston, put into Dutch Island harbor today owing to thick and heavy weather and in trying to make an anchorage ran upon the rocks on the south end of the island. The steamer was so badly damaged that it probably will be a total loss. The bow lies high out of the water, with the stern less than thirty feet from the lighthouse.

Five of Bark's Crew Perish.

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The barkentine Abiel Abbott, Capt. Hawkins, from Turks island, Bahamas, for New York with salt, stranded at Surf City, on Long beach, last night and five of the crew of nine were lost. Four, including the captain, were saved by the surf men.

The vessel struck at 8:10 p. m. Tuesday night. The crews from three stations went to its aid. Three lines were fired across, but the sailors were lashed in the rigging and could not reach the lines. The surf men could then only wait for morning. At 2 a. m. James Brandt, a seaman, dropped from the rigging into the sea, trying to swim ashore. He was drowned.

At daybreak the surf men launched a lifeboat. On their first trial they were driven back by the wreckage when about fifty yards from the vessel. The mizzen mast then fell, taking three men down with it, First Mate Pierce, Seaman Frank Carter, and Steward Charles Palmer. They disappeared in the surf.

Capt. Hawkins, Second Mate Butler, Seaman Otto Boag, and another seaman scrambled back on the deckhouse of the vessel, which was going to pieces, and floated off on the house. They were picked up by the lifeboat. Frank Lavin was picked up from pieces of floating planks. He was unconscious and died at the life saving station in spite of all efforts to save him.

STRENGTH OF MOOR ARMY

SULTAN HAS 25,000 MEN NOW IN THE FIELD.

English Drill Sergeant in the Employ of the Ruler of Morocco Tells of the Fighting Force Opposed to the Pretender—Natives Cannot Be Trained to Use of Artillery — Spend Much Time in Prayer After Firing Each Round.

TANGIER, Morocco, Jan. 21.—An English drill sergeant in the service of the sultan has given the following details of the composition of the sultan's army: He says the imperial forces total 25,000 men, including a shereefian body guard of 2,000 picked men, all of whom are armed with Martini-Henry rifles. Of the remainder 30 per cent are armed with imitation Martini-Henrys manufactured in Fez, and the balance of the sultan's soldiers carry old flintlocks and muzzleloaders.

The artillery consists of twenty breech-loading Kruppe, twenty-three muzzleloaders, twelve Maxims, and twenty-one other machine guns. It is almost impossible to train the natives to handle artillery, as they believe cannon to be the invention of the devil. The gunners spend much time in prayer after firing each round, while many of the natives refuse altogether to serve the guns.

The drill sergeant does not consider the sultan's situation to be desperate. He says that if the sultan can bring together his entire army before advancing the followers of the pretender are sure to desert and surrender in the face of an overwhelming force.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, Jan. 21.—Madianna Moroni, who claimed to have carried the pope in her arms when he was a baby, has just died in her 101st year. Her death was the result of an accident. She was sitting at her fireside alone when her clothes ignited. She was unable to call for help and was terribly burned. The pope received her in a private audience in October, and they were mutually delighted at seeing and talking with each other. The old woman subsequently said: "He is a fine old man, but he is not so well preserved as I." His holiness remarked after the interview: "She is frail looking for her years."

RADICAL LEADER IN REICHSTAG CRITICISES THE EMPEROR.

Eugene Richter Declares the Empire and the Crown Are Harmed by the Too Frequent Utterances of the German Ruler—Chancellor Von Buelow Defends His Majesty and Declares That Other Nations Would Like a Monarch Equally Strong.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—Chancellor von Bülow, replying in the reichstag today to an assertion of Eugene Richter, the radical leader, that the country and the crown itself were harmed by the too frequent utterances of Emperor William without consulting his ministers, said:

"In a constitutional state the leading statesmen must reckon with the individuality of the monarch. The stronger that individuality all the more is he inclined to influence the state's affairs, which does not always facilitate the statesman's official duties; but the strongly marked individuality of a ruler is a great advantage that cannot be underestimated. I have found many persons abroad that long for a monarch of accentuated personality.

"Nobody should blind himself against the grand lines in the character of our emperor. He has a free and unprejudiced mind, and there is nothing petty in him. Whatever you blame in him, he is no Philistine. If you wish to make attacks direct them against me."

The chancellor later, referring to the remarks of Herr Liebermann von Sonenberg, said he recommended Emperor William to receive the Boer generals if they sought presentation through the British ambassador, Gen. De Wet was accepted and then changed his mind.

Socialists in Angry Mood.

A sensation has been created throughout Germany by the action of the president of the reichstag in prohibiting a socialist member from criticising strong speeches against socialists delivered at Essen and Breslau. It is believed that there is a great deal more behind the Krupp affair than has been made public and that therefore official classes are most anxious that it shall not be brought up in the reichstag.

The socialist organ, the Vorwärts, publishes a powerful manifesto appealing to the German people, and the socialist committee has summoned thirty-one public meetings for this evening in the capital alone for the purpose of agitating the matter.

COSTLY RESIDENCE FOR TOWER.

American Ambassador to Berlin Expects to Pay More than Amount of Salary for House.

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—Ambassador Tower has nearly closed the lease of a stately residence on Koenigsplatz, near the reichstag building and overlooking the Thiergarten. The property belongs to the estate of the late Herr Prinzheim, the banker. It has two carriage entrances, is larger than the French embassy, and is smaller than the British embassy. The rent considerably exceeds the ambassador's salary, which is true also in the case of the American embassies at London, Paris, and St. Petersburg.

COLONEL LYNCH ON TRIAL

IRISH LEADER IN BOER WAR PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

English Court Takes Up First Case of Alleged Treason for Sixty Years, Reviving Ancient Ceremonies and Quaint Phrases in the Indictment—Lord Wolseley at Work on a History of Napoleon's Campaign in Egypt and Syria—Gossip of London.

[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Tribune.]

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Jan. 22, 3 a. m.—The trial of Col. Arthur Lynch on the charge of treason in fighting for the Boers is the first proceedings of this nature in a British court for more than a half century, the last being the trial of John Francis, who fired a pistol at Queen Victoria in 1842. The courtroom was crowded when the antique formulas were repeated and a special jury was sworn, but interest in the case waned when an hour was taken up with the reading of the indictment, bristling with quaint phrases such as "seduced by the devil," and prisoner's counsel moved that the proceedings be quashed and quibbled over the terms of the statute under which the trial had been ordered. The chief justice brushed technicalities aside and the case for the crown was rapidly presented with proofs that the prisoner had taken the Boer oath of allegiance and fought against the British army.

Col. Lynch was dressed as for the drawing room, in frock coat and silk hat, and was not appalled by the legal records that the only form of punishment for treason was death. He entered a plea of not guilty and claimed that he was a naturalized citizen of the Transvaal at the time his alleged treason was committed. The case is an awkward one in view of the condonation of treason in Cape Colony by the Dutch authorities and the policy of sweetness and light recently adopted towards Ireland. The defense is based upon the right of an Australian Irishman to become a naturalized Boer on short notice.

Lord Wolseley's Mediterranean journey has brought him to Naples, where he has formed an interesting plan for literary work. He intends to visit the scenes of Napoleon's ill starred oriental campaign and obtain local color for a military article, possibly a book. As he is traveling by private yacht he probably will follow Napoleon's track to Malta and sail thence to Alexandria. He will visit Napoleon's battlefields at Chebreiss and Embabeh from Cairo and subsequently land in Syria, making the journey from El Arish to Gaza and Jaffa, tarrying at Acre. He will visit the plain of Esdraelon, the famous Hebraic battlefield where Napoleon won a victory after the disastrous siege of Acre. Lord Wolseley is full of plans for literary work and in excellent spirits. His memoirs are hardly more than half finished.

Passengers are now booked daily from London to Pekin via the Siberian railway on comfortable trains.

Controversy Over a Statue.

The controversy over the completion of Stevens' unfinished monument of the duke of Wellington at St. Paul's cathedral amuses those behind the scenes. Sir Edward Poynter lays stress upon his own and Lord Leighton's efforts to interest the patrons of art and compel the government to take up the work, but the real grievance is that the sculptor selected to carry out Stevens' designs is not an academician. John Tweed was honored with Cecil Rhodes' enthusiastic friendship and commissioned to hand down to posterity the form and features of the African colossus. Rhodes' friends have offered to bear the expenses of the completion of Stevens' work, and the dean and chapter have accepted Tweed. The reply of the bishop of Stepney to Poynter's stricture shows that Archbishop Temple was not the only English prelate with a keen sense of humor. He remarked that as Stevens was not an academician Tweed's unacademic art would not be out of place in patching up the Wellington monument.

HOPKINS PROUD OF HIS NEW HONOR

Formal Notification of Election as Senator Replied To in Earnest Speech.

FEELS GRAVITY OF DUTY.

Says It Will Be His Endeavor to Live Up to High Standard of Illinois.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—A. J. Hopkins of Aurora was formally declared elected to the United States senate by a joint meeting of both branches of the general assembly today. Speaker Miller presided over the joint meeting of the two houses and, including Senator Hopkins' speech, the entire proceedings did not occupy over forty minutes.

Notable Guests See Ceremony.

On the speakers' dais were Gov. and Mrs. Yates, Mrs. Hopkins and daughter, Miss Fannie Hopkins; Mrs. Rose, wife of the secretary of state, and daughter, Mrs. McCoy; Mrs. Henry Davis of Springfield, and Miss Ethel Isdermilie and Miss Marion Chase of Chicago.

Next to the speaker were Gov. Yates and Secretary of State Rose.

Declares Hopkins Elected.

The portions of the senate and house journals of yesterday relating to the election of a senator were read. Then Speaker Miller said: "It appears from the reading of the journals of the senate and the house of representatives of Jan. 20 that Albert J. Hopkins has received the highest number of votes cast for United States senator. I therefore declare Albert J. Hopkins elected senator to represent the state of Illinois in the congress of the United States for the term of six years beginning March 4, 1903."

Representatives Wilkerson, Backus, and Corigan and Senators Evans, Townsend, and Butler notified Mr. Hopkins, who a moment later was escorted in and introduced by Speaker Miller.

Speech of Senator Hopkins.

Senator Hopkins said: "I wish to express to you my grateful acknowledgments for the high honor you have conferred upon me in electing me a senator of the United States from the grand state of Illinois.

"I am deeply sensible of the honor and I appreciate fully, too, I think, the responsibilities accompanying it. In the eight-five years of statehood which Illinois has enjoyed as a member of the federal republic I find a list of distinguished men who have represented her in the senate of the United States, whose names not only enrich the pages of the history of this state but that of the nation as well. No legislation has been enacted by the congress of the United States since 1818 in which the senators from Illinois have not played a conspicuous part.

Has Good Models to Copy.

"Ninian Edwards and Jesse B. Thomas, the two men who first represented Illinois in the senate of the United States, were not only accomplished politicians in the better sense of that term, but were men who were distinguished for their broad views and enlightened judgment upon all public questions. They set a high standard in that great legislative body for their successors. Edwards especially was an accomplished man in many ways, and his name has been so interwoven in the history of the state that the story of his life would give a fair history of Illinois during the period of his activity.

"I cannot, in the brief time that I am to address you, speak at any length of the great services rendered by the various senators who have been honored by a seat in the senate of the United States. Much less can I speak of the living senators and the ex-senator, who have honored the state by their services. Douglas, Breese, Trumbull, Yates, Logan, Oglesby, and Palmer are names that arouse the patriotic pride of every Illinoisan. They not only place the name of Illinois in the front rank of all the states which form this republic, but by their conspicuous ability became great national characters. Their deeds are imperishable and their words serve as an inspiration, not only to this, but to all the coming generations.

"They form a part of that splendid galaxy of statesmen who have made this republic the mightiest nation that has existed in the tide of time and who have set an example of loyalty and patriotic devotion to duty that will last as long as time itself.

State Exacts Best Efforts.

"A state which has been honored by such men in the senate of the United States naturally and rightfully demands of their successors a devotion to duty and a consecration to the best interests of the state and nation that know no wavering or variableness whatever.

"As far as my abilities warrant, I can assure you, gentlemen, that it will be my highest ambition to profit by the example of those distinguished men, and to so discharge my duties as senator to meet the unqualified approval not only of you who honor me with this great office but of the people of the state, who have clothed you with authority to exercise this great trust.

"The wisdom that marks the enactment of legislation in the congress of the United States is indicated in the prosperity enjoyed by the people in the several states in the union and the growing greatness and glory of the republic. No state has profited more from being a member of this great republic of modern times than Illinois.

Illinois a Grand State.

"Within the memory of many present the fertile fields and richly cultivated farms that are now the pride of the state were unoccupied prairie. The villages and cities that had sprung up in different sections of the state were without commercial importance or industrial interests. As late as 1850 we were the fifteenth state in manufacturing industries, and our agricultural and commercial interests were unrecognized. Illinois today stands third as a manufacturing state and second as an agricultural state. In trade and commerce we have developed so rapidly that the wildest dreams of the men of a generation ago do not reach a tithe of the facts of today.

"In population Illinois has distanced all of her sister states in the west, has passed all New England, it stands next to Pennsylvania, and the Empire state of New York. No senator in the senate of the United States will have a more intelligent or progressive constituency that I shall have the honor in part to represent. Situated as Illinois is, in the heart of this great Mississippi valley, her interests extend south to the gulf of Mexico and east through the great lakes to the Atlantic ocean. Sixteen states are tributary to our great commercial metropolis, Chicago. Holding, as she does, such a commanding position in the sisterhood of states that form our great nation, she requires of her senators in the senate of the United States a high degree of vigilance and untiring endeavor on all great questions that affect the wellbeing of the nation.

Sees His High Duty.

"Appreciating as I do the importance of our state and the commercial and industrial greatness of Chicago it will be my highest ambition to advance her every interest and further all measures that will work to the greatness and glory of the common country.

"As a republican I believe that this can be accomplished best by standing loyally by all great party measures and supporting unfalteringly the administration of our distinguished president, Theodore Roosevelt. During the term of service to which you have elected me in the senate of the United States I shall unhesitatingly give my allegiance to all measures to which our party has committed the country, both as respects the domestic affairs of the government and our recently acquired territorial possessions.

"This is an epoch making period in the history of the United States. The great problems that have come to our government as a result of the Spanish-American war are only half solved. Fortunate we are, however, in having as the chief executive of this nation a man whose well cultivated mind and broad, statesmanlike views, enable him to fully appreciate the great future of the republic, and his patriotic devotion to duty will enable him during his administration to lead this country through all international complications to a safe and assured future, where our citizens will enjoy the greatest degree of prosperity and the country will attain a still higher position among the civilized nations of the world.

"I have no time nor inclination to go into any detail as to legislation that will affect the interests of the people of Illinois or of the city of Chicago. My eighteen years in the house of representatives of the United States is the best evidence that I can furnish to the people of Chicago and the state of what my course will be in the future in the senate of the United States. With enlarged opportunities that will come to me as senator, I hope to increase my usefulness to the people of this great state."

Will Not Forget Democrats.

"Democrats, as well as republicans, are interested in the development of Illinois and in any legislation that will improve the condition of our people and advance their interests of the state. I can assure you, my democratic friends, that during my term of service in the senate of the United States I shall be quick to respond to any call from any citizen, democratic or republican, on any matter that affects the well being of the individual citizen or the interests of this great commonwealth."

On motion of Senator Templeton the joint assembly then dissolved.

Senator A. J. Hopkins received his commission as United States senator from Gov. Yates at the executive mansion tonight. The commission is engrossed in old English type on strong vellum. It is the work of Clerk Watson of the office of the secretary of state.

Representative Nohe of Chicago received the pen with which he signed the commission and will give it to his daughter Evangeline.

HERE TO STUDY EDUCATION.

G. H. Knibbs, Commissioner of Education for New South Wales Visits Chicago University.

On a tour of investigation of the educational systems of Europe and the United States, G. H. Knibbs of the University of Sydney, commissioner of education for New South Wales, yesterday afternoon visited the University of Chicago, and will today inspect some of the city schools. Mr. Knibbs, in company with J. W. Taylor, head of the Model school in Sydney, has been traveling for nearly a year in the interests of the public school system of New South Wales.

When asked his impressions of American schools Mr. Knibbs said: "During my visit to your country I have been struck by the grand scale on which your educational system is conducted. You have wonderful facilities, materially and in every other way."

Speaking in general of the development of educational ideas, he said:

"I have found during my travels that a feeling is growing that the man with only a classical education can no longer be considered cultured, and this feeling I find strongest in America."

John Gresham Says the Washingtonian Home Management Was Entirely Too Solicitous.

If John W. Gresham had the liquor habit he apparently wanted to keep it, for he was exceedingly wroth yesterday when he appeared in Judge Thompson's court to ask $5,000 damages from the Washingtonian home. Mr. Gresham, who says he is a nephew of the late Walter Q. Gresham, testified that while visiting at the premises occupied by the defendant concern at 569 West Madison street in May, 1900, he was seized and imprisoned for ten days.

"I was not a subject for treatment," he declared, "and as the result of my experience was brought into ridicule."

The Rev. A. C. Wakeman, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Grossdale, testified that he was superintendent of the institution in 1900 and was present when Gresham went there. Gresham, he says, applied for admission.

BLOW AT "LOAN SHARKS."

PROPOSED LAW FORBIDS ASSIGNMENT OF UNEARNED WAGES.

Representative Burke of Cook County Introduces a Bill Designed to Protect Workingmen from the Men Who Exact Exorbitant Rates of Interest—Drew to Offer Act Limiting Courts in Application of Restraining Orders in Labor Disputes.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Representative Burke of Cook county introduced in the house today a bill aiming a blow at the "loan sharks" of Chicago. The bill provides:

"That no action shall be brought to enforce the provisions of any sale, assignment, transfer, or pledge hereafter made or executed of the future unearned wages, salaries, or compensation of any person."

Speaking of the proposed law Representative Burke said tonight:

"This act does not affect existing contracts, nor does it impair the obligation of a contract. It is aimed at the operations of a class of money lenders whose business is directly opposed to public policy.

"Our laws declare gambling contracts illegal and contracts to forestall are derogatory to public policy. Should wage assignments be any the less so? Take a common case and the one most favorable to the money lenders.

"An improvident man applies to the money lender, who loans him the money, first deducting 25 per cent of the amount required for services in negotiating the loan, then taking the debtor's note for the full amount with 10 per cent per month interest and an assignment of all the wages due or to become due to him or her in the future.

"It is to protect the public from such business transactions that the proposed law is introduced."

Of Interest to Union Men.

Representative Drew will offer a bill softening the interpretation of the word "conspiracy" and limiting the use of restraining orders, as applied to disputes between employers and employés. The bill provides in substance that no agreement, combination, or contract by or between two or more persons having in contemplation the settlement of any trade dispute, shall be deemed criminal. Nor shall those engaged therein be held punishable for conspiracy, if such act committed by one person would not be punishable as a crime. Nor shall such an agreement, etc., be considered in restraint of trade or commerce or liable to injunction. It declares also that no restraining order shall issue against persons who during strikes meet and peaceably hold conversations relative to said strike.

Mr. Drew has also prepared a bill giving an employé who has been discharged by reason of membership in a labor union civil redress against the employer who makes the discharge.

Little Tilt in the Senate.

The proceedings of the senate were enlivened this morning by a tilt between Senators Parker and Berry over the disposition of a couple of resolutions to amend the rules of the senate introduced by the former yesterday. One of these resolutions provides for the creation of four new committees as follows: Civil service, constitution and constitutional amendments, metropolitan municipal corporations, and public and institutional accounts.

Senator Berry immediately moved that it be referred to the committee on rules when approved. "That is the proper place for it to go," said he.

"I had hoped," replied Senator Parker, "that the honorable senator would allow me the opportunity of making some motion touching this resolution. It would have been an easy matter to extend to me that courtesy."

"I am exceedingly sorry," replied Senator Berry, "that I should have so far forgotten senatorial courtesy as not to have waited for half an hour or so for anybody to make a motion with reference to this resolution. The motion was not made with any intention of discourtesy."

The resolution was referred to the committee on rules when appointed.

Speaker Miller said tonight that the rules which had governed the house during the last two sessions were good enough for this one, and that the appropriate committee would recommend the same at a meeting to be held some day next week.

Both branches of the legislature have adjourned until Tuesday next.

Monument for War Governor.

By Mr. Arnold—Increasing the salary of circuit judges outside of Cook county to $5,000 per annum.

By Mr. Mundy—To prohibit the marriage of whites to persons having one-eighth or more negro blood, and providing a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $200, or imprisonment not exceeding thirty days in jail, for persons who solemnize such illegal marriages.

By Mr. Owen—To permit women to vote for members of the state board of equalization, county collectors, members of the board of assessors, members of the board of review, sanitary district trustees, all city and village officers, except police magistrates, supervisors, town clerks, assessors, collectors, and highway commissioners, to participate in town meetings, and to vote on all questions of issuing bonds.

SEEK CREDIT FOR HAMLIN.

Friends of Gov. Yates Claim He Secured $1,500,000 Reimbursement of War Debts.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Through the efforts of Attorney General Hamlin, Illinois received $1,500,000 from the general government as a reimbursement on the civil war claim. The friends of Gov. Yates claim the credit of the work. Attorney General Hamlin, in his report, makes some interesting statements about the matter.

It is said Gov. Yates signed a claim amounting to only $435,112. When Mr. Hamlin went to Washington to prosecute the claim for over $1,000,000 he found the Yates claim on file in the treasury department. Attorney General Hamlin says: "I believed the state entitled to over $1,000,000, so I obtained leave to file a new petition, which set up the amount that I contended was justly due."

ANTI-ADDICKS MEN ARE FIRM.

Vote for Senator in Delaware Shows No Change—Hanna Advises Against Electing Democrat.

Dover, Del., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Today was the first day of joint balloting by the two houses of the legislature for United States senator and the anti-Addicks men still held together, showing no sign of accepting the offer of the democrats. The ballot showed no change from that of yesterday.

The influence which prevented any break in the anti-Addicks men to the democrats is perhaps explained by the following telegram:

"To William R. Flynn, and Others, Dover, Del.: I have no intention or desire to interfere with local matters in Delaware, and yet I felt it the duty of my position to appeal to you and to all republicans in the legislature to refrain from voting for a democrat for United States senator. Certainly the party is entitled to the fruits of its victory.

"M. A. HANNA, chairman."

DISCUSS THEORIES OF LIFE.

Chicago Scientists Interested in the Announcement of Dr. J. F. Wortman of Yale.

The theories of the origin of human life as announced by Dr. J. F. Wortman of Yale were received with interest yesterday by Chicago scientists. Dr. Wortman's theories are:

Second—The primates, including apes, monkeys, and lemurs, who lived at the pole, were directly the ancestors of the human race.

Third—The evolution of the primates to human beings took place at the same time and largely because of the effect of the discovery of fire.

Prof. Sampel Williston, head of the department of paleontology at the University of Chicago, said:

"The first theory is not new, but may be correct, for we know that at one time the north pole must have been warm. The theory that the primates who lived at the north pole were ancestors of the human race seems wrong to me. It is doubtless true that the primates were the ancestors of our race, but we must leave out the phrase, 'who lived at the north pole,' for at the time when human life began on the earth the north pole was as cold as it is now or colder. The third theory is interesting and probable."

TOO MUCH MONEY TO COUNT.

United States Subtreasury at Baltimore Overwhelmed with Gold, Silver, and Bills and Counters Overworked.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The daily receipts of coin and currency in the United States subtreasury here are so large that the expert counters have been unable to keep up with the work. The assistant treasurer has been obliged to ship 500,000 silver dollars to the mint to obtain vault room. Today was the banner day. The floors of the subtreasury were practically littered with bags of silver and subsidiary coin of smaller denomination, while the desks and sills were covered with bundles of bank notes piled up several feet. The amount handled reached $1,200,000.

TANGLE OF MERIT BILLS.

CONFUSION EXPECTED BECAUSE THERE ARE TOO MANY.

Two Measures Before the Assembly Now, One Prepared by Governor's Commission and the Other Submitted by Illinois Civil Service Reform League—In Addition More Schemes Are Expected from Various Individuals—Laborers a Problem.

When the general assembly of Illinois begins the enactment of new civil service laws it is predicted that a general state of confusion will result from the different attempts to secure legislation. Two bills are before the assembly, one prepared by a commission appointed by the governor, and one submitted by the Illinois Civil Service Reform league. In addition to these it is expected that attempts will be made by individual members to secure the passage of bills, and it is from these attempts that confusion is expected to result.

Attempts to secure separate civil service boards in each of the state institutions will be made, it is predicted, as well as efforts to exempt laborers from the classified service.

"This," said a member of the Yates commission, "would permit the head of an asylum, for instance, to employ enough laboring men immediately prior to an election or primary to win at the polls. The different attempts to secure legislation which will be made will produce confusion worse confounded."

Limits Time of Probation.

The bill which has been prepared by the governor's commission is designed, according to its framers, to "close doors which have been left open by other acts." One of these doors was that left open by the provision enabling appointment on probation. It is held to be obvious that a subservient board at the instigation of the appointing power could pass rules which would provide for a period of probation of an indefinite period and prevent the person entitled to the position from ever becoming permanently protected by the civil service act. In the governor's bill this period of probation is specifically limited to six months.

The bill also makes it impossible to make appointments without examination for sixty day periods to meet emergencies.

In many particulars the proposed measure follows the city civil service law closely, the framers asserting that the city law is regarded as the best now in force. The reform league also, it is asserted, has followed the provisions of the city bill. The differences between the act proposed by the latter body and that submitted by the commission relate largely to matters of salary. The framers of the commission's bill asserted that it was their opinion that a better administration of the law could be secured if high salaried men were employed to enforce it. With that end in view they have placed the salaries of the three commissioners at $4,000 a year and the salary of the chief examiner at $5,500. The reform league bill as prepared fixed the salaries at $3,000.

Many Exemptions in the Bill.

The commission bill makes more exemptions from the classified service than does the reform league's bill. In addition to the exemptions provided by the latter measure the governor's bill would exempt from the classified service the wardens of penitentiaries, superintendents of charitable institutions and state reformatories, all attorneys appointed by any state department, board, or commission, the chief examiner of the commission, all secretaries of state boards, one chief clerk or deputy for each of the officials exempted from the classified service, teachers in the state university and normal school, and all persons in the state treasurer's office who physically handle the public money.

The last exemption has been provided for on the theory that the state treasurer had the right to object if he were made liable for the acts of men with whose appointment he had nothing to do. State boards are exempted in both acts, and the Yates commission exempted the secretaries of boards for the reason, the commissioners say, that in many cases the secretary is the board.

Wardens Not Under the Law.

The main difference in the two acts with regard to exemptions, and probably with regard to all other features, is found in that section of the Yates bill which exempts the heads of state institutions and the wardens of penitentiaries. On this point it is probable that the greatest conflict between the supporters of the two bills will be developed.

There is a difference again in regard to protection extended against political assessment. The commission extends this protection only to the members of the classified service.

LAKE CARRIERS LIKELY TO REORGANIZE ON NEW BASIS.

Steel Trust and Gilchrist Interests Holding Off and Shipping Likely to Be Handled in Three Divisions.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The Lake Carriers' association, which is meeting here, has two important projects under consideration. The first is reorganization and incorporation and the other is a new agreement with the grain shovelers, engineers, and other organizations on the lake vessels.

It is more than likely that the steel trust and the Gilchrist interests will not be in the new corporation, if this proves to be the case, there will be three distinct fleets on the great lakes, the Lake Carriers, the United States Steel corporation, and the Gilchrist company.

Secretary Brown outlined the reorganization plan which will be considered tomorrow by saying:

"It is now proposed to reorganize the association by changing it from a voluntary association of vessel owners to a body corporate, to carry the same general purposes for which it was originally organized, as well as certain other policies and undertakings which changed conditions seem to require that the association take in charge.

"The handling of grain by contract at the port of Buffalo and the maintenance of shipping offices and the employment of seamen and the maintenance of lights in Canadian waters by contract with the federal government are matters which have developed from time to time and necessarily become a part of the work of the association."

The question of pooling all the vessels in the association and having a central chartering office was discussed and referred to the board of managers.

President Keefe of the grain men's union said that he wished it understood that he was speaking only for the firemen, grain scoopers, and longshoremen, and did not represent the seamen or engineers. He said the scoopers are anxious to have an understanding with the lake carriers whereby future agreements can be made direct with the grain shoveling committee of the association instead of with the superintendent of shoveling, as heretofore.

A resolution was adopted indorsing the projected celebration of semi-centennial next June of the breaking of ground for the Soo canal.

Tillman remains silent regarding the shooting, at least so far as the public is concerned. The inquest will be resumed tomorrow evening. Two hundred persons visited Gonzalez's grave in Elmwood cemetery today.

LONG LEADS FOR KANSAS SENATOR

Stanley and Bowersock Withdraw from Race After the Caucus.

ONLY TWO NOW RUNNING.

Supporters of Ex-Governor Declare for Candidate Who Is Now Ahead.

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Chester I. Long, the present congressman from the Seventh Kansas district, will, in all probability, on Jan. 27, be elected United States senator to succeed W. A. Harris.

The senatorial contest, which has been in progress here for a month, was practically settled at 11 o'clock tonight, when ex-Gov. Stanley withdrew from the rabe and gave twenty-six votes to Long, which increased the latter's strength to seventy votes, six more than a majority of the republican caucus.

At the session of the caucus early tonight three ballots were taken. Long gained steadily, and on the last ballot he had forty-four votes, eight more than he had last night. Stanley was the principal loser. After the third ballot the Stanley men, with the aid of Long's supporters, forced an adjournment. Then came the withdrawal of Stanley and the stampede to Long.

Congressman Charles Curtis gained one vote in the caucus tonight, having thirty-six on the last ballot. Congressman W. A. Calderhead had twelve votes and Congressman J. D. Bowersock had six votes. When Stanley withdrew Bowersock quit, and it is supposed that four of his six partisans are for Long.

The Curtis and Calderhead supporters have not yet given way, and a movement by their leaders has been started to break the Long-Stanley combine with a dark horse, but there is little chance that they can accomplish anything. Unless Curtis and Calderhead withdraw there will be a caucus tomorrow night, when the republicans will go through the form of nominating Long.

Connecticut—Orville H. Platt.
Indiana—Charles W. Fairbanks.

Missouri—W. J. Stone.
New York—Thomas C. Platt.

SMOOT DECLARES HIS LOYALTY.

Mormon Apostle Elected to Senate Says His First Duty Is to His Country.

Salt Lake, Utah, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Apostle Smoot was today formally declared elected to the senate of the United States. In his speech he said:

"I hold that the constitution of the United States is divinely inspired, and that my first duty is to my country, whose laws and institutions I love, honor, and respect. The business of the country, its material progress, shall receive my deepest consideration, not forgetting the rights of citizenship.

"The great irrigation problems of the west, which the present administration, through the wise counsel of a chief executive who knows western needs, has already undertaken to solve, must be foremost in the mind of every western senator and representative until the great arid west is redeemed from its sterility.

"Closer commercial relations with Cuba should be encouraged and needed reciprocal treaties extended to our sister republics in the south. The Monroe doctrine must be maintained. A navy sufficiently strong to command continued peaceful relations of this country with the rest of the world should be kept ever ready for action."

Gov. Hebern M. Wells made a brief speech and Chief Justice R. N. Baskin of the Utah Supreme court also addressed the joint assembly. Justice Baskin criticised President Roosevelt severely for attempting to interfere in the election of a senator by a state.

EXTRA GUARDS IN COLORADO.

Rumors of Plan to Seize Chamber of House by Force Causes Renewed Vigilance.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 21.—There were rumors of war and warlike preparations at the statehouse tonight. Early in the evening the story gained currency that a body of armed men intended seizing the chamber of the house of representatives.

To guard against such a contingency Sergeant-at-Arms Plummer placed thirty armed men under charge of Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms Sherman Bell, who was a member of Roosevelt's rough riders, in the chamber. Shotguns and large revolvers are much in evidence.

The democratic members of the senate are still in session, although most of them went to sleep upon cots early in the evening. They are protected by a score of policemen and deputy sheriffs.

A joint session of the democrats of both branches was held earlier in the day, but only forty-five would vote.

All parties to the controversy still intend to go into conference Friday afternoon.

It Will Repay You Well To Know Some Facts About Coffee.

When man takes properly selected food and drink Nature will most always assert herself and rebuild the structure properly.

"From my earliest remembrance I was a confirmed coffee drinker," writes a gentleman from Marshallville, Ga., "taking two cups at nearly every meal. While at college I became very nervous, dyspeptic, irritable and unfit for study and attributed it largely to coffee, but did not stop its use.

"When I was married I found my wife was troubled the same way, and we decided to try Postum Food Coffee. My wife made the Postum according to directions and we found it superb. We used it exclusively for the morning beverage, and the taste of ordinary coffee became distasteful to both of us.

"We have found a distinct gain in health. Any amount of Postum does not cause a feeling of either dyspepsia or nervousness, while the return to coffee even for one meal has disastrous effects upon my nerves. My dyspepsia has entirely left me, and both my wife and self are well and strong and feel that it is all due to the Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

It is easy to replace coffee with Postum which has, when properly made, a rich flavor and the color of coffee with none of its injurious after-effects.

MARRIAGE AGENT WORKS NEW GAME

ASKS $1 FOR PICTURE.

Dr. Burrell Says Lyman Abbott Will Uphold Infidelity if It Exists.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, Jan. 21.

What the police believe to be a novel swindling scheme was disclosed today in the arrest of William G. Furlong, who for the last month has had offices at 82 Wall street. His office was searched and it is said much evidence against him was found. For several weeks Furlong has been inserting in New York and Philadelphia papers this advertisement:

Elaborate Plan to Secure Dollars from Men.

Lady, to settle estate legally, must marry before June. Her trustees take this method of finding suitable husband, on whom they will settle $20,000 without restrictions on the day of marriage; eligible gentlemen, respectable, requested write for particulars.

The answers were sent to the newspaper offices. The police say that about 5,000 "eligible gentlemen, respectable," answered the advertisement. Upon receipt of this answer a circular letter would be forwarded to the applicant.

The circular letter set forth that the trustees of this estate were desirous of obtaining a suitable husband for the woman in question, and that the marriage was to take place under the following conditions:

"That he shall never meet the lady before marriage.

"That he will not in any way molest her after marriage.

"That he will take up his residence in a certain state immediately after marriage and procure from her a divorce as soon as possible.

"The trustees of this estate are prepared to give a bank guarantee that they will pay to that gentleman, first, the sum of $5,000 on the day of marriage, and, secondly, that they will pay the sum of $15,000 on the day he shall place in their hands a divorce decree. All expenses of obtaining such decree will be paid by the estate."

The letter continued by saying that to protect as much as possible of the lady's fortune a number of photographs of her had been taken, and that applicants might have copies of them at $1 each.

It was to get these dollars, the police say, that the whole scheme was operated, for nothing more was heard of the woman.

The grand jury today formally took charge of the case against Richard A. Canfield, accused of owning a gambling house. David W. Bucklin, who, it is said, was Canfield's manager, was the first witness called. Bucklin refused to answer questions and was taken before Recorder Goff.

Dr. Burrell Makes Queer Attack on Lyman Abbott.

"If there is such a thing as infidelity Dr. Lyman Abbott stands for it." The Rev. Dr. David James Burrell, pastor of the Marble Collegiate church at Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, made this emphatic declaration today when he read a statement accredited to Dr. Abbott in Chicago to the effect that the bible is merely a record of human "religious experiences."

Dr. Burrell, who is recognized as one of the stanchest defenders of the "Old Bible" and the strongest preachers in the city, earnestly declared:

"It has been known for some time that Dr. Lyman Abbott is against every cardinal doctrine of the Christian religion. It has been recognized by all evangelical ministers that in reckoning with the enemies of the bible Dr. Abbott is counted in.

"There is not one of the fundamental facts of the Christian religion that he is now understood to hold.

Impressive Services Over Abram S. Hewitt.

Abram S. Hewitt was buried today from Calvary Episcopal church, Bishop Potter of New York and Bishop Satterlee of Washington assisting in the funeral service. The gathering in the church included representatives of the social, business, educational, and political life of the city. Bishop Potter made a departure from the ritual of the Episcopal church, reading a poem written by Richard Watson Gilder when he learned of Mr. Hewitt's death. A choir sang the hymns and anthems selected by Mrs. Hewitt.

The pallbearers were Seth Low, Andrew Carnegie, Alexander E. Orr, J. P. Morgan, Morris K. Jesup, H. H. Rogers, Robert Fulton Cutting, Henry E. Howland, John E. Parsons, William E. Dodge, Charles Stewart Smith, John S. Kennedy, John L. Cadwallader, Lord Charles Beresford, William Butler Duncan, Jacob H. Schiff, United States Senator John Kean, E. B. Thomas, and John Fritz.

Interment was in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

It was explained that this action was taken in order to push proceedings with all reasonable dispatch.

Mayor Low Forbids Salute to T. C. Platt.

Mayor Low today refused to approve a resolution passed by the board of aldermen yesterday giving the Lincoln club permission to fire 100 guns today in honor of the reelection of Senator Platt. The mayor said: "I should be glad to facilitate the desire of the Lincoln club to fire such a salute in a suitable place, but in the city hall park does not seem to me to be such a place. Since the accident in Madison Square I feel that too much care cannot be exercised in the use of explosives in crowded parts of the city."

Among the passengers who arrived tonight from Naples on the steamer Sicilia was Mr. Luigi Roversi, secretary of the United States commission at the first international exposition of modern decorative art in Turin, Italy. The different exhibits and awards are also on board the Sicilia.

Hearing Held on New Rules for Fireworks.

The municipal explosive commission gave a public hearing at fire headquarters today on a set of tentative rules governing the manufacture, sale, and use of fireworks. The rules in part were: "No fireworks or other explosives shall be manufactured in Manhattan or The Bronx, and bond of $5,000 shall be given for manufacturing in the other boroughs and a similar bond shall be required of wholesale dealers to cover perishable damage.

"From June 10 to July 10 a person in uniform must stand in front of such building during business hours who shall prevent people with lighted cigars or pipes from entering the building.

"The sale of blank cartridge toy pistols is prohibited. No bombs, salutes, or rockets shall be fired in the city except by a person having a license from the fire commissioner and a bond of $5,000 must be given to set off the fireworks. The use of toy cannons and metal mortars is prohibited."

Steel Corporation Plans Expenditure of $25,000,000.

The presidents of subsidiary companies comprising the United States Steel corporation are holding day and evening sessions in this city and probably will not adjourn until the end of this week. More than ordinary importance is supposed to attach to these meetings because they are the first to be held since the corporation announced its profit sharing scheme.

Plans involving an outlay of at least $25,000,000 are being formulated by the presidents. The money will be used in modernizing certain plants and concentrating the work of others.

Pittsburg, Cleveland, and other western cities are expected to figure extensively in these plans, which are subject to the approval of the finance committee.

Lot for Costly Apartment House Purchased.

A deal which will result in an outlay of more than $1,000,000 was made today. It was the sale of 3 West Thirty-fourth street, a brown stone dwelling house. This property has a frontage of twenty-five feet in Thirty-fourth street and extends to Thirty-fifth street, comprising two full lots. It is opposite the Waldorf-Astoria. For some months there have been rumors that one of the best bachelor apartment houses ever built in this city was to be erected near the Waldorf-Astoria. It may be that the present purchase is one of the properties which will figure in such a project.

Civil Engineers Hold Their Yearly Meeting.

The fiftieth annual meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers, which is to convene for two days, was begun here today. More than 500 members, including many from California, Louisiana, Michigan, Missouri, Colorado, Canada, and other places are in attendance. The following officers were elected: President, Alfred Noble of this city; vice presidents, I. E. G. Bouscaren of Cincinnati and James D. Schuyler of Los Angeles, Cal.; treasurer, Joseph M. Knapp of this city.

Croker to Visit New York to See Friends.

Discussing today the coming visit of Richard Croker, Daniel M. McMahon, chairman of the Tammany executive committee, said: "We expect that Mr. Croker will be here in the middle of March. He will, before sailing, I am informed, issue a statement of the reasons why he is coming, and expressly declaring that he has no intention of resuming the leadership. Mr. Croker intends to see all his friends in New York, and spend a few months in this country, during which he will take only passing interest in political affairs."

PEOPLE'S CHURCH TRYING TO RECOVER LOST GROUND.

Member of New Directory Says the Steady Decrease for Last Five Years Will Be Stopped if Possible.

"Reorganization and Representation" is the cry of the directors of the People's church. "We have been going to pieces for five years," said one of the directors yesterday. "Moving from McVicker's was almost a death blow to the church. We must now begin over again. There is a desperate need for a church for the people and that need we will try to supply in Handel hall. We have retrenched in expenses. We have infused new blood into the directorate, only two of the old directors remaining on the board. Now we seek a new congregation, or the return of our old members.

"In John Merritte Driver we have a great pulpit orator. He does not preach free silver; he does not preach labor against capital; he does not preach against expansion. He is simply a broad, earnest Christian striving to uplift people.

"The business men of our directorate, and we are almost all business men, see the churchless thousands walking the downtown streets on Sunday and we have determined to give them a church. We invite all downtown Chicago, all the thousands in the hotels, to worship with us."

PRESIDENT SIGNS MILITIA BILL.

Says He Hopes It Will Never Be Necessary to Call Out the Troops Measure Provides.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—President Roosevelt this afternoon signed the militia bill passed by congress. Gathered around the table as the president appended his signature to the measure were Secretary Root, Secretary Shaw, Assistant Secretary Sanger, Representatives Dick, Parker, Stark, Wiley, Conry, Gaines, and Bristow, all of the house committee on military affairs; W. E. Marsh, secretary of the committee; Gen. M. H. Byers, adjutant general of Iowa; Gen. Bird S. Spencer, adjutant general of New Jersey; and Col. E. J. Dimmick, secretary of the National Guard association. President Roosevelt expressed the hope that no president ever would be confronted by such an emergency as would render it necessary for him to avail himself of the services of the troops provided for in the bill, but congratulated the committee and the country on its enactment.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—The house spent today in debate on the Philippine coinage bill. Those who participated in the debate were Messrs. PROTEST BY CHICAGO BOARD.

Transfer of Interstate Commerce Commission to New Department Meets with Opposition.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Senator Cullom reported and had read to the senate at the opening of today's session a telegram from the Chicago board of trade embodying resolutions against the proposed transfer of the Interstate commerce commission to the new department of commerce. The resolutions recite that, whereas the commission is supposed to be a nonpartisan body, it should not be subjected to a department with a partisan executive. Copies of the telegram were also received by Senators Mason, Nelson, and Elkins and by Representative Mann and President Roosevelt.

make another effort to secure Hogan's nomination by the president.

When a compromise was effected last spring the president agreed that Mr. Hopkins should have the appointment. It was not agreed absolutely that he should not reappoint Dan Hogan, and the scheme that is now said to be on foot is for Hopkins to recommend Hogan again, have him supported by Gov. Yates and Lorimer, and then demand that the president shall carry out his expressed intention of nominating any man suggested by Mr. Hopkins.

There can be no doubt of the result of such a scheme, as it would precipitate an immediate fight on the part of Senator Cullom. In fact, it is said that the scheme originated solely for the purpose of alienating the president and the senior senator from Illinois so as to put the state administration and Lorimer before the people as the only original and bona fide friends of President Roosevelt in the entire state of Illinois, thus strengthening the hands of Mr. Hopkins. The understanding seems to be that the intention is to have the appointment made during the recess, so that in that case Dan Hogan can fill the office at least until the conclusion of the first session of the Fifty-eighth congress, which will be sometime in June of 1904.

At a special meeting of the judiciary committee tomorrow an anti-trust measure will be reported to the house with a favorable recommendation. The subcommitete which has had this subject in charge has completed its labors. The measure framed by the republican members of the committee was laid before their democratic colleagues this afternoon. A special rule for the consideration of the anti-trust measure will be made and the bill will, in all probability, be taken up for consideration next week and adopted after a short debate. In its present shape the anti-trust bill provides for publicity, but it does not permit such an inquiry into the affairs of corporations which would disclose their business secrets.

The navy department has provided for an increased force of marines in the Philippines. It was first intended to send a battalion of 300 marines, 150 to proceed on the army transport sailing from San Francisco Feb. 1, and 150 on the transport sailing from that place March 1, the war department having informed the navy department that it was unable to accommodate 300 marines on the vessel to sail Feb. 1. Later developments made it possible to accommodate the entire marine command on one vessel, and, it being desirable to send as large a force of marines as possible to the Philippines for the relief of men whose terms of service there have expired, a force of fourteen marine officers, one medical officer, and 400 enlisted men, under command of Maj. George Barnett, will sail from San Francisco Feb. 1.

Angelo Boragino, deputy United States consul at Genoa, Italy, telegraphed the state department today that Hubbard Taylor Smith, vice consul general of the United States at Cairo, Egypt, was in a desperate condition of illness at Genoa. Mr. Boragino said that Mr. Smith was suffering from dropsical affection of the kidneys and heart.

Mr. Smith is best known as the author of "Listen to My Tale of Woe" and other musical compositions. He has been in the government service off and on since 1876, when he obtained a position in the war department from Indiana, his native state. He was private secretary to Secretary of State John W. Foster under Benjamin Harrison's administration, and served with the Bering sea arbitration commission in Paris in Cleveland's second administration.

In 1895 he was appointed a consular clerk, a position from which the incumbent cannot be removed except by resolution of congress after trial and conviction of charges. He still holds this unique office.

Musicians Cut Out Cheap Dances.

DROP RULE FOR HARRISON.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY COMMITTEEMEN INDORSE CANDIDATE.

Cast Aside Precedent and Declare Their Choice for Mayor with Only Four Dissenting—Others Say They Are Not Bound by the Action—Statement Given Out in Opposition Headquarters That Incumbent May Not Stand for Re-election.

In adopting a resolution indorsing the candidacy of Mayor Harrison for renomination the democratic county committee did something at its meeting yesterday unprecedented in local politics. It never has been customary with the managing committee of any party to line up in support of one candidate seeking the party nomination. In fact, that sort of thing is condemned as a violation of trust, and the talk was that in this instance it would have serious results.

A surprising thing about the meeting was that only four votes were cast against the resolution. They were by Robert E. Burke, James Pine, James Furlong, and Albert Schonbeck. Not a member raised his voice in protest and several of the anti-Harrison committeemen gave the indorsement their support.

The resolution is as follows:

"Resolved, That this, the democratic county central committee of Cook county hereby indorses the candidacy of Carter H. Harrison for the democratic nomination for the office of mayor of the city of Chicago for the ensuing term of two years."

May Repudiate the Resolution.

"Did you ever know a democrat to be bound by resolutions?" was the reply of an anti-Harrison leader when asked why he failed to protest. "As all this amounts to nothing, what was the use of starting a row? That is just what the Harrison people wanted us to do. But we fooled them. They want to put the blame for Darrow's candidacy on our shoulders."

The question was raised during the meeting whether Mr. Harrison was a candidate. Secretary Lahiff, James A. Quinn, John E. Owens, and others said he was.

Several Actions Irregular.

A number of things were done that some of the old time politicians pronounced irregular. Before its appointment had been announced officially the new executive committee met and transacted considerable business. It recommended resolutions pledging the committeemen and binding them to work for the success of the democratic nominees at the spring election. In a preamble this reference was made to the Darrow boom:

"It has been circulated through the newspapers and has been common talk that certain members of this committee are giving their aid to a movement that has as its object the placing of an independent ticket before the people in the coming spring election with the evident intention of defeating the nominees of the democratic party; therefore be it resolved that the members reassert their belief in the principles that the will of the majority must prevail."

Then followed the pledge to support the regular nominees.

Harrison Said to Hesitate.

About the time the county committee was establishing a precedent statements were being handed out at the Sherman house headquarters of the opposition that Mr. Harrison had demanded of his lieutenants a report on certain conditions before he would consent to go into the fight. It was said that at his suggestion a committee had been created, with John Owens as chairman, to investigate the Darrow movement and also to ascertain as nearly as possible the sentiment regarding the probable republican nominee. The story was that Mr. Harrison declined to stand for a fourth term unless the conditions were more favorable than he believed them to be.

DEPLORE AN ELECTION ABUSE.

Party Leaders and Judge Carter Start a Fight on Illegal Suspect Notices.

War on the too liberal use of the suspect notice was begun before the election commissioners yesterday, when lawyers representing both the republican and democratic county committees appeared to seek relief. Judge Carter gave them ready sympathy.

"I believe that the board has the power to regulate this matter," he said, "and it must do so, too, or we will have riots and bloodshed here, as in Denver. There has been too much bad faith in swearing to suspect affidavits, and it must be stopped."

S. S. Gregory, one of the attorneys, thought that the First ward conditions could be improved by prosecuting the lodging house keepers.

HYDE PARKERS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER MAYORALTY CAMPAIGN.

Candidate Is Unexpectedly Detained from Harmony Committee's Luncheon, but His Merits Are Praised—Probably Will Begin Addressing Voters Next Week—Harlan Argues for a Mayor Who Appreciates Dignity of the Office.

Graeme Stewart's name was cheered at the Hyde Park harmony committee luncheon yesterday, though Mr. Stewart, through business engagements, was unable to be present in person, being absent from the city. It was announced, however, by way of consolation, that the committee was promised the benefit of his first campaign address.

There was a large attendance at the luncheon, and when Adolph Nathan declared that Mr. Stewart's experience fitted him for the office of mayor if the people wanted a business administration everybody applauded.

Col. H. S. Dietrich, president of the Sixth Ward Stewart club, said there were no factions in the Sixth ward as in the past.

"The Stewart club there recognizes no machine, no faction," he continued. "Its members are for Stewart because they believe him to be the best man to nominate. I am satisfied that when Mr. Stewart comes here and speaks to you, all the republicans in Hyde Park now on the fence will thereafter be found on his side. He is undoubtedly the man to give this city a clean business administration."

Insists on Civil Service.

Mr. Nathan said he had not pledged himself to the support of Mr. Stewart for the reason that he wanted to ascertain first how Mr. Stewart stands on the question of the enforcement of the civil service law.

"I believe," Mr. Nathan continued, "that he is all right, but I will not support any man who is unwilling to go on record in advance with at least a promise that he will live up to the letter and spirit of that law, and that he will appoint civil service commissioners who are in full sympathy with the law and who will enforce it."

Mr. Stewart's campaign managers said last night that a number of the business organizations throughout the city would adopt resolutions indorsing his candidacy at their next meetings. He probably will begin the speaking part of his campaign next week.

Wants a Mayor with Dignity.

John M. Harlan spoke to a well filled hall at North and California avenues last night, and said the city wanted a man for mayor who appreciated the dignity of the position.

"If Harrison is reelected," said Mr. Harlan, "I hope he will get a sufficient grasp of the idea of the responsibility and dignity of the office, so that during one administration he will not call it a 'job.' I regard it as second only to the position of president of the United States in importance and dignity.

"I am not seeking the place for the sake of the salary. I have a good business, perhaps not because I am a good lawyer, but because Kankakee will not hold all the people who ought to be there; but I have it, and when I look for the position of mayor it is in the hope that I can do more good there than by staying where I am."

FIX DARROW RECEPTION DATE.

Labor Leaders Will Hold Demonstration for Possible Candidate for Mayor on Feb. 5 in Auditorium.

Labor leaders representing eight or ten of the largest unions in the city yesterday appointed committees to manage the proposed reception to Clarence S. Darrow. James Payne of the boxmakers' union, William Savage of the drug clerks, and L. J. Turley of the teamsters have decided to secure the Auditorium for the occasion, and solicitors have been appointed to collect funds. Word was received from Mr. Darrow that he expected to arrive home Feb. 5, and that date has been set for the reception.

As there is no opposition the regular ticket must be elected. Music and entertainment in the evening will follow the voting.

TAILOR LOCKOUT BRINGS ON RIOT.

TAKE HIS STAR AND GUN.

Wagonload of Bluecoats Hurry to Scene and Disperse Infuriated Crowd.

Rioting marked the lockout of the Special Order Clothing Makers' union yesterday at the shop of Adolph F. Larsen, 155 North May street.

Policeman Carl Johnson, detailed from the West Chicago avenue station to preserve order at Larsen's place, was set upon by infuriated tailors after he had arrested one of their number, and but for the prompt arrival of a patrol wagon filled with policemen would have had a narrow escape with his life.

As it was, Johnson was deprived of his prisoner, his club, revolver, and star, his uniform was nearly torn from his body, and his face and head were covered with cuts and bruises.

Edward Larsen, a son of the proprietor of the tailor shop, and Charles Pullman, said to have been one of the policeman's assailants, were arrested afterward by detectives.

Mob Attacks Employer.

The trouble between the United Garment Workers' union and the special order people reached its acute stage Tuesday evening, when scenes were enacted around Larsen's shop similar to those of yesterday. A crowd of 300 or more surrounded the shop, assaulted the employes as they started to go away, beat two men into unconsciousness, and upset Larsen's delivery wagons. One of the injured men, John Lein, was taken to a hospital in an ambulance, suffering from severe internal injuries.

During the riot Mr. Larsen attempted to protect some of his men and was set upon by a dozen or more of the special order tailors. He was compelled to draw his revolver and fire three shots before the crowd would disperse. The rioters so intimidated the employes that they were afraid to enter or leave the building.

Employers Secure Injunction.

As a result of the demonstration of yesterday the National Wholesale Tailors' association took a hand in the fight. Through its attorney, A. J. Pfaum, the association secured an injunction from Judge Kavanagh restraining the officers and members of the Special Order Clothing Makers' union from interfering with the business of Larsen.

"It is the announced intention of the association to file petitions at once for about seventy-five more injunctions for the protection of the shops doing work for members of the association.

"This trouble is an attempt by one labor union to annihilate another union," said Attorney Pfaum. "It is not a fight between capital and labor. All of the wholesale tailors in Chicago, representing an annual business of nearly $20,000,000, are willing to employ organized labor. The people who are indulging in this violence have no complaint to make about wages or labor conditions. They are simply fighting to destroy another union."

STRIKERS ARRAIGNED IN COURT.

Accused of Threatening Nonunion Employes of Lumber Company—Hearing Set for Jan. 29.

Eleven woodworkers and lumber handlers were arraigned yesterday before Justice Hall charged with intimidation and threats in the strike at the Hines Lumber company's plant. The complainant is John Wagner, an employé of the company, who says the men interfered with the nonunion workmen who took the places of the strikers. The case will be heard Jan. 29.

The Chicago board of arbitration is to settle the wage dispute between the gas-house teamsters union and F. G. Hartwell, who bought the gas company's teams. The agreement to arbitrate was reached yesterday. The teamsters want a scale of $12 a week for drivers of single wagons and $13.50 for drivers of double teams.

CANAL BOARD HAS MILLIONS.

Drainage Trustees Will Be Able to Spend a Big Sum for Improvements.

Chairman Carter of the finance committee yesterday submitted to the drainage board a statement of the resources and liabilities of the sanitary district from Jan. 1, 1903, to Jan 1, 1905. The figures show that the board has at its disposal $4,017,760 to expend in the construction of bridges, dredging, and the widening of the channel during the ensuing two years. Cash on hand Jan. 2, 1903, was $1,420,510, and the tax levy for this year is put at $1,736,431. A similar amount is set down for next year.

Last year the drainage board's cost of maintenance was $337,004. Chief Engineer Randolph's estimate of the cost of maintenance for the present year is $198,265 and for next year is $257,700.

Mr. Randolph estimates that 237,223 cubic yards of dredging will be done during the year and that 3,774 lineal feet of new dock will be built.

Church Federation Elects Officers.

The Federation of Churches and Christian Workers of Chicago has completed its organization by the election of the following officers: President, Prof. Graham Taylor; vice president, L. Wilbur Messer; recording secretary, the Rev. W. E. McLennan; treasurer, Edward A. Halsey. The organization will open hearquarters in the downtown district in the near future. It represents all evangelical denominations in the city.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 22, 1903.

A Worthy Private Pension Bill. The bill for the relief of the widow of Maj. Walter Reed, surgeon, U. S. A., is not of a class with the hundreds of private claims annually presented to congress. It was due to Maj. Reed's courage and intelligence that it was established that yellow fever is communicable by mosquitoes. Cuba has been freed from yellow fever as the result of the discovery. The redemption of tropical South America will follow. If the Spanish war had been productive of nothing else of value to humanity its cost would have been in some measure repaid by Maj. Reed's work. His widow is almost destitute. Congress cannot do less than make for her an allowance which her husband would have earned had he lived to carry on his work in the service of the government.

Death of Julian Ralph. The death of Julian Ralph has closed the career of an industrious and accomplished newspaper correspondent and a writer who, though he had not accomplished any great work, was yet widely recognized for his literary ability. As an author he had produced eleven books of varying interest, the best of which, like "Dixie," "Alone in China," "At Pretoria," and "War's Brighter Side," were devoted to observations of travel. It was as a correspondent and special writer for the press that his best work was done, and for this class of work he had long and excellent preparation. Much of his life was spent directly or indirectly in newspaper work. In his youth he learned the printer's trade and with another printer started a newspaper. Its life was brief. Then he went to New York City, where successively he served as a reporter on different papers. For the last six or eight years he had been a free lance. His services were in constant request, both in this country and in England, especially as war correspondent. He contributed to various papers brilliant descriptions of the war between China and Japan, the Turco-Grecian, the Boer, and the Spanish-American wars. Some of his most remarkable work was in the reporting of famous trials, which was rather brilliant sketching than reporting. To an agreeable literary style and picturesque descriptive ability he added a knowledge of what newspapers desired to place before readers gained in his journalistic experience.

A Foe to Civilization. With the spectacle of the crowded street car before us it will not do to boast too loudly of the "achievements of civilization." For this packed vehicle is one of the greatest of uncivilizers. A man may enter a car a gentleman and come out a savage, and though we have it on the best authority that a lady is a lady whatever be the conditions, still no woman can feel like a lady while she is being bandied about in a crowded car. Culture has not yet arrived at that point when it can bear with equanimity the trampling of its toes, the squeezing of its person, or the piercing of its sides with elbows. Pleas for seats in cars used to be based solely on the desire for comfort and convenience, but now they might be demanded in the name of humanitarianism. The fatigue of the street car posture often proves the last straw that breaks tired humanity's back, and several cases have been cited of individuals who have succumbed to this riding weariness. Of course, it might be said that when people have reached the point of collapse it matters little where they are and that they would be as likely to succumb in their own parlor as in the less commodious car, but a seat at the right moment often prevents collapse, and the individual who pays for one has a right to expect it. Whether near or far the time is bound to come when to part with a nickel for street car fare instead of meaning the parting with one's comfort and dignity at the same time will be the signal for the assurance of a seat and the comfort that can never be known in cars while there is standing room only.

SALARIES THAT SHOULD BE RAISED.

The general assembly will be asked to raise the pay of the Circuit judges from $3,500 a year to $5,000. There is to be a judicial election next June, and now is the time for a change in the salary if one is to be made. The present rate of compensation was fixed in 1872. It was not considered excessive then. If $3,500 a year was not too much then it is not enough now. The reasons for giving the Cook county judges $10,000 a year instead of $7,000 hold good throughout the state. There has been in the last thirty years an advance in the cost of living in the country as well as in the city. It costs more in the country, as well as in the city, to buy the services of professional men as of workingmen. The lawyer and the physician are better rewarded today than they were in 1872. The remuneration of the Circuit court judges has not been changed in that long time. It certainly should be made as much as $5,000.

There used to be in Illinois, as in some other states, an unreasoning prejudice against fair salaries for judges. The farmer was often unable to see why a man who, as he said, did nothing but sit in an arm chair all day and hear lawyers talk, while twelve jurors decided whether plaintiff or defendant was in the right, should be paid more than an industrious farmer with a good sized farm could earn by a year's hard work. That feeling is disappearing. It is admitted generally now that it is a mistake to pay judges too little.

Though the compensation has been inadequate of late years, there has been no occasion to complain of lack of judicial ability among the men elected in the country circuits. Among them are to be found many men of exceptional ability. The demand for increase in pay is not prompted by an expectation of getting better men, but by the conviction that the kind of men serving now are deserving of higher salaries.

SENATOR QUAY'S PROGRAM.

The democratic senators and a minority of the republican senators, led by Senator Quay, appear to be resolved that the bill granting statehood to Arizona, New Mexico, and Oklahoma, which passed the house without dissent, shall be put through the senate at this session. Senator Quay's avowed program is that the three territories must be made states, which in the case of Arizona and New Mexico is undesirable, and the transmissouri region be given a degree of influence in the senate to which its population does not entitle it, and possibly never will entitle it, or there will be no legislation enacted at this session regarding the trusts, Cuba, immigration, the Philippines, and the department of commerce. It may be that he is not making an idle boast.

Once a state always a state. A state cannot be admitted for a special purpose, as Nevada was, and afterwards put back into a territorial condition. On the other hand, if needed legislation is defeated at this session a special session of the next congress can be called. But congressmen do not take kindly to special sessions and the president will dislike to call one. Furthermore, there may be in the next congress, as there apparently is in this, a majority for the admission of the three new states. It may be only a question of time when they will be admitted, no matter how undesirable it is as to two of them. Therefore, if a compromise is possible by which Arizona and New Mexico may be united to make one state, the compromise should be made, in order to insure the prompt passage of other bills. One state with a small population will be less of an evil than two.

If the present deadlock continues an extra session will have to be called. The republicans were aided in carrying the elections last fall by the popular belief that they would take hold of the trust question at once. It will not be expedient to wait until next December. But if legislation now on the eve of passage has to be carried over to a special session all that has been done will have to be done over again. That means unpleasant delay. It is much to be desired that an arrangement be made which will do away with the necessity for a special session. The general public cares little whether Arizona and the other territories remain as they are or are made states. There are other subjects which it would like to see congress act on now.

A CONFIDENCE GAME.

The Appellate division of the Supreme court of New York says the special franchise tax law of the state, enacted when President Roosevelt was governor, is unconstitutional. The right to tax franchises as real estate is not questioned, but the method of making the assessments—by the state board of tax commissioners—is held to be unlawful. The decision is not a finality, for the Court of Appeals has the last word, but it may concur with the Appellate division that the principle of local self-government is violated by the assessment of local franchises by a state board.

If it shall so decide the public service corporations whose franchises it is sought to tax will have played a successful confidence game upon the legislature and the people. The law as it was first passed provided for the assessment of franchises by local assessors. The corporations affected remonstrated energetically. They said the assessment would be intolerably unfair, for the assessors would run up the valuations to get revenue for their municipalities. They said assessments made by state officers, free from local influences, would be fair, and to such assessments there would be no opposition.

Gov. Roosevelt convened the legislature in special session. The law was amended in accordance with the suggestions of the corporations. Then their lawyers hastened to challenge the constitutionality of the law on the ground that it contained the provision the insertion of which had been asked for. Before the law was changed the corporations objected to home rule as to assessment. After the law had been changed they complained that the principle of home rule had been violated.

The moral is that when it is desired to enact a law for the taxation of a corporation it is not safe to take the advice of the corporation as to the way in which it should be done. It is better to listen to the advice of the corporation and then do exactly the reverse of what it recommends shall be done.

THE CONVERSIONS OF FOUR YEARS.

The Methodist "twentieth century" movement had two objects. First, it wanted $20,000,000. Second, it wanted 1,000,000 conversions. It might be fairer to say that first it wanted the conversions and second the dollars. The order makes no difference. Both conversions and dollars were wanted. The dollars were secured. Were the conversions? This is the question that has been bothering many members of the Methodist Episcopal church. The committee which was appointed to secure the conversions raised its demand from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000. This was in 1898. Since that time Dr. Mills has been able to report that the last dollar of the $20,000,000 fund has been subscribed. But people have been writing to the Methodist papers insisting that spiritual as well as financial progress was necessary. What could be shown in the way of spiritual progress?

Point was lent to this question by the fact that since 1898 the total membership of the Methodist Episcopal church (north) has not increased with great rapidity. In 1898 the membership (official figures) was 2,893,000. In 1899 it was 2,876,000. In 1900 it was 2,929,000. In 1901 it was 2,928,000. In 1902 it was 2,997,000. The means by which membership was depleted were three in number. First, deaths. Second, withdrawals. Third, a more careful scrutiny of membership records. The deaths were inevitable. The withdrawals were caused largely by dissatisfaction with the discipline of the Methodist church and could be regarded as a gain rather than as a loss. The more careful scrutiny of membership records, resulting in the elimination of "dead" members, was conducive both to accuracy of statement and to compactness of organization. The question remained, however: Why is it not possible for us to get more new members?

Dr. Thompson of the Northwestern Christian Advocate answers this question in the current issue of his paper. He answers it in a most interesting way. He claims that during the last four years the Methodist church (north) has had at least 1,500,000 conversions and accessions. When the basis of his estimate is investigated his estimate seems to be conservative. "The number of accessions on probation during each of the last three years," he says, "has been greater than the number of accessions in any year during the entire 129 years of the history of the Methodist Episcopal church, with the exception of the years 1894 to 1898, inclusive." This is evidently not said for the purpose of gloating over large figures. The comfort it brings to Methodists is that it seems to show that despite doubts to the contrary the Methodist church is still a "soul saving organization."

What the Northwestern Christian Advocate now wants is the appointment of an evangelistic secretary who shall take charge of an evangelistic movement operating throughout the Methodist church. There is already a similar secretary and movement in the Presbyterian church. It is evident that spiritual energy of the evangelistic type is by no means dead.

INCREASE OF PNEUMONIA.

If the statistics printed in the bulletin of the Chicago health department for the last week are correct, then pulmonary tuberculosis, familiarly known as "consumption," is decreasing in this country, while pneumonia is increasing. This condition is more serious than would first appear, for while consumption has always been dreaded, perhaps more so than any other disease, because of the inability of medical science to grapple with it, yet those having it sometimes live for years with comparatively little suffering, while pneumonia runs a swift course. Even if the patient recovers he frequently finds himself weakened by the force of the attack ever afterwards.

The health bulletin makes the startling statement that since the census year 1900 more than one-eighth of all the deaths in Chicago has been occasioned by pneumonia. It has killed one-third more than consumption and 46 per cent more than diphtheria, erysipelas, influenza, measles, puerperal fever, smallpox, typhoid fever, and whooping cough combined. During the first seventeen days of this month, out of the total 1,436 deaths reported, 299, or more than one-fifth, were caused by pneumonia, which is also a considerable increase over the same period of last year.

What is true of health conditions in this city appears to be true of the whole country. Dr. Reynolds calls attention to the vital statistics of the last twenty years, which show that while consumption decreased from 18.21 per 10,000 of population in 1880 to 14.44 in 1900, pneumonia increased during the same period from 12.56 to 13.49; in other words, there was a decrease of 20.7 per cent of deaths from consumption and an increase of 7.4 per cent of deaths from pneumonia in the twenty years past. In Chicago, for the same period, the figures are still more significant, as they show that in forty years there has been a decrease of nearly 40 per cent in consumption mortality and an increase of more than 350 per cent of pneumonia mortality.

In searching for the causes of the great increase the health officials find one in the highly contagious character of the disease and a lack of care to destroy the sputa which contains the microörganism that is inhaled and produces the disease. Another cause is found in poorly ventilated apartments, offices, factories, theaters, passenger cars, etc. The report urges the necessity of ventilation and cleanliness in apartments and close localities of all kinds. Undoubtedly this would help some, but yet there would still remain the whole atmosphere of Chicago, which is unclean. If filthiness is one of the causes of this scourge it is almost as easy to catch the disease out of doors as in unventilated rooms and dirty cars. What is needed is cleaning up both outdoors and indoors.

APOSTLE SMOOT'S case now goes to the Gentiles.

JANITORS of flat buildings in St. Louis have organized a union and will go at once into training for next year.

THE case becomes much simpler if Mr. Darrow consents to run. All he will need then will be a plurality of the votes.

Even There.

The prairie dog that had started out to see the world was taking in the sights in a neighboring village inhabited by his own species.

"Well," he said, as he backed hastily out of a subterranean dwelling that a rattlesnake had preëmpted, "I see they have the same tunnel problem to solve here that they have in other cities."

Found Her Place.

The tall, angular woman who had entered the car found it full of men busily engaged with their newspapers.

"I am sorry," she said, grimly, "there is no room for me among the reading matter."

And accordingly she proceeded to get next to the displayed ads that lined the upper portion of the car.

Lack of Commercial Honor.

The Other Man—"Senator, what do you think of the Delaware infamy?"

Senator Lotsmun—"Infamy is the right word. By George, sir, that man Addicks bought the office fair and square, and the infernal scoundrels are holding out on him!"

Posted on That.

"Now, children," said the good man who was talking to the Sunday school, "you know, of course, where all the pretty things you find in your stockings Christmas morning really come from, do you not?"

"Yes, sir," they replied, with one voice, "Germany."

Benny on Corn.

Corn is a very useful vegetable. If it were not for corn there would be no corn cakes with butter and molasses. Corn grows in large fields, and you plow it with a horse. There was a man who had a cornfield, and he had no horse, but he had a large and faithful wife, who took care of it, accompanied by a trusty dog, while he wrote poetry for the papers. We ought to be thankful if we have a good wife, which is much better than hanging around saloons and wasting your time in idleness. Corn is also useful to feed hogs with, and can be made into cob pipes which will make you sick if you are not accustomed to it. Let us firmly resolve that we will reform and lead a better life. BENNY.

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1903: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

FROM Paris comes the news that Washington is about to be graced by a ministress, who, in spite of her Chinese birth, will, according to Galic predictions, lead the feminine fashion in the national capital of the United States. The woman in question has made her home, it is true, in France since her childhood, being the daughter of a Chinese diplomat. She talks French without the trace of an accent, and with the exception that her complexion has a slight yellowish tinge and her eyes an oval rather than a round shape, there is nothing to distinguish her from the native Parisian "elegantes." Indeed, she has often been compared to a Parisienne playing at being oriental. She is affianced, so I hear, from Paris, to the Siamese envoy at Washington, and may shortly be expected in this country.

According to those who know her and to the fashionable "couturières" and "modistes" at Paris, she can give points in dressing and in elegance to the most artistically attired of Parisiennes, and passes as one of the most perfectly dressed women of the French capital. I had not heard until I received this news of the Siamese envoy's impending marriage. But if he weds Mlle. Yu—for that is her name—he will be a fortunate man, and it will be strange to see a Chinese woman setting Parisian fashion in the capital of the United States.

Although the former consort of the Saxon heir apparent has through the divorce pronounced by the Saxon courts ceased to be crown princess of Saxony, and there is no longer any danger of her becoming queen of Saxony on the death of King George, yet for the present she still retains her rank and status as a princess of the dethroned house of Lorraine-Tuscany and as an archduchess and imperial princess of Austria-Hungary.

There seems to be an impression that she renounced these titles at the time of her marriage to the Saxon crown prince. But this is not the case. The act of renunciation which every Austrian archduchess makes on marrying is merely that of her rights of precedence and to the Austro-Hungarian throne. Thus, for instance, the younger daughter of the emperor by her act of renunciation on marriage lost her precedence as the sovereign's daughter, acquiring that of her husband, Archduke Francis Salvator, and even the emperor's granddaughter, who married Prince Otto Windisch-Graetz, still remains an Austrian archduchess, though forced to be content with the precedence of a Princess Windisch-Graetz.

It is possible that the emperor, or else a family council of the agnates of the house of Hapsburg, and likewise of the Tuscany-Lorraine family, may deprive the ex-crown princess of her titles, rights, privileges, and status as an Austro-Hungarian archduchess, which for the present, however, she still retains. In that case her name will be stricken from the official list of the imperial house, like that of her brother, the ex-Archduke Leopold, and of her uncle, the ex-Archduke John.

There is the case of another royal princess who voluntarily, and without scandal, surrendered her royal rank, titles, and prerogatives in order to marry the man who had won her love—namely: the ex-Princess Pauline of Würtemberg, daughter of the late Duke Eugene of Würtemberg. She is now the wife of a Dr. Willim, a physician in practice at Breslau, and goes by the name of Frau Willim, without even the nobiliary particle of "von." She learned to know and to love her husband when he was giving medical care and attention to her father, and is a most estimable though eccentric woman.

The divorce of the ex-crown princess and the circumstances which led thereto are not without precedent, one which I have not seen mentioned being that of the prince who reigned as King Christian VIII. of Denmark. Shortly before his accession to the throne his consort, Princess Charlotte of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, became so infatuated with a French pianist that her husband had no alternative but to divorce her. She was banished by King Frederick VI. to Horsens, in Jutland, and was later on permitted to take up her residence in Italy, where she died at Rome in 1840. It was her only son, King Frederick VII., who was the last king of the senior branch of the house of Oldenburg, and that he inherited some of his mother's traits is shown by the fact that he divorced two royal princesses in turn before finally contracting a morganatic marriage with a Parisian modiste.

It was a princess of Tuscany who may be said to have been the cause of the ruin of the historic house of Medici, which for so long occupied the Tuscan throne. She was the wife of Cosmos III., duke of Tuscany, and was a daughter of Gaston of Bourbon, duke of Orleans. She eloped from Florence with a French dancing master, and after formally renouncing her privileges as royal princess, she was separated legally from her husband. She took up her residence in the convent of Montmartre, near Paris, but behaved there in such a frivolous manner that at length the abbess was forced to expel her, declaring that she could "tolerate more readily the presence of the devil in person than of such a rebellious and turbulent spirit." Towards the latter part of her life she repented and entreated in vain the pope to negotiate a reconciliation between herself and the duke of Tuscany. Eventually she died in obscurity and poverty at Paris towards the middle of the eighteenth century.

Quite a number of British officers cashiered during the course of the recent war in south Africa for being concerned in surrenders and disasters of one kind and another are being restored to the army and rehabilitated. One of the most notable cases is that of Maj. Lynch Stapleton Cotton, a cousin of Lord Combermere, who was cashiered as the commanding officer of Helvetia in the Transvaal when it surrendered to the Boers. Maj. Stapleton Cotton, who is a man of about 45, and who served with distinction in the Afghan and Burmese wars, held Helvetia against an overwhelming force of Boers until fifty of his regiment—the Liverpool—had been killed, 200 others placed hors de combat, and he himself so seriously wounded that he was unable to take any further active part in directing the operations of defense. Then he ordered the surrender only because he found that the Boers were commanding his position from Gun hill, and that he was entirely surrounded. According to all the rules of warfare he had acted well, had surrendered only when hopelessly outnumbered and surrounded, was so ill from the effects of his several wounds that he was unable to defend himself at his trial by court-martial, and was cashiered in deference to foolish orders which attempted to better the great Napoleon's wisdom by placing surrenders outside the possibilities of war.

It is pleasant to be able to relate that Lord Roberts, who decided that the major had been the victim of a gross injustice, took an active part in his reinstatement, overriding in the matter the opposition of the secretary of state for war, who, never having been under fire himself, is, of course, particularly severe with all those whom he considers to have been in any way remiss in their military duties in the field.

The present Lord Combermere is still a boy of about 16, and his widowed mother is a sister of Sir George Chetwynd. She was previously the wife of C. H. Pool of Marbury hall, and after her union with him had been dissolved by a divorce she married the late Lord Combermere, whose viscounty was conferred upon his grandfather, the famous general, for services in the peninsula war, a hundred years ago.

MR. KIPLING, according to Lyman Abbott, is the greatest poet of this century because he is "the true interpreter of its great future—force." There is no doubt that Mr. Kipling is at the head of the brah-rah school of poetry. THE LAND OF THE MIDNIGHT KNOCK.

At "The Sign of the Hammer," Hammerfest, Norway, Jan. 19.—[Very Special.]—Announcement was made today that the knockers' convention will positively be held on Feb. 12. If there is any further postponement I shall have to leave for home, unless I receive the check to which I delicately referred t'other day.

Last night we saw Odman at the Dramatiska Teatern. These people are queer, so queer. Every one seemed to have finished his dinner before going to the theater. We listened in vain for "Near-Food, Tencentsabox." The Doctor fingered his dime feverishly, impatiently (the Doctor is a grand spender and knows how to show a lady a good time), but no Near-Food venders appeared. The provincial manners of the natives proved highly amusing. Not more than one in three was late, and we actually heard over half the lines. Instead of every one making a scramble to put on wraps during the last act to see who could get out on the sidewalk before the last line had been spoken, the audience remained in their seats until the curtain fell. It sounds absurd, but these people go to the theater to see the play, not to "take part" in an amateur fire drill.

The evening undress of the ladies is about as expurgated as what we are accustomed to see in Chicago, save that here they wear aigrettes in addition to the regulation skirt, belt, and necklace (not knocking the aigrette).

We did not see a single lady enter a box, flop into a chair and cross her legs in the elegant fashion of Chicago's smart people. We fear the Hammerfestians are not out after "culchure" with a search warrant. I'll ring off now.

Buddie and the Yellow Dog.

A TALE FOR SMALL CHILDREN.

[Note—This story has been censored by Mrs. McClintock and pronounced perfectly moral.]

II.

"I didn't know you could talk," said Buddie.

The yellow dog made her a respectful bow. "To the best of my knowledge and belief," he replied, "this is the first time I have enjoyed the privilege. And yet I cannot remember a day when I did not wish to talk, if only to protest against the common belief that a yellow dog is good for nothing except to kick around."

He certainly did not talk like a common dog, nor did he look like one. He held his head proudly, and his tail had an upward and aristocratic sweep.

"It only goes to prove the old proverb," he went on, "that if you give a yellow dog a bad name it will stick to him like a burr to his tail. Now, I do not know of a single yellow dog who is not the equal, in intelligence, good manners, courage, and fidelity, of any black or brown dog. And now that the privilege of speech has been conferred upon me I intend at the next meeting of the Yellow Dog Suffrage association to introduce resolutions condemning the universal practice of using the term yellow dog as an adjective of scorn—such as 'yellow dog congressman,' 'yellow dog legislature,' 'yellow dog this, that, or the other.' I say, give the yellow dog a show. Other dogs have shows, but you never hear of a yellow dog show. Let justice be done, though the skies fall."

He made a grand flourish with his right forepaw and paused. "Do you follow me?" he asked.

"O, where shall we go?" cried Buddie, jumping up, and glad that the rigamarole was at an end.

Colonel perceived that she hadn't an idea what he was talking about, but he was too polite to exhibit a natural annoyance.

"Anywhere you please," he said, dropping again upon all fours (he had been sitting up on his hind legs).

"There are no paths; I'm afraid we'll get lost," said Buddie, looking doubtfully into the dark grove of spruce and balsam fir.

"O, you needn't be afraid of that," said Colonel. "If you remember I cautioned you not to disobey your mother by going through the hole in the fence; but now that we're through we may as well look around a bit. I very often go miles into the forest, for I can always smell my way back again. Now, I owe a party call to my friend, the Laziest Beaver. Suppose we go to see him. We'll be sure to find him at home."

"Are beavers lazy?" asked Buddie.

"I have known a great many of them," Colonel replied, "and I never knew one to do a stroke of work if he could get out of it. My friend, the Laziest Beaver, never worked in his life."

"O, let's go and see him!" cried Buddie. And they set off together through the forest.

And some other time, children, you may hear what became of them. That is, if you care to listen.

THROUGH the STAGE DOOR

HOWARD GOULD, leading man at the Dearborn, began his career "on any stage" as call boy at the famous Boston museum. It was in the time of the venerable William Warren and the idolized Annie Clarke. Occasionally the stock company of the museum was called on to support a star. On one occasion Frank Mayo brought "Davy Crockett" to the house, and then Mr. Gould was given his first chance to appear in a speaking part.

His "part" consisted of two words. He took the part of a lawyer and he came on just once, bringing in his hand a deed which he held out, with the speech "Your signatures."

At the first performance Gould appeared in an elaborate makeup, which it had taken him two hours to construct. And, instead of saying "Your signatures," he said "Your signatures, please."

Old man Mayo nailed the youthful actor right after the last curtain and backed him into a corner.

"Your speech," said Mayo to Gould, with a twinkle in his eye, "your speech reads 'Your signatures' and not 'Your signatures, please.' If the author had wanted 'please' in the line he would have put it in. As he didn't write it you must leave it out. I see you are a young actor," went on Mayo, his twinkle broadening, "and I feel it my duty to warn you against any tendency to elaborate your part."

"We're going to have a wooden wedding over to our house," says the woman monologue artist. "I know it's a wooden wedding because my pa says sister's going to marry a blockhead."

When Lulu Glaser, star of "Dolly Varden," was playing recently in Boston, she had an experience which gave her a new idea of the pranks of college boys. A lot of Harvard men attended the first performance, among them a youth whom Miss Glaser knew slightly. He brought half a dozen of his fellows around to call on her at her room. While she was talking to them the maid opened the door and ushered in a stranger. The new comer carried in one hand a paper, bound copy of "The Mill on the Floss." It's original cost was perhaps 25 cents.

"I believe this is Miss Glaser?" said the stranger. "I have come to sell you this magnificent copy of 'The Mill on the Floss' for $5."

Miss Glaser looked at him in astonishment. The other men in the room backed away into a corner and stood looking on.

"I've read the book," said Miss Glaser. "Besides I couldn't think of paying $5 for a paper bound copy that didn't cost more than a quarter."

"O, Miss Glaser, hear me. Do not turn a deaf ear to my entreaties," went on the youth. "I have come here to sell you this book for

"DO NOT SAY ME NAY," HE PLEADED.

$5, and must do it. My future happiness depends upon it. If you will give me a chance to show you the hidden beauties of this wonderful volume I feel sure you will feel as deeply interested in it as do I."

By this time the actress was looking around for a way of escape. Plainly she was dealing with a crazy man. She glanced over at the group of students and caught several of them trying to conceal smiles. Her eye fell again on the book agent. He was actually on his knees and beads of perspiration were standing out on his forehead.

"Do not say me nay," he pleaded, and a ripple of suppressed laughter came from the crowd of students. Plainly something was in the wind. Miss Glaser determined to fall in with the spirit of the thing. She took $5 from her purse and paid for the book, whereupon the book agent rose to his feet and, with profuse thanks, withdrew.

Then the other men gave rein to their amusement. "You see," said one of them, "we're initiating him into Phi Delta Kappa and we gave him the stunt of selling you that paperbacked novel for $5. He wasn't to say a word about anything but selling you the book, and if he hadn't succeeded it would have gone hard with him. We came up to see that he played fair, and we're much obliged to you."

"The doctor came out to our house the other day," says the vaudeville comedian in the "rube" makeup. "The doc came out and fell into the well. My ma says it served him right, because he ought to be looking out for the sick and let the well alone."

A large line of college boys have been engaged to sing in the chorus of "Peggy from Paris." A number of them served during the last season in the football squad at the University of Chicago, and as many more in the same capacity at Northwestern. Consequently many of them wore long and bushy heads of hair.

As a matter of fact, some of these youths were given jobs in the chorus because of their hirsute development rather than because of their accomplishments in a musical way. But that fact was tactfully concealed from them by the stage director.

The first performance of "Peggy" is to be given next Monday evening. Yesterday it occurred to a number of the former football players that in order to make a smooth appearance on the night of their début they had better visit a barber shop and get trimmed up. They left the theater in a body after rehearsal, and news of their fell purpose reached the stage manager in a casual way half an hour after their departure.

"Stop it!" he cried. "Stop it! Run, somebody, to the barber shop and tell those idiots not to have their long hair cut off. Don't they know that the reason I hired half of them was to stand in the front row and look foolish when we sing that football chorus."

The messenger sped in haste to the shop, which was fortunately in an adjoining hotel.

THE SAD EYED MANAGER LOOKED THEM OVER.

But almost half the devastation had already been wrought. The tiled floor of the barber shop was already thickly upholstered with hair of assorted shades.

"Stop!" cried the breathless messenger. And four startled barbers held their open shears uplifted in air. "Mr. Blank wants all the gentlemen of the chorus to report at once at the stage. Stop just where you are. Don't wait to get finished up."

One by one they climbed down and hurried back to the stage. There the horrified manager inspected the damage which had been wrought. There were some whose topknots had already been reduced to the normal size. There were others who had had only patches cut out of the crowns of glory. The remnant was untouched.

"Now, don't any of you boys have your hair touched again till this engagement is over," he said. "If you do I'll have to get some new people."

And now the question is, what will they look like before the expected long run of "Peggy" is over?

Once upon a time Sedley Brown was the husband of Miss Henrietta Crosman, but the couple found wedded life uncongenial and found relief in the divorce court. Now Mr. Brown is the stage director up at the Bush Temple theater. In that capacity it is his duty to superintend the production of the plays put on by the Players' Stock company and to arrange the groupings in all the various scenes, so that they may make harmonious and artistic stage pictures.

As an aid to him in making these stage groupings effective and artistic Mr. Brown has been for years making a collection of pictures, water colors, etchings, engravings, and illustrations cut from all manner of periodicals. He has accumulated many hundreds of pictures, which he keeps classified in large portfolios, so that now when a new play is to be put on he can usually turn at once to a picture which will serve as a model in a general way for the arrangement of the stage and of the players in the different scenes. If the play be a historical drama he can often find some picture which represents almost the exact scene he wants to reproduce, and which, in addition to helping him in making up his stage picture, will suggest many details in the way of costume and scenery.

"What is her name?" asks the comedian in clown's motley of his partner in a dress suit.

"Her name is Gladys."

"How do you spell it?"

"You don't spell it. You whistle it."

[From the New York Times.]

The Rev. Percy S. Grant was recently called upon to make an afterdinner speech upon a topic which he did not think would be especially interesting to his auditors. After talking about various subjects other than the one assigned to him, he said he reminded himself of the preacher who went to visit a parishioner and found nobody at home. After ringing the door bell in vain, the preacher was walking away from the house when a parrot shouted from its cage on the front porch:

"Thank you, sir! Thank you!"

"Why?" answered the preacher. "What have you to thank me for?"

"For not mentioning that confounded old cracker," responded the parrot.

One Speaker Thinks a Few Pictures Will Work Wonders with the Cook —Another Wants the Work Table by the Range—A Third Wants the Pantry and a Few Other Things Obliterated in the Interest of Simplicity.

"A picture of the policeman on the beat hung in a prominent place on the kitchen wall will sweeten the cook's disposition; a reproduction of Doré's masterpiece will make her angelic; a copy of the 'Decision of Paris' will add dignity to her apple pie; while any lithograph of a farmyard will increase her appreciation of plump poultry." Such were some of the conclusions of members of the Hull House Woman's club after they had listened to an address by Mrs. Lizzie Bingham on "What Constitutes a Convenient Kitchen." Mrs. Bingham urged that nothing can equal pictures as an inspiration for the autocrat of the kitchen.

"The artistic side of the kitchen must not be overlooked," she declared. "The walls should be adorned with appropriate pictures—they will inspire the cook and make her hours of labor pass pleasantly. There ought to be nice dotted Swiss curtains at the windows and blooming plants on the sills. I would have rugs on the floor—nice, comfortable looking rugs—and a number of chairs and one easy rocker."

In enumerating the necessary equipment Mrs. Bingham said that first of all there must be a good, responsive range, over which there should be a hood to carry away the fumes. Second, she would have a work table placed near the sink, and over it there should be a cupboard. No kitchen is complete, she continued, without a high stool on which the cook might sit and rest while working at the table. Near the work table there should be a refrigerator in which small fruits, and butter, and cheese, and eggs may be kept fresh and cold.

Too Many Modern Conveniences.

Others who talked about convenient kitchens wanted a few of the modern conveniences obliterated. Mrs. Ida Foster Cronk urges that pantries in steam heated flat kitchens are a nuisance that should not be tolerated. She applied her remarks only to "steam heated flat kitchens," because in these, she said, gas ranges should be used, and consequently it was not necessary to have a pantry to keep the food from being spoiled by the heat from a range.

"The good housewife will get rid of the pantry nuisance as soon as she can," declared Mrs. Cronk. "They are only catchalls for dirt and old discarded pans. The top shelves should also be cut off nearly every cupboard in Chicago. They can't be reached without getting on a chair, and consequently are merely storehouses for antiquated utensils which are useless but which the housewife cannot bear to throw away. Closed plumbing around sinks must also be done away with."

For the arrangement of a kitchen in a flat Mrs. Cronk urged that the table be placed beside the stove to save the cook as many steps as possible.

Mrs. Jennie Barrett advocated the hanging of pots and pans on the wall, but her plan was opposed by a member who said they would be pulled down by the baby. "One of the objections of not having a pantry," she said, "is that things cannot be made and kept without a pantry—they have to be eaten as soon as they are cooked."

Kitchens Too Barren.

Miss Jane Addams expressed the belief that kitchens are much too barren nowadays. "The kitchen is kept bare of everything that suggests the work of the cook. This is just as wrong as to have a carpenter shop with all the tools hidden away. The kitchen at present when not in use contains only two visible articles of furniture—a polished stove and a clean sink. They should not be kept so bare. If a girl has around her the signs of her trade she will take more interest in both the kitchen and the work."

REPUDIATES HIS AGED MOTHER.

Here's a Story of a Man Whose Prosperity Leads Him to Renounce His Parent.

Some Chicago man, whose mother gave years of devotion, trouble, and pain for him, has repudiated her in her old age. The mother, hurt and bitter, wrote a letter to THE TRIBUNE and went back to her home on the farm.

The letter of the mother, stained with tears, says:

"I forgot my station in life and came to Chicago to spend a day with my son. He had forgotten me or tried to forget me. He sent me from his office with his office boy to dine. He promised to meet us; came late and reproved me because I had not chosen a more secluded seat. He tried to hide when he saw any of his friends. He reproved me for looking around. Finally he said:

"'Mother, if you had not come I could have gone to the opera.'

"I left him then and am now writing from the rest room of a store, tired out and sick. I am going back to the farm. I cannot forget the boy who wore jeans clothes, but the man who wears broadcloth wants to forget his mother."

No attention was paid by Miss Evans to the letter. Miss Evans recently returned to the city and the suit was brought today.

MAGDA.
A Play in Three Acts,
BY HERMANN SUDERMANN.

Presented at the Illinois Theater, Chicago, by Mrs. Patrick Campbell and Her Company, Jan. 21, 1903. The cast:

Womanliness is the predominating characteristic of Mrs. Campbell's Magda, and it seemed last evening at the Illinois, while watching her portrayal of the Sudermann heroine, that this characteristic was more strongly emphasized than it had been in the performance she offered Chicago playgoers when here a year ago.

The year appeared to have brought to the impersonation a suggestion of gentle tenderness and sympathy not found in it when previously seen. The change was in the nature of improvement, for the actress has not permitted the more attractive attributes to overshadow or lessen the qualities which lend the portrayal strength and vigor. There is still the same firm, clear sounding of the note of freedom—personal, mental, and moral—the same deft indicatings of the vanity and occasional imperiousness of the petted and successful prima donna, the same skillful revealing of the unrest and discomfort felt amid inartistic and plain surroundings, but present and sensible throughout the whole is the element of womanliness—strong, healthy, helpful womanliness, such as is found in a nature purified, ennobled, and made self-reliant by varied experience and suffering. And this womanliness makes the impersonation one of unusual sympathy and beauty, one whose appeal is as instant as it was irresistible, one not readily to be forgotten.

With what tenderness and gentle affection the scenes with the sister are interpreted—that first meeting, and the promise of the money for the wedding dower! How much of kindliness, amounting almost to reverence, is shown in the various conversations with the father, even the final ones, in which independence had to be declared, not lacking in this quality! And in the scenes with the pastor, how effectively the transition from amusement and raillery to earnestness and respect is indicated! In these, as elsewhere throughout the play, it is by a multitude of finely considered and artistically employed touches that Mrs. Campbell now lends remarkable breadth and womanliness to Magda's character.

The more dramatic moments were also more intensely and strongly played last night than before. The dismissal of Von Kellar in the last act was the most impassioned outburst yet enjoyed at the hands of Mrs. Campbell, and although only a momentary flash gave a glimpse of emotional possibilities not before discovered in our fair and gifted visitor. The picking up and concealing of the lace "tidies" and the involuntary pushing away of them when sitting at the table, are some of the neat bits of stage business employed and commended last season, but which, when seen again last evening, pleased and gratified, since they again evidenced the care and thought expended on the rounding out of the portrayal. Magda's love for the beautiful and her dislike for the inartistic could not be shown in a neater, more unobtrusive, and yet more eloquent way.

The support was adequate. Mr. Kerr proved his versatility by assuming the rôle of the aged and disabled father, and, although his voice was a suggestion too robust and steady, yet he gave the tyrannical domineering German with good understanding and considerable power. Mr. Glaser found the rôle of the pastor better suited to his qualities than was that of Richard in "The Joy of Living." The character is intensely serious in cast and a bit inclined to indulgence in moralizing, and to such the actor's impressive manner is peculiarly fitted. Mr. Macdermott made Kellar as sanctimonious, sleek, and despicable as he should be, and Mr. Bryant was a thoroughly satisfactory Max. The women of the cast were noticeably English, none of them in either dress or manner suggesting the German. Miss Dupre was as winsome a servant as one could ask to see, but she never lived in the fatherland, and the three members of high society who came to call on Magda were anything rather than German in appearance and action. Mrs. Waldron played the mother pleasingly, albeit with something more of gentility and high breeding than the character by right can claim, and Miss Lamborn was delightfully girlish and sweet as Marie.

Tonight "Aunt Jeannie" will be heard for the last time.

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The melancholy knight—or was it Sancho?—was not altogether right, for the pantomimic nest in which birds sing one year in Drury Lane is sure to be filled the next with equally melodious fledglings on Broadway. John Bull's pantos soon fit Jonathan. A little making over of course is necessary. When "Mr. Bluebeard" turns up on Broadway he is a sort of red, white, and blue beard. But that is a trifle. Pantomime is pantomime the world over; and a splendid and dazzling thing it is as served at the Knickerbocker.

The real protagonist in tonight's performance was not the Bluebeard of Dan McAvoy, nor yet the Sister Anne of Eddie Foy. It was not even the Fatima of Flora Parker, nor the Selim of Adele Rafter. It was the constantly shifting scenery, the thousands of gorgeous costumes, the floods of kaleidoscopic lights, and, most of all, the hundreds of young girls and young women that gave flesh and substance to the fine frenzies of the costumer and the limelight man. Girls, girls, girls, nothing but girls—flashing, dashing, entrancing girls!

Mr. McAvoy's beard was blue. He had an occasional song and sang it well. Mr. Foy was no more fortunate in his task, which was to play the ancient and ugly dame of extravaganza.

Yet the evening was not without an individual success—an individual success of the first order. After day had dawned in "The Castle Terrace and Garden" on rushed a chorus of Bowery girls singing "The Song Bird of Melody Lane." A titter began in the audience that broke out into scattered guffaws and continued laughter as recall followed recall. It was all occasioned by a slim, angular Lize in a pink striped shirt and gray skirt. Her name was not on the program, but in three minutes she had the house at her feet.

Romantic Music Play in London.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Jan. 22, 3 a. m.—A large and enthusiastic audience at the Shaftesbury theater was delighted last night with a new poetical musical play entitled "For Sword or Song," which was the joint product of Robert George Legge, Louis Calvert, and Raymond Rosee. The theme was "love is the soul of life and music the soul of love," and it was illustrated at the final fall of the curtain by a dying father's reconciliation with the son whom he had cursed and driven into exile, and who wandered with a band of gypsies. The father was Fred Terry and the son was Julia Neilson, masquerading as a musician and gypsy, and making love to the daughter of a count, who had been stolen by wandering minstrels. The play introduced mortals and evil spirits and was staged for the hall of a Hungarian castle on a mountain plateau. The most dramatic passage was the deliverance of the father by the daughter of the count after death sentence had been passed by the gypsies and his own son appointed as executioner.

COTTAGE TO BE BUILT FOR THE RURAL HOME AND SCHOOL FOR BOYS.

An enthusiastic meeting of the directors of the St. Charles Home for Boys was held yesterday. Judge R. S. Tuthill, J. Stanley Brown, Henry T. Renny, and T. D. Henley were present. Henry E. Weaver represented J. W. Gates and R. H. Allerton by proxy. Mr. Gates sent a dispatch expressing regret at his absence. The contracts for the building of the two cottages, of which the above gives the design, has been given to John Wheeler of Geneva, Ill., and his bond has been filed and accepted. One is to be finished July 1 and the other Aug. 1. The cost of these cottages will be $25,000 each. The next contract—for the school building, costing $50,000—will be advertised for in a few days. The Chicago and Northwestern railway is arranging to put in a switch to the grounds, and that work will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. President Marvin Hughitt of the Northwestern has given his assurance that his road will do everything possible to facilitate the upbuilding of the school. Gov. Yates has been working hard in behalf of the enterprise.

Mrs. Hughson, of Chicago, whose letter follows, is another woman in high position who owes her health to the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for several years. My appetite was fitful, and I would lie awake for hours, and could not sleep, until I seemed more weary in the morning than when I retired. After reading one of your advertisements I decided to try the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad I did. No one can describe the good it did me. I took three bottles faithfully, and besides building up my general health, it drove all disease and poison out of my body, and made me feel as spry and active as a young girl. Mrs. Pinkham's medicines are certainly all they are claimed to be."—MRS. M. E. HUGHSON, 347 E. Ohio-st., Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Ordinary Tasks Produce Severe Illness.

Apparently trifling incidents in woman's daily life frequently produce severe illness. A slip on the stairs, lifting, standing at a counter, running a sewing machine, or attending to the most ordinary tasks may result in displacement, and a train of serious evils is started.

The first indication of such trouble should be the signal for quick action. Don't let the condition become chronic through neglect or a mistaken idea that you can overcome it by exercise or leaving it alone.

More than a million women have regained health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for her advice, and a few timely words from her will show you the right thing to do. This advice costs you nothing, but it may mean life or happiness or both.

Mrs. Lelah Stowell, 177 Wellington St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—You are indeed a godsend to women, and if they all knew what you could do for them, there would be no need of their dragging out miserable lives in agony.

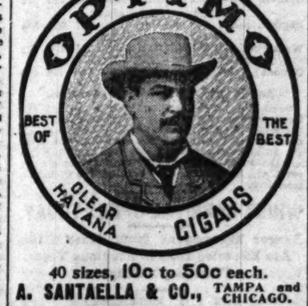

"I suffered for years with bearing-down pains, nervousness and excruciating headache, but a few bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made life look new and promising to me. I am light and happy, and I do not know what sickness is, and I now enjoy the best of health."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can always be relied upon to restore health to women who thus suffer. It is a sovereign cure for the worst forms of female complaints—that bearing-down feeling and weak back. It dissolves and expels tumors in the early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. It subdues nervous prostration, and tones up the entire system. Its record of cures is the greatest in the world, and should be relied upon with confidence.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

COMPEL BRUSH TO SURRENDER.

WITHDRAWS INJUNCTION.

Agreement Formally Ratified in Original Form—Unwritten History.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 22.—[Special.]—At 2 o'clock this morning the joint peace agreement was unanimously agreed to by the National league magnates.

The magnates of the National league did not meet until nearly 5 in the afternoon. It had been intended to convene at 10 o'clock in the morning to submit both minority and majority reports, but Brush and his minority retired to a remote part of the hotel and, with the aid of a blue pencil, started to reduce the report which they had prepared the night before. This required seven hours.

While this was going on Messrs. Hermann, Hart, Robison, and Dreyfuss were walking the lobby of the hotel, saying things to themselves about Brush. The impression had been created that Brush was purposely wasting time in the hope of tiring the members of the peace faction out. But it only served to make them hotter under the collar.

Brush Withdraws Suit.

Brush's first step after the league went into session was to state that he had arranged to withdraw the injunction proceedings. This action on his part was entirely voluntary. Several members of the league were anxious to have him go on with the suit, and freely predicted that if he did the New York club would be so badly tied up in a few days that it would require the expenditure of a vast sum to disentangle it. Incidentally, Brush would have been asked to give a bond of something like $1,500,000 so that the clubs which might be d..maged by his action could be indemnified.

The withdrawal of the injunction was the first step backwards for the obstructionists. It was plainly to be seen that both the New York and Brooklyn clubs saw the handwriting on the wall. When the player question finally came up for discussion the Brooklyn club contended that it would never consent to the ratification of the agreement unless it was given Keeler, Kitson, and Donovan.

Peace Pact Stands Intact.

The New York club did not put in a claim for any players, but asked to have the matter referred to a committee of arbitration consisting of four members and agreeing to abide by the decisions of this committee. Neither of these requests was granted.

The resolution passed on Tuesday changed the wording of that clause to read "borough of Manhattan" instead of "New York," but this was not ratified. The delay which the Brush faction has caused put an end to President Hermann's patience and, to the surprise of Brush, Hermann made a motion to have the report of the majority filed. This was done for the purpose of putting in a resolution ratifying the original peace compact.

At every turn John T. Brush, the former dictator of the National league and who for years was referred to as the Napoleon of baseball, met his master.

New Yorker Is "Turned Down."

Many things came to the surface here, and none of these was complimentary to Brush. It was learned that Brush had made a desperate effort to be appointed fourth man on the peace committee. President Dreyfuss and President Pulliam were in Indianapolis a week before the peace conference, and to them Brush made known his desire to be a member of the committee. He was told the American league would never consent to meet the National league committee if he were a member of it.

Brush said he had certain documentary evidence against the American league which, if presented at the conference, would change the entire conditions. He was asked to place his information in the hands of the committee, but refused on the ground that he was the only one who could present it in its proper shape. Dreyfuss took it upon himself in the interests of the league to send a personal request to all the other clubs asking that Brush be chosen as the fourth man. Only one of the seven clubs responded favorably, and at the request of that club, its name is withheld. When he failed to get on the committee Brush raved, and it was then, no doubt, that he made up his mind to fight any agreement the conference might make.

No Evidence in Sight.

Strange to say, Brush has not yet produced the evidence to which he referred, and the other magnates do not hesitate to say he never had any. Though the impression will not down that Freedman is still the real owner of the New York club, Conant of Boston has made a statement which belies these suspicions.

"Mr. Freedman owns just as much of the New York club as we do," said he. "We have $27,000 worth of stock and so has he. The majority of the stock is owned by Brush, and I know that to be an absolute fact."

It was learned from an authentic source, however, that Brush was not responsible for the injunction suit. Freedman insisted upon that action.

The long discussion which followed the presentation of the minority report had not finished at a late hour, when the members said they would probably continue in session during the night or until a final result was reached.

REFUSES HERMANN'S REQUEST.

President Johnson Improves in Health and Declines to Change Wording of the Peace Treaty.

President Johnson of the American league was so far improved in health yesterday that he was permitted to see some of his friends for the first time since his attack of pneumonia developed, and also to transact his first official business. That business was the dispatch of a telegram to President Hermann of the Cincinnati club in response to several pressing messages asking the American league executive to consent to a change in the wording of one of the sections of the peace treaty. This change was the substitution of "Borough of Manhattan" for the more indefinite "New York," in designating the American league's circuit, and was desired by the old league for some occult purpose.

President Johnson replied that the American league's baseball plant was located on Manhattan island, but under no conditions could he allow any changes to be made in the text of the treaty drafted. This reply, fixing the location of the grounds definitely enough for all purposes, indicated by the National league, would seem to relieve the fears of that body that the Johnson league might invade Brooklyn, the Bronx, or Hoboken at some time or other under the terms of the treaty. At the peace conference it was apparent the words "New York" meant Manhattan island, as the National leaguers did not deem it necessary to locate two of the clubs in its own circuit more definitely than by the words "New York" and "Brooklyn."

President Johnson was inclined to view with some imp..tience and disgust the haggling and bicke..ng over split hairs which the National leaguers have been compelled to resort to in order to ratify the peace treaty. It is a significant feature that the old league has spent twice as much time in sparring over unimportant details as the peace committees spent in untangling one of the greatest problems that ever confronted a body of magnates, doing it, moreover, to the complete satisfaction of all except two of the clubs, and those two controlled by men who have done more to injure baseball in the past than all the rest put together.

Mr. Johnson's physician said he was well on the road to recovery, and with rest and caution would be entirely well in a short time.

His injured leg was more comfortable and the swelling, which at one time threatened to make an operation necessary to relieve it, had been successfully reduced by other treatment.

George Carey, Eugene Bradshaw, Richard Harley, Charles Crow, and George Speer were among the baseball associates of Mercer who were present.

ELECT BUCKWALTER CAPTAIN.

Chicago Freshmen Choose Leader for Trip to Meet Illinois Youngsters in Dual Contest.

Clarence J. Buckwalter, ex-captain of the championship relay team of South Division High school, was yesterday elected captain of the freshman track team of the University of Chicago. After the men had finished their daily training in preparation for the Illinois meet tomorrow Stagg called them together and Buckwalter was chosen to lead them on the first trip ever undertaken by a freshman track team from the university. Illinois is said to have a promising squad of freshmen, some of whom, on the basis of previous performances, will give Chicago's men a hard tussle.

Stagg is utilizing some of his star men to coach the youngsters in their respective events. Clyde Blair, the sprinter, has been out at Morgan Park academy and has been giving the track men some pointers on starting. Blair thinks the academy has a promising squad of men. At the university gymnasium Fred Moloney has been giving Catlin and Kelley, the freshman hurdlers, the benefit of his experience at running the sticks.

The fans at the gymnasium were considerably pleased yesterday when Neher, the Indiana man, clipped off a mile in 5:00 flat, paced by Hall. Neher has done this event outdoors in 4:37.

WHIST CARNIVAL OPENS TODAY.

Larger Delegations from Other Cities Are Expected than in Previous Years—First Day's Program.

[BY A. R. METCALFE.]

The whist players of Chicago will gather at the Auditorium today for the fourth annual carnival of the Chicago Whist association, which opens this morning and continues through the balance of the week.

As the midwinter meetings of the American Whist league and the Women's Whist league will also be held here this week, the attendance from other cities will be far greater than ever before.

Many will attend from the east, and good delegations are promised from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Aurora, Joliet, Toledo, and Detroit. From Ottawa, Ill., which has never been represented at whist meetings here, there will be a delegation of fifteen.

The program for today is as follows: Women's pairs, first session, 10 a. m.; first open contest, 2 p. m.; second open contest, 8 p. m. As it is necessary to play in five out of six of the open games to be eligible for the cumulative prizes, all players are expected to start as early as possible.

CORRIGAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

Great Four Year Old Hurt in Accident at Oakland While Exercising.

MAY NOT BE PERMANENT.

Burns & Waterhouse Lose Good Colt in Same Mixup—Jockey Woods Injured.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Burns & Waterhouse's great 4 year old racehorse, Corrigan, met with a serious accident at the Oakland track this forenoon. He was being exercised along with a 2 year old when the latter became frightened and cut across the track, carrying Corrigan with him.

Corrigan was going with such force that he crashed into the fence and turned a somersault over it. He was fortunate to escape with a bruised shoulder, scraped knee and back, and may not be permanently affected as a result of the accident. Jockey L. Woods, who was riding Corrigan, was thrown violently to the ground and suffered a broken collar bone and other injuries.

The 2 year old was fatally hurt and died a little later. He was by Magnet and was promising, so that Burns & Waterhouse's already small stable is still further reduced.

Corrigan was to have started in the handicap this afternoon, and his withdrawal left the event, which was at a mile and an eighth, with a field of four, in which The Fretter and Ishtar were equal betting favorites. It had rained just enough to make the track suitable for The Fretter, and he won all the way. Ishtar hung to him for a little over six furlongs and then surrendered, falling back to last place, Dr. Bernays coming on, winning the place, and, in fact, putting The Fretter to a drive.

Irene Lindsay dropped into a cozy corner in the closing event, a six furlong sprint, and, after she had won as she pleased, T. Wellman, owner of Mocorito, which finished second, stepped forward and ran her up from $700 to $1,805, at which figure Arnold & Co. retained her. Irene had been backed from even money to 1 to 2. Wellman had finished second to her a few days ago with The Pride, but did not bid her up on that occasion.

WINS THE YOUNGSTER RACE.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The 2 year olds had another chance at the Crescent City Jockey club track this afternoon, and the three furlongs dash for the babies brought out five which had never before appeared in public with colors up, along with St. Roche and Miss Nancy, which ran in the first race for youngsters a few days ago. St. Roche, from the stable of Tommy Griffin, finished in front, but was not the best horse. Durnell & Herz's Florist-Veronica, colt, Dick Bernard, would have won if he had not tried to bear into the inside in the run through the stretch, and that beat him by a neck.

McGonigle, from Texas, running in the colors of O. G. Parke, got away in front, but could not last the route, and finished third. Arnold K. delayed the start. When the barrier went up he might just as well have been left at the post.

The handicap at six furlongs was the racing piece of the afternoon, and a choice lot of sprinters lined up at the barrier, but a bad start spoiled the race. Mrs. Frank Foster, which was in front, won all the way from Telamon, which got off second. Philo and Amigari were the betting choices, but never had a chance after the start.

TOP PRICE FOR THE CONQUEROR

[BY HENRY TEN EYCK WHITE.]

The Conqueror, a stallion with a trotting record of 2:12¼, which has sired Contralto, 2:10, and other fast performers, was put up in the Splan sale yesterday and bought by George H. Ketcham for $3,000, the price being the top one of the day. Ketcham owns Cresceus, and The Conqueror will be sent to the Ketcham farm near Toledo, O.

The bidding was brisk all day, and, although a large percentage of the stuff offered was young stock and broodmares, there was a good market for everything that came under the hammer. Budd Doble's team of roan mares, which can beat 2:20 to pole, went to Mart Demarest, the eastern driver, for $1,425, his order coming by wire.

The Michigan pacer, Irene McGregor, 2:13¼, brought $550, but the bargain price of the day for speed was reached when the trotter Henry S., 2:12¼, was offered. "Ras" Eckers, a well known driver, got the horse at $1,350. Speed and breeding qualities were considered when Vyzant Jr., 2:20½ as a 3 year old last summer, was bid off at $1,500. His brother, a year older, but with not much speed, was purchased by Tichenor & Co. for $500 and will be made a coach horse, having substance, style, and enough speed for that purpose.

CHALLENGE CUP TO BE OF GOLD.

Cleveland Driving Club Increases Value of Amateur Trophy to $5,000 and Changes Conditions.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The Gentlemen's Driving club of Cleveland decided today to increase the value of the Cleveland challenge cup for amateur trotters from $1,500 to $5,000. It will be of gold instead of silver, as was first intended. According to the conditions, the race will take place earlier than the Boston cup races, the date having been set for the month between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15. Lord Derby, The Monk, John A. McKerron, and possibly Maj. Delmar, and Peter Stirling will be starters.

Los Angeles Turfman Retaliates.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—"No more racing at Agricultural park under my lease unless I have my winter race meet," is the declaration of Manager Brooks. He has set the driving club guessing because of his action in locking the gates of the park. The trotting horse men cannot get their horses out, and there is talk of an injunction. The directors of the Los Angeles Driving club are wroth. Brooks proposes to bring suit to decide his rights. He wants the club to assume his lease. There is promise of a lively row.

GODDARD DIES OF BULLET WOUND.

SHOT IN HEAD LAST JULY.

First Battle in America with Joe McAuliffe at San Francisco in June, 1892.

Camden, N. J., Jan. 21.—Joe Goddard, the pugilist, who was shot at the republican primaries in Camden county last July, died today in a hospital here. Goddard, it is alleged, was in charge of a gang of Philadelphia repeaters. He got into an altercation with a constable and was shot in the head.

[BY GEORGE SILER.]

Joe Goddard, known as the "Barrier Champion," was born in Pyramid, N. S. W., Nov. 25, 1861, but did not come into prominence as a pugilist until April, 1889, when he defeated Ned Ryan in Australia in three rounds.

He arrived in America, landing in San Francisco, on May 12, 1892, and on June 30, under the auspices of the old California Athletic club, knocked out big Joe McAuliffe in fifteen rounds. On Dec. 8, before the Coney Island Athletic club, he knocked out Peter Maher in three rounds.

He came to Chicago, accompanied by Billy Madden, shortly after that battle, posted $2,500, and challenged Jim Corbett to battle for the championship, but was turned down. On March 3 the following year he went down to defeat before "Denver Edd" Smith at the Olympic club, New Orleans. Goddard's next appearance in the ring, three months later, was at the Columbian Athletic club at Roby, Ind., his opponent being Willis Kennedy, a St. Louis colored heavyweight, whom he defeated in two rounds.

The next heard of Joe was from Australia, where, on Jan. 1, 1894, he was beaten in twelve rounds by Harry Laing for the championship of Australia. He then beat Jim Quigley in two rounds, fought a fifteen round draw with Tub Ryan, beat B. Curran, "Starlight," and Dan Keeley, after which he migrated to Johannesburg, south Africa, where he defeated an unknown in six rounds and fought a thirteen round draw with his old opponent, Tub Ryan.

After leaving south Africa he visited India, China, Japan, Samoa, New Zealand, Tasmania, Ceylon, and Hawaii. He returned to America in 1897 with little of his old vim left in him and fell an easy victim to Jeffries, Ruhlin, Maher, and others.

His last appearance in Chicago was at the old Adelphi theater on Wabash avenue, where he lost to "Klondike" on a foul. His last fight was with George Cole at Philadelphia last spring, when he was defeated.

DECLINES YANGER CHALLENGE.

Corbett Says He Will Fight McGovern First if He Has to Go to the Coast to Do It.

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The fact that John Hertz, manager of Benny Yanger, has posted $1,000 in cash to bind a match with "Young" Corbett is not disturbing the latter. When asked what he had to say to Yanger's challenge Corbett said:

"I am after McGovern now, and until I am convinced there is no possibility of us coming together I will not talk business with any one else. In the meantime I will have to ignore Yanger, not because I am afraid, but because I don't see how I can answer Yanger definitely until I have finished with McGovern."

Corbett has accepted as final the interdiction put upon his proposed boxing bout with McGovern before the Scituate Athletic club by Gov. Garvin of Rhode Island. Corbett says his taste of New England laws last summer in Connecticut was quite sufficient and he has called off the Scituate negotiations. California seems to be the only place where he and McGovern can come together. He has telegraphed Harry Corbett of San Francisco to ask one of the California clubs to offer a purse for the match.

Pugilistic Pointers.

Hugh McPadden and Tommy Sullivan are scheduled to go twenty rounds under the auspices of the West End Athletic club of St. Louis tonight.

"Kid" Herman and "Young" Mowatt will clash in a fifteen round bout at Jackson, Mich., on Monday night, and Eddie Toy and Austin Rice are slated to go twenty rounds at St. Louis on the same night.

The Fond du Lac Boxing club's matchmaker yesterday secured the following matches for the club's show on Jan. 28: George Henning and Joe Huguelet, 118 pounds; Andy Daly and Tony Moran, 122 pounds; Adam Ryan and Charlie Neary, 131 pounds.

Harry Forbes and Andrew Tokell, the English bantamweight champion, have been offered inducements to battle before the West End Athletic club of St. Louis and the Metropolitan Athletic club of Detroit. Forbes signified his willingness yesterday to fight before either club, so it is up to the Englishman.

THIRTY YEAR SENTENCE FOR SLAYER OF ELLA CROPSEY.

James E. Wilcox Is Found Guilty a Second Time of Murdering His Sweetheart—Jury Out Twenty-four Hours.

Hertford, N. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—James E. Wilcox, charged with killing Ella Cropsey, was found guilty of murder in the second degree this afternoon. The jury was out for twenty-four hours.

Wilcox was sentenced to the penitentiary for thirty years, the full limit of the law. His attorneys gave notice that an appeal will be taken to the Supreme court.

The crime for which Wilcox was found guilty is alleged to have been committed at Elizabeth City, N. C., on Dec. 20, 1901. He had called at the home of Ella Cropsey, and when leaving at 11 o'clock at night called the girl out into the hall. This was the last seen of her alive. Her body was found in the river, 300 yards from her home, thirty-seven days later, and a slight bruise was found on her head, which led to the theory advanced by the state that she had been hit with a blunt instrument and thrown into the stream.

The evidence against Wilcox was circumstantial. He was convicted of murder in the second degree at the first hearing last March, but a new trial was granted, and the case moved to an adjoining county.

LIVER ILLS
DR. RADWAY & CO., New York:
Dear Sirs—I have been sick for nearly twelve years and have been doctoring with some of the most expert doctors of the United States. I have been bathing and drinking hot water at Hot Springs, Ark., but it seemed everything failed to do me good. After I saw your advertisement I thought I would try your pills and have nearly used two boxes; been taking two at bedtime and one after breakfast, and they have done me more good than anything else I have ever used. My trouble has been with the liver. My skin and eyes were all yellow; I had sleepy, drowsy feelings; felt like a drunken man; pain right over the navel, like as if it were bile on top of the stomach. My bowels were costive. My mouth and tongue sore most of the time. Appetite fair, but food would not digest, but settle heavy on my stomach and some few mouthfuls of food come again. I could only eat light food that digests easily. Please send "Book of Advice." Respectfully,
BEN ZAUGG, Hot Springs, Ark.

WHEAT NOW OVER EIGHTY

STRONG EXPORT DEMAND MAIN FACTOR IN ADVANCE.

Foreign Markets Up Sharply, Wheat and Flour Sales Abroad, Large Shorts Covering, and Armour Still Under the Market—Other Domestic Markets Lag Behind—Corn and Oats Quiet but Firm—Packers Sell Provisions—January Pork at $19.

Wheat sold almost 1c higher yesterday for May than it has sold before and closed at an advance of ⅝@¾c for the day at 80⅝@80¾c, the range from 79⅝c to 80⅝@80¾c. Strong cables, foreign markets still showing a willingness to follow the advance here, and the continuance of the heavy export demand were again the effective bull motives, but the alarm of shorts and the growing congestion in the May delivery owing to the imposing Armour line of several times the amount of contract stocks here, gave the big holders more complete control than ever of the situation. There seemed to be selling by that interest on the early advance to the top price, which was followed by a reaction to 80⅛c, but the early sales seemed to be replaced on the break and there was another sharp advance to the high point, with only a slight reaction. There was buying of July by Armour brokers, and its discount, which has been gradually widening, was closed up a trifle to 75⅝c, a net gain of ⅝@¾c.

Other domestic markets did not follow the advance here, gaining ⅛c to ¼c only, but all sent strong cash news. St. Louis reported continental exporters raising their bids and the discount of No. 2 red cut in two to 1c under May. Minneapolis claimed sales of 500,000 bu No. 1 northern to millers, making total sales of 2,250,000 bu in four days, part to arrive and part from terminal elevators.

Flour Sold to Australia.

Large sales of flour were also reported from that milling center, including some to South Africa, and 12,000 brls to go to Australia by way of the Pacific coast. There were sales here of about 126,000 bu, part for shipment and part merely changing hands. The seaboard at the close reported 560,000 bu sold for export, with but the united kingdom still taking large quantities of spring wheat. Local exporters sold 200,000 bu direct of various grades at liberal advances, a business which may have been included in the seaboard total.

Liverpool was ½@⅝d higher, London up ⅝d, and Paris 1¼@½c higher. Private cables reported thrashing impeded in Argentina but the weather improving. Broomhall predicted shipments of 550,000 bu from Argentina this week. There were 85,000 bu No. 1 northern inspected out of store here. The movement was heavier than that of last year, primary receipts 542,000 bu, compared with 384,000 bu. The excess was all in the southwest and the quality of the wheat received there reported poor. Clearances were light at 111,000 bu.

A feature of the market was the broadening trade, and some increase in country buying orders. On the opening advance there was heavy covering by St. Louis houses. Profit taking was on a large scale, but a good deal of the long wheat was replaced on the strong cash news.

Corn a Quiet Market.

There was little speculative activity in corn, the May having a range of only ⅜c from 44⅛c up and closing at 44⅛-¼c, a gain of 1-16c, while deferred futures were a shade weaker. January sold at 48c and closed at 47⅞c, a gain of ⅜c, on scattered covering. The wheat strength was a help, but there seemed to be some realizing by important holders. The cash market was firm, ¼-½c higher, with a sharp demand for prompt shipment. Sales were 275,000 bu, largely for March shipment. The seaboard reported 300,000 bu for export and clearances were 480,000 bu. There were 347 cars here, with none contract, and 305 estimated for today. Primary receipts were 926,000 bu, compared with 293,000 bu last year. Liverpool was ⅛d higher to ⅝d lower on futures, and up ⅞d on Argentine spot corn on account of scarcity.

Oats were kept firm by the wheat strength, the trade light and largely local, May selling from 36⅛c to 36⅜c and closing at the lower figure, a gain of ⅛c. Country acceptances were light and the cash market firm, ⅛@½c higher, with sales of 150,000 bu for shipment. There were 193 cars in, with only 6 cars standard, and 7,800 bu standard inspected out of store. Estimated for tomorrow, 220 cars. Clearances, 9,000 bu, export sales at the seaboard 100,000 bu.

Jump in January Pork.

January pork was wanted by shorts, who in their anxiety to cover bid the price up from $18.00 to $19.00 a brl. About 5,000 brls changed hands at the top price, the demand being supplied by Cudahy brokers. The remainder of the list sold up quite sharply in the fore part of the session, but reacted in the last hour, closing barely steady. General buying by commission houses on outside orders and active covering by shorts, stimulated by a higher hog market, served to put prices up.

The advance, however, met with heavy realizing by holders who had liberal profits in sight. Packers did a large share of the selling, notably the Cudahys.

Hogs were 10@15c higher early, but slipped back 5c on the closing transactions. Receipts at western points aggregated 75,600, against 120,700 last year. Shipments of cured meats were 3,153,000 lbs, against 2,589,000 a year ago, and of lard 1,180,000 lbs, as against 1,377,000 lbs a year ago.

Rye was firm but quiet. May sold at 52c and closed at that figure. Cash No. 3 sold by sample at 48⅜@49c and No. 4 at 48c.

Barley was steady and a fair business was transacted. Malting grades were salable at 46@47c for poor up to 56@58c for choice. Screenings quotable at 42@46c.

Timothy seed was in good demand and firmer. Offerings moderate. Country lots sold by sample at $3.50@4.10 and $4.30 was bid for January delivery.

Flaxseed was quiet and easier in tone. May sold at $1.23. Cash No. 1 northwestern was nominally $1.24. Receipts here were 4 cars and in the northwest 27 cars.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

Estimated arrivals for today are: Wheat, 40 cars; corn, 305 cars; oats, 220 cars; hogs, 32,000.

Shorts in January pork gave up their policy of masterly inactivity yesterday and started in to cover their sales, putting the price to $19.00, an advance of 95c from the previous high point. There were a few trades on the way up and about 5,000 brls covered at the top. The supplies were supposed to come from the Cudahy lockers.

In the outside wheat markets there is less effort to keep up with the pace set by Chicago. Even at Minneapolis, which is the source of much of the bullish news which has been disturbing the shorts in Chicago May, there was an advance of only ⅛-¼c yesterday, and the close was 2c under Chicago, compared with ½c under a few days ago. St. Louis gained only ⅛c, and a pessimist there wired his broker, "If Chicago should go to 90c, we shall probably linger at 8c to 10c discount. There is nothing to bull wheat on here."

The Paris wheat market, which was quoted 2½c higher on the curb Wednesday afternoon, showed no such excitement yesterday, but gained 1¼-½c, and New York advices claimed that 500,000 bu May wheat were bought here for French account.

The correctness of the Armour position of the certainty of a large foreign demand for spring wheats of good quality from this country has been demonstrated from the beginning of the recent 6c upturn in this market, as the export demand has followed the advance each day. For eight days wheat has closed higher in this market than the day before, largely on Armour support, and in the face of local opposition from traders who felt convinced on each step of the advance that the big elevator concern was simply maneuvering for a hard spot to sell its wheat on. Instead there has been each day an increase of the important holding, with no clear indication that yesterday was an exception. Foreign buyers have apparently acted on the fear that any opportunity lost to buy wheat each day would mean the necessity of paying higher prices for it the next. The export sales reported by the seaboard yesterday were 560,000 bu, and all the offers of wheat made abroad by Richardson were accepted, a total of 25 loads, with higher prices paid by Germany, France, and the united kingdom, London paying 1½c more than the day before for Manitoba wheat. There are usually reports of reselling by exporters on any sharp advance, but there have been practically none so far.

Cars were worth $25.00 a piece yesterday to the shippers who could get hold of any for prompt loading on eastern roads. There were bids of 52½c for corn to Baltimore for prompt shipment, while there were offers of 50c for March shipment.

Eastern roads are retaliating on the western roads which have been lucky enough to be able to borrow their cars, and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois yesterday refused to accept orders on grain to several elevators on its road because its cars had been diverted from those houses to western lines.

The floor committee is busy again preventing violations of the rule prohibiting trading after the close, the active wheat market having led to some carelessness of the closing bell. The names of several traders were taken yesterday.

"The remarkable feature of the spring wheat situation," says Howard W. Commons of Minneapolis, "is that Minneapolis, which has a third of the visible supply of this country and Canada, at the same time has the strongest cash situation of any market in the country, has for the season the best cash premiums in ten years, and has the strongest general cash demand for wheat in ten years."

BUTTER MARKET RULES WEAK.

In Order to Keep Stock Reduced Dealers Are Forced to Sell at Lower Prices.

Further weakness developed in the butter market yesterday, sales of extra creameries ranging between 23¾c and 25c a pound. Prices for undergrades were also shaded. The demand from all sources continued slack and dealers in order to keep their stocks reduced found it necessary to sell at lower prices. Eggs were steady with the trade limited. Receipts of poultry were light and all kinds were salable at former prices. There was not much activity in the demand for fruits and vegetables. Receipts of the latter were smaller than of late.

GOOD 'PHONE SERVICE DUE

PRESIDENT SABIN SAYS THAT WILL BE THE AIM IN 1903.

Chicago Has Now 79,043 Instruments in Use as Against 36,414 Two Years Ago—Great Increase Last Year—Central Union Has a Moderately Good Twelve Months, Though All Profits Go Back Into the Property—Western Stone's Annual.

President John I. Sabin of the Chicago Telephone company announced to stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday that in the current year especial efforts would be made to increase the efficiency of the service. In his annual statement he said on this point:

"In 1903 particular attention will be devoted to the most efficient operation, in view of the great increase of the last year, and the constant current increase in telephone service required by the public."

The year 1902 was for the company, according to President Sabin, one of intense activity and great growth. The total increase in the number of telephone stations installed was 25,614, making a total on Dec. 31, 1902, of 79,043. The stations within the city increased 47.7 per cent and the stations in the company's territory outside of Chicago increased 48.7 per cent. In both cases the additional stations were satisfactorily distributed between business and residence. President Sabin adds:

"The great increase in the number of subscribers taxed the capacity of the operating force, which has successfully handled the continually growing number of subscribers. We have on hand 3,000 telephone orders unfilled. The policy of the company of placing equipment and service within the reach of every citizen at a price suited to his needs has continued to meet the most cordial approval of the public."

Statement of Earnings.

Earnings of the company for the year were equal to 10.02 per cent on the present outstanding capital, which, in the course of the year, was increased by $2,332,078. The comparative showing of revenue and expenses follows:

The company has had a prosperous career under Mr. Sabin's management. He is the originator of the nickel telephone and the measured service system, and owing to these innovations the number of telephone stations in the last two years has increased from 36,414 to 79,043 at the end of last year.

The business of the company for December was estimated because of inability to make up a complete statement. The directors probably will change the date of the annual meeting. The board elected yesterday follows:

Central Union's Year.

Net profits of the Central Union Telephone company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1902, were $180,345, or approximately 3.3 per cent on the present outstanding capital of $5,437,902. The annual meeting was held yesterday. President Sabin, in presenting the figures, announced:

"Your directors believe that the sum shown as net revenue should, in the interests of conservative management, be credited to line repair and maintenance."

The company issued no balance sheet, but the following revenue statement was presented:

Western Stone Profits Modest.

Western Stone profits for 1902 were equal to 2.96 per cent on the stock. At the annual meeting yesterday President Madden held out some hope for the shareholders in the coming year. His address was brief. He said among other things:

"The year 1902 has been more active in the building trades than any since 1895.

"The company has participated in the increased activity, and but for the damage caused by heavy rains of last summer, which flooded the quarries, the result would have been at least $30,000 better than it is.

"The bonded debt, which at your last meeting was $480,000, has been reduced to $272,000. The mortgage debt of $46,000 has been paid in full. The bills and accounts payable, which at your last meeting were $85,182, have been reduced to $63,440. The payment of the indebtedness above referred to, together with other economies which have been introduced, will cause an annual saving of $20,000. I have reason to hope that the company is entering upon an era of greater prosperity than it has enjoyed for some years past. The physical condition of the plant is excellent, well adapted to meet the increase in business which improved conditions lead me to hope for."

The balance sheet for the year shows a decrease in real estate owing to the sale of some property in Chicago. The comparative showing of quick assets and the balance sheet follow:

General Financial News.

Since last Friday the New York subtreasury has lost to the banks $2,829,000.

It is reported that the Sloss-Sheffield company is increasing its cash surplus over and above all fixed charges and preferred dividends at the rate of $10,000 a day.

Boston advices say that one of the subsidiary companies of the Amalgamated company earned sufficient money in 1902 to pay 2½ per cent on the big company's stock.

Such "advices" may be safely accepted as being false.

Manhattan L stock will sell ex-rights for $7,200,000 new stock next Tuesday. Stockholders of record of that date have the privilege of subscribing for new stock at par at the rate of 15 per cent of their holdings. These rights run until Feb. 15.

Local Interest Rates.

Local interest rates appear to be gradually working toward 5 per cent. One of the new trust companies is loaning both time and call funds on collateral at 5 per cent. The national banks get a better rate.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago Union Traction stock dropped quickly yesterday from 15 to 12, but recovered two points at the close. There was an impression that Union Traction would not be in control of the proposed consolidation, but rather the underlying companies. It is a fact, however, that present efforts have all originated with the large holders of Union Traction shares rather than the holders of the underlying issues.

City railway was firm at 230, but the trading was less than 100 shares.

American Can stocks were fairly steady. The changes were fractional.

There was considerable in Boxboard common, though the price changes were trifle.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, and Securities in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Money was fairly plentiful in the market today and it was difficult to maintain discounts in the face of the continental competition. An early reduction of the Bank of England's rate of discount was regarded as probable. Americans were dull and generally below parity owing to the hesitating and discouraging operations in New York.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Movement of Cattle, Hogs, Sheep, and Lambs, with the Range of Prices and Comparisons.

Receipts of cattle here yesterday were estimated at 16,000; hogs, 30,000; and sheep, 16,000. With supplies of cattle light there was a sharp advance noted. The best grades, that sell from $4.75 up, show advances of 10@15c. Cheaper kinds, those selling from $4.50 down, sold strong to 10c higher. Light receipts were purely responsible for the advance, and there is no call for heavier runs. The early market for butcher stock was 10@15c higher, but closed easy. More activity and stronger prices were noted in the stocker trade.

The same influences that strengthened the cattle market advanced hog prices, the opening market being 10@15c higher. There was a liberal business at the advance, but the late trade was weak, and half the advance lost. The top was $7.00.

Cattle.

Purely on lighter supplies of cattle than were expected the market ruled stronger all around and the supplies were well absorbed. In the steer line the most notable improvement was on the strictly good up to best styles of fat stock that sells from $4.75 up. There was a good strong eastern and export demand for these kinds, and they showed advances of around 15c to 20c. Sales showing 20c advances, however, were scarce, and 15c would about cover it. Steers that sell below $4.60 showed less advance. A number of sales were made at prices 10c to 15c higher, but the bulk sold steady to strong. Improvement in the general cattle market extended to butcher stock, and prices were 10c to 15c higher. Quotations:

Hogs.

The light receipts of hogs stimulated trade to such extent that sellers held out for good, substantial advances at the opening, and concessions of 10@15c were made by the buying side. Supplies were pretty well bought up at this advance. The late trade, while not of considerable volume, showed the bulk of the advance lost and trade slow and weak. Eastern shippers are buying heavier than for some time, and their increased orders have stimulated trade to a marked degree. A $7.00 top was made early in the day. Quotations:

Common to good, 245 to 400 lbs	6.35@6.75
Good to prime, 190 to 245 lbs	6.50@6.90

Pigs	3.00@6.00

Sheep.

Trade was active and the market steady to strong, instances being recorded where 10c higher was paid than Tuesday. Good lambs were more plentiful than on previous days of the week, but good sheep were scarce, accounting for the strength in that branch. Native lambs sold up to $6.25. Fed western lambs sold up to $6.00, a band at that price being 10c higher than was paid Tuesday. The early morning market was steady to strong with spots 5c to 10c higher, these spots being yearlings and choice lambs. Heavy sheep were in demand and sold steady to strong. Buyers wanted fat wethers for export trade. Quotations:

Good to choice wethers	$4.10@4.85

BARRETT TRIES A MIRACLE.

Sheriff Insists That County Building Elevators Be Operated Just Like Real Ones.

The real iridescent dream—all others are imitations—will become a reality if the spirit of an order issued by Sheriff Barrett yesterday is enforced. The sheriff actually insists that the elevators in the county building be operated just like other elevators.

"See to it that those elevators are kept running," he said to Deputy Peters. "If the operators are afraid of work, let me know and I'll try to find some others who are not."

Mr. Barrett also ordered a general house cleaning in the county building. The force, he thinks, is sufficient to preserve fairly good order. The county building pays $25,480 each year for the cleaning of the building, the force including fifteen janitors at $60 a month, four window cleaners at $60 a month, a head janitress at $83 a month, and twenty janitresses at $45 a month.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE

The undersigned, at the request of the holders of a large amount of the capital stock of the foregoing corporations, have consented to act as a Protective Committee for such of the stockholders as shall elect to make deposits of their holdings under an Agreement of Deposit, adopted by the Committee and filed with the Depositaries, the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank, of Chicago, and the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

The condition of the contractual relations between the corporations controlling the franchises operated by these Companies and the City, both as to duration and as to terms, is far from satisfactory to either party, and threatens to be the subject of a bitter controversy injurious to the municipality, to public and private interests, as well as to the stockholders, by postponing to an indefinite future the solution of the transportation problem in the City of Chicago.

It is the hope of the committee that this controversy can be set at rest by a prompt and prudent adjustment which will justify the investment of large sums of money in important and permanent changes and improvements in the construction, method of operation and equipment of the railroad properties, in order to render a satisfactory public service to the citizens of Chicago, equal, if not superior, to that of other large cities, and to secure the advantages of an economical administration of the properties controlled by these corporations.

The committee, so soon as there shall have been deposited with it such an amount of the capital stock of these corporations as, in their opinion, justifies such action, will undertake to prepare for the depositing stockholders a Plan for the foregoing purposes. Any stockholder not assenting to such plan, when formulated, will, under the terms of the Deposit Agreement, have the right to withdraw his deposited stock without expense. Negotiable receipts, or certificates, of the Depositaries will be given to depositing stockholders.

The time for making deposits hereunder is limited to the Fifteenth day of February, Nineteen Hundred and Three.

MARKET PRICES FIRMER.

STOCKS GAIN STRENGTH AND CLOSE HIGHER.

Money Conditions Lead to Hope of Still Better Bank Statement Next Saturday—Biggest Advance of Day Was in Colorado Fuel and Iron, of Which There Is Little to Be Had—Mergers, Combines, and Other Arrangements Still Talked Of.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Without any special developments in the shape of news to give a new aspect to the situation, the stock market today was much firmer, increasing in strength as the day advanced and closing with material net gains for the large majority of the stocks. There was, however, no expansion in the volume of trading, and the dealings were of course restricted to the professional class. The most active trading was in those stocks which have lately been the object of most interest—Erie, Reading, C. & O., Missouri Pacific, Rock Island, and Atchison.

There was practically no change in monetary conditions, except a slight show of increased firmness in time money. But the banks are still gaining cash largely, and the street looks forward to another good bank statement next Saturday. Shrewd market observers declare that there is every indication that the market was largely oversold and that the short interest was greater than at any time in nearly two years. The remarkable part of the matter is that this interest does not show to any material extent in the loan crowd, where the borrowing demand is little above the normal.

Bicycle common stock furnished the street a mild surprise during the day, when 2,400 shares came out at ⅛—that is to say, at 12½c per share. Inasmuch as the regular selling commission is ⅛, this would signify that were the seller other than a broker he would be actually giving his stock away. As a matter of fact, however, the stock was owned by a stock exchange member, so that he was able to keep his full $12.50 obtained for each 100 shares.

The biggest advance of the day in the active issues was in Colorado Fuel, which sold up nearly 4 points, the closing price being the highest of the day. The remarkable feature of the movement was that on the advance it was disclosed that there was practically no stock for sale, a buying order for 300 shares resulting in a jump in the quotation from 75 to 77 before a single share could be obtained.

Perhaps the most interesting development in the movement of the Erie shares was the selling of 10,000 shares of the first preferred stock around 70 by a single stock exchange house. The general opinion now is that the control of the property will remain indefinitely in present hands.

The advance in Rock Island naturally revived the story of a deal of some magnitude in which Rock Island will be the central figure. In this connection the latest gossip is that Atchison would figure in the deal and that a Mexican railroad—presumably Mexican Central—would also appear as a factor.

Canadian houses were said to be the buyers of Canadian Pacific, interest in which was stimulated by the rumor of an alliance with Great Northern and the further talk of a fast Atlantic service assured to it.

There was some selling of Illinois Central following the announcement that only the regular semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent had been declared, for in some quarters there had been expectation of an increase.

The demand for the coal stocks, with Reading a notable feature, was said to be due to the freer movement of coal and to the more hopeful and conciliatory utterances of President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers.

IN NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Today's stock market opened with the same listless tone and dull business that have characterized the dealings for some days. The bond market was dull and prices ruled steady. Total sales, par value, $1,881,000. U. S. 3s reg. and the 4s reg. advanced ¼ and the 3s reg. ¼ in the bid price.

Close—Money on call steady at 3½@4½ per cent; highest, 4½; closing offered, 4. Time money firmer; sixty days, 4¼@4¾ per cent; 90 days, 4¼@4¾ per cent; six months, 4¾@5 per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 5@5½ per cent; sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at 486.95 for demand and at 483.75@483.80 for sixty day bills. Posted rates, 484½ and 487½@488; commercial bills, 482⅞@483⅛; bar silver, 47⅛; Mexican dollars, 37½; government bonds weak; railroad bonds irregular.

FREIGHT RATES TOO HIGH.

IOWA EXPERT PROTESTS AGAINST RECENT ADVANCE.

Former Commissioner F. T. Campbell, in a Communication to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Declares the Companies Are Not Justified in Making Higher Charges—Cites Figures to Show That Earnings Are Increasing.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Former Railroad Commissioner Frank T. Campbell, for twenty years an expert in railroad rates and classifications, has filed a spirited protest with the interstate commerce commission against the recent advance of from 20 to 30 per cent in freight rates.

Mr. Campbell points out that this is the second advance in freight rates since 1899, the railroads in both instances giving the "increase in operating expenses" as an excuse. Yet, Mr. Campbell says, the gross earnings per mile in 1901 were $8,123, being an increase of $401 per mile over 1900. The operating expenses in 1901 were $5,269 per mile, an increase of only $276 per mile. In the face of this fact, he says, the new rates are thrust upon the country with the reiterated excuse that cost of material, labor, wages, and fuel has increased. He continues:

"The proposed increase in rates in the west is 20 cents a hundred on grain, 30 cents on provisions from Chicago to New York, two of the greatest staple commodities in the west. In addition, on over 80 per cent of the commodity, rates reduced below tariffs since March, there is to be an advance to old rates, and on cement, stone, and brick the advance is from 10 to 25 per cent above former tariffs. The advance on groceries and iron articles from Chicago to Colorado and Utah points is stated by the press to be over 100 per cent. There is also a large advance on live stock and many other articles.

Declares Advance Unreasonable.

"In behalf of the producers, consumers, and shippers of Iowa and the great west I desire to file with your honorable body an earnest protest against this latest proposed advance in rates and also to place on file what I feel sure are ample reasons, not only why the new rates should be rejected, but also why the present rates, classifications, etc., should be put back 25 per cent, or where they were in 1900 before the advance was made.

"Freight can be hauled, and is being, by the railroads one-half cheaper than ten years ago, on account of improvements in methods of transportation—reduction of grades, straightening and shortening of lines, enlargement of rolling stock, increase of speed, and other modern improvements.

"The railroads have already, by a 22 per cent increase in (1900) classification, more than recouped themselves for the claimed increase in expenses on account of advance in material, wages, etc.

"The increased tonnage of the country, on account of the increase and development of the shipping commodities of the country, promise still larger earnings and dividends. During the year 1900 there were 53,688,722 more passengers carried than in 1899. There were 141,916,655 more tons of freight carried in 1900 than the year previous. The passenger receipts were 2.003 cents on an average per mile, as against 1.925 cents in 1899. The average freight receipts per ton per mile were .750 cent in 1901, against .724 cent in 1899.

Wants the Books Opened.

"Before any further advance in rates is tolerated, your honorable body should require a financial showing by the corporations—an opening of books to the inspection of the commissioners, that the facts may be ascertained as to whether this demand for increased rates is justified. Here is a synopsis taken from interstate and state commissioners' reports for one year:

Increase in net earnings over 1899	75,531,294
Available for dividends	74,385,858
Net dividends over 1899	24,350,613
Surplus after dividends	87,657,933
Surplus June 30, 1901	77,544,735

Calls It Rate Extortion.

"The enormity of this new rate extortion on the shipping interests of the country is gradually being developed. In testimony before the commission Dec. 16 at Washington it was demonstrated that revenue to the amount of $400,000 would be added to the profits of one road alone by the proposed increase in rates. It developed in the testimony of Traffic Manager Grammer of the Lake Shore railroad that on a haul of fifty cars of grain from Chicago to Buffalo the railroad would receive a revenue of $3,600, while cost of operating the train would amount to only $260. Commissioner Prouty, in a pertinent inquiry addressed to Mr. Grammer, intimated that the Lake Shore road in the last ten months had paid the interest on its bonds, a 10 per cent dividend on its preferred stock, and 7 per cent on its common, and set aside $2,500,000 to surplus. This is a fair sample of earnings on eastern trunk lines. On western roads 5, 6, and 7 per cent dividends on common stock and 7 and 8 per cent on preferred are not uncommon on trunk lines, with a large surplus fund in reserve. The increased earnings, dividends, and surplus for 1901 and 1902 have so completely overwhelmed any increase in operating expenses that there is no ground whatever for another advance in rates.

Iowa Hard Hit.

"The state of Iowa has been hit hard by the advances already made in rates by increasing classifications 22 per cent on interstate traffic and afterwards a similar advance by the Iowa commissioners on local traffic, the corporations gaining in revenue over $10,000,000 in gross earnings."

DRIVEN TO DRINK BY LOANERS.

Telegraph Operator Charges His Downfall to Persecutions by Men from Whom He Borrowed Money.

"Money lenders have driven me to what I am," was the explanation made by B. Carroll, a telegraph operator, when brought before Justice Dooley yesterday charged with beating his wife and children. Carroll married a widow with two children a year ago, and they live at 181 Blue Island avenue.

"Before my marriage I began doing business with these money lenders," Carroll told the justice, "and they have driven me to desperation. I am in debt to five of them to the extent of about $300. I have been unable to meet the notes, with the result that almost every week my salary has been garnisheed. I have been compelled to pay exorbitant interest.

"I worked day after day, weeks and months, only to learn that my money already had been drawn by these 'sharks.' I was hounded continually by their agents and lawyers. I dreamed they were tearing me limb from limb in their eagerness to procure money from me. To forget it all I took to drink, and I went from bad to worse.

"The money lenders are making me dance and the saloonkeepers make me sing. I work every day almost, but never know if there is any pay coming to me. I manage to scrape together enough money to satisfy the saloonkeepers and to procure whisky enough to temporarily forget my troubles with the money lenders. I neglected my wife and children and abused them."

Carroll wept as he spoke. He asked to be sent to the workhouse, which was done. When he is released Justice Dooley is going to assist him in defeating the money lenders.

SEEK A MISSING FRENCH BOY.

Police Asked to Find Charles Vivier, Said to Be in the Consular Service.

The police have been asked to search for Charles Vivier, who boarded a steamer in Milwaukee on the evening of Dec. 26 and has not been seen since. Vivier, who is 17 years old, is said to have been an attaché of the French consular service. He came to this country from Paris recently and is thought to have had considerable money in his possession. As no motive for disappearance is known, it is feared that he jumped or fell from the boat while on his way from Milwaukee to Chicago.

MORE CHANGES IN RATES ON STOCKYARDS RISKS.

So Many Amendments to the Schedule Are Offered, However, That Underwriters Take a Recess Till Tomorrow.

So many amendments were suggested to the new stockyards schedule at the meeting of the Chicago Underwriters' association yesterday that its consideration could not be concluded, and an adjournment was taken to Friday afternoon.

In addition to a number of technical changes, it was decided that plants outside the stockyards proper should have an advantage of 15 cents in the rate for the absence of the conflagration hazard, but only on condition that they have an adequate water supply. The officials of the association said that none of the outside plants could comply with the condition as regards water supply at present.

It is believed that the schedule will be completed on Friday, and that its effect will be to increase the rates on the poorer risks and lower them on the better plants, and in general to encourage improvements.

Norman B. Ream has been elected a director of the New York Life, to succeed the late Thomas B. Reed.

The answers of the unauthorized fire insurance companies against which the Illinois insurance department is asking writs of injunction, have been filed, and the case is ready to go to master in chancery.

H. D. Wright, superintendent of the Metropolitan Life at Minneapolis, has been transferred to the Humboldt district in Chicago, succeeding John V. Smith.

F. C. Moore, who retired last week as president of the Continental Fire, is in the city bidding farewell to his underwriting associates. He will go to Europe for a two years' stay.

FAMILIAR CHARACTER IS DEAD.

Aged Negro, Said to Have Been Employed in White House at One Time, Victim of Exposure.

Thomas Gay, 87 years old, colored, who for ten years had been a familiar figure on the north side, was found dead in his home, 35 East Chicago avenue, yesterday afternoon. His death is thought to have been due to exposure, as he was found wrapped in an old blanket and was lying on the floor near the stove. The man evidently had been dead several weeks.

Gay is said to have been employed as a servant by several prominent families in the south, and while Abraham Lincoln was president it is alleged Gay was employed in the White house as a servant. According to Edward Kelly, 247 East Chicago avenue, Gay asserted he was employed by the late prime minister of England, William E. Gladstone.

Gay, as far as the police are able to ascertain, had no relative living in Chicago. The body was taken to Smith's undertaking rooms, Orleans street and Chicago avenue.

CAT ENDS THREE WEEKS' FAST.

Feline a Prisoner for Twenty-one Days Between the Walls in a Hotel.

After having been walled in behind the panels of the Dutch room of the Stratford hotel for twenty-one days the house cat of that hotel was liberated yesterday. The Dutch room was opened on New Year's evening, and it is supposed that the cat was imprisoned by the carpenters at that time. Yesterday a feeble scratching was heard, and when a panel was removed the cat walked out. The animal was hardly able to stand, but is expected to recover from its long fast.

CLAIRVOYANTS.

WONDERFUL GIFTS—
MR. ESTEBAN VERNE'S
extraordinary clairvoyant powers, combined with his superior knowledge of occult forces, enable him to read human life with unerring accuracy from infancy to old age. His powers are wonderful and indisputable, his advice is reliable, his information is clear, concise, and to the point in love, courtship, marriage, divorce suits, wills, patents, journeys, pensions, investments, speculation, property, insurance, mortgages, oil, and mining claims, diseases, etc.
WITHOUT ASKING A QUESTION, without any previous knowledge, and having no natural means of knowing who you are, whence or for what you came, he tells your name, age, occupations, where you live, the number of your house, and the street you live on. He tells you names of your friends and enemies, who is true and who is false. Tells whom and when you will marry, giving names, dates, facts, and locations, taking no fee in advance, accepting none unless satisfaction is given.
SPECULATION AND INVESTMENT.
His advice is much sought for by those contemplating investing and speculating. The dollar properly invested today has seldom failed to make the poor man rich.
$500 FORFEIT.
I will forfeit $500 where I fail to teach you how to fascinate any one you desire, how to make your enemies your friends, cause a speedy marriage with the one of your choice, give you good luck, remove evil influences, reunite the separated, give lucky numbers, locate the earth's buried treasures, settle the old estates that time has placed beyond the lawyer's shrewdness, make you successful in your business, and positively complete your business in 33 days.

FOR THE HOME—

KIMBALL PIANO.

As a home product it appeals to your pride. As the result of the best inventive skill and labor saving devices it is the most desirable from an economical standpoint.

As the choice of such musical artists as Eames, Nordica, De Reszke, Patti, and hundreds of the most gifted and illustrious musicians of modern times, it must be to you as satisfying as to the WORLD'S MASTERS.

Also that famous product of the east, THE HALLET & DAVIS PIANOS, long the Boston favorite.

Wonderful mechanism is the KIMBALL PIANO PLAYER.

With fingers which have unlimited command over the keyboard, it plays any tune on any piano. Thus it seems endowed with intelligence and passion, saving you years of arduous toil in the study and practice of music.

CALL RATE ON STOCK FAIR

WITNESSES HEARD BY INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

Manager Kenyon of Omaha Yards Refuses to Say How Much Capital Is Invested There, but Testifies That Most of the Animals in Three States Are Shipped to Chicago — Representatives of St. Joseph and Sioux City Give Similar Evidence.

Missouri river live stock markets think they suffer just as much from discrimination by railroads as Chicago does. This was the testimony yesterday before the interstate commerce commission.

The day was devoted to the charges of the Chicago Live Stock exchange except for a short interval, when M. Flippin, general export agent of the Mobile and Ohio, made a statement about discrimination in rates on imported goods.

Manager of Omaha Yards Testifies.

William J. C. Kenyon, manager of the Union Stockyards company of Omaha, was the only witness during the morning session. President Stickney of the Chicago Great Western railway was an interested spectator and frequently put questions to the witnesses. He made a futile attempt to ascertain the amount of money there is invested in the packing industry at Omaha.

Mr. Kenyon had testified that the railroad companies favor Chicago as a live stock market in preference to any of the Missouri river cities. It seemed to be President Stickney's object to make the point that Omaha and other packing towns receive their share of shipments in proportion to their size and the amount of money they have invested.

"What is the probable investment in the packing plants at Omaha? Is it $5,000,000?" queried Mr. Stickney.

Mr. Kenyon stroked his red whiskers and looked wise, but said nothing. Seeing that he was not inclined to answer, President Stickney propounded the question:

"Well, now, Mr. Kenyon, we all remember what they talked of when Armour finished his plant there, but tell me what is the actual investment?"

"Well," interposed Mr. Kenyon, "there is a big difference between talking for advertising purposes and talking for taxation, you know."

"Can't you give us some idea?" asked Mr. Stickney.

Most Stock Shipped to Chicago.

Mr. Kenyon introduced a tabulated statement showing that Chicago received most of the cattle, hogs, and sheep raised in Missouri, Iowa, and Minnesota. He claimed that St. Joseph, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Louis, Sioux City, St. Paul, and Minneapolis are all discriminated against by the railroads.

Transportation service, he said, and especially freight train schedules, are in favor of the Chicago market, and shippers, knowing that Chicago is a larger market, send more of their fattened cattle to this city than to South Omaha.

Under cross examination Mr. Kenyon said he understood that Chicago was the only market in which shippers were discriminated against by charges for terminal switching service.

During the afternoon session representatives of the live stock interests of St. Joseph, Omaha, and Sioux City were examined, and their testimony, like that of Mr. Kenyon, was to the effect that their towns are suffering just as much from discrimination by the railroads as is Chicago, and that if the commission were to order a reduction in live stock rates from the Missouri river to Chicago their interests would suffer.

Changes in Eastern Illinois.

W. J. Jackson, assistant general superintendent of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad since July, 1899, has been promoted to the position of general superintendent in place of E. P. Broughton, who has been assigned to other duties. Mr. Jackson was born in Toronto, and has been in railway service since 1887, starting as machinists' helper in the shops of the Grand Trunk railway at Toronto.

Mr. Broughton, who retires from the general superintendency of the road has been in the company's service since December, 1879.

R. R. Hammond, whose appointment as general manager of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois was announced a week ago, arrived here yesterday and assumed the duties of his new position. Mr. Hammond has been for a number of years the general superintendent of the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis railroad, which, like the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, is now a part of the St. Louis and San Francisco system.

BILL TO PREVENT RATE CUTTING

Senator Elkins Introduces Anti-Trust Measure Directed Toward Railway Rebates and Charges.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Senator Elkins today introduced a bill which covers the features of anti-trust legislation so far as it relates to railroads. It provides for the punishment of corporations by fine instead of imprisonment of the officials; also for injunctions to prevent discriminations.

Its purpose is to separate interstate commerce and railroads from other trust legislation.

Among the provisions of the bill are the following: The willful failure to file tariff rates and observe them subjects the road to a fine of $1,000 to $20,000; granting or receiving rebates subjects the corporations or persons to the same fine. The interstate commerce commission can institute suits in the United States courts for supposed infractions of the law. It is the duty of the United States district attorneys, under direction of the attorney general, to institute and prosecute suits provided for in the act.

The bill also gives the courts power to compel the attendance of witnesses, both carrier and shipper, who are required to answer on all subjects relating directly or indirectly to the controversy; the court also can compel the production of all books and papers.

All infractions of the law prior to the passage of the bill are punishable under the existing measure, which is amended by the Elkins bill.

The entire measure is so contrived as to seek to make it practically impossible for railroads to depart from published schedules and give preferred rates and rebates to any particular shippers.
